HURLEY URGES U.S. EXPLAIN POLICY IN CHINA; DEMAND IN HOUSE FOR INQUIRY

Gen. Marshall to Take Post Soon—Diplomats Retiring Envoy Complained of Now Advisers to MacArthur.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, who resigned as Ambassador to China, welcomed today President Truman's selection of Gen. George C. Marshall as his temporary successor.

Hurley said he thought Marshall's appointment would be "helpful to the situation in China."

In announcing his resignation yesterday, Gen. Hurley charged that United States policy in China was being rendered ineffective by some career diplomats who, he said, "sided with the Chinese Communist armed party and the imperialistic bloc of nations whose policy it is to keep China divided against itself."

Hurley's charges brought forth demands in the House of Representatives for an investigation of America's foreign policy and its foreign service personnel.

Two Republican members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee —Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts and Vorys of Ohio—suggested Hurley be called by the committee "to give the facts."

Calls for Policy Statement.

In a telephone interview, Hurley followed up his earlier statement with two proposals:

1. That the State Department issue a public statement of policy toward China.

2. That the United States also issue a "positive statement" that it intends to "stabilize China until the United Nations Organization can take over that responsibility."

He declined to discuss the point in detail but said he thought a positive statement would "do a lot to clear up the situation."

"It might be worth several divisions," he said.

Hurley sent a telegram to Gen. Marshall offering "hearty congratulations."

Marshall Sees Truman.

Marshall spent an hour in President Truman's study at the White House today and Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said the General would leave for China "as soon as possible."

Secretary of State Byrnes discussed Hurley's resignation at a press conference. He said George Atcheson Jr. and John S. Service were the only two American diplomats in Chungking about whom Hurley had complained to him. Atcheson is now adviser to Gen. Douglas MacArthur in Tokyo, and Service is Atcheson's assistant. (George Atcheson Jr. should not be confused with Dean G. Acheson, Under Secretary of State.)

In Byrnes's expressed view the only specific complaints brought to his attention by Hurley actually concern differences of opinion and in those cases, he said, Hurley's opinion prevailed.

Speech by Hurley.

Meanwhile, Hurley spoke before the National Press Club, defending the presence of American troops in China.

"What Gen. Wedemeyer is doing in China now is distinctly a closing phase of our war against Japan," Hurley said, referring to Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, United States commander in China.

Hurley said British, French and Dutch imperialists in Asia were hamstringing the professed policy

CLARK TELLS STATE LAWYERS OIL SUIT WILL BE PUSHED

U. S. Attorney General Invades "Lions' Den" of Quitclaim Bill Backers as Dinner Speaker of State Attorneys General.

By EDWARD A. HARRIS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 28 —The smooth-running conference of the state attorneys general struck a live mine last night at its annual dinner when United States Attorney General Tom C. Clark, guest of honor, made an unexpected and militant defense of the Government's test suit on the tidelands oil issue.

The National Association of Attorneys General has been waging a relentless fight for passage of quitclaim legislation that would kill the test suit. A few hours before Clark spoke association leaders had denounced the litigation as raising a "false issue" and constituting harassment of the states.

Clark's speech had the effect of nitroglycerin. Many of the attorneys general grew hostile and restless as they became aware of the purpose of Clark's inferential attack on their support of the quitclaim legislation. Three arose from their tables and departed from the ballroom.

The association president, John M. Rankin of Iowa, who earlier had indicated to the Post-Dispatch that he was not averse to letting the Supreme Court determine the issue, become so wroughtup at Clark's remarks that he, too, left the room. He waited, however, until the moment Clark had ceased speaking.

Outside, in the mezzanine of the hotel, he told the writer that Clark's talk had "not exactly" made him ill, but that he considered it an ill-advised onslaught on states' rights.

A murmur of surprise went through the ballroom as Clark spoke. Although Clark had acknowledged that he was invading the "lions' den" and that his listeners would be happy when he left town, the assembled attor-

POLICE UNION LIST OF MEMBERS SENT OUT OF THE STATE

Local Mails Roster to Wisconsin Office to Forestall Any Effort to Subpena It.

Membership records of the newly organized St. Louis police union have been hurriedly sent out of the state to forestall any effort by the Board of Police Commissioners to subpena them, the Post-Dispatch learned today.

The records were sent by registered mail to the Madison (Wis.) national headquarters of the AFL American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes. This action was taken immediately after the Police Board last Friday held, by a vote of 3 to 1, that a police union is illegal and announced that immediate steps would be taken to enforce rules which forbid unionization under penalty of dismissal.

"If anyone swoops down on the office of the St. Louis District Council at 3610 Cozens avenue with a subpena, all he'll find relating to the police local will be some blank application cards," a member of the union stated. "Members have been assured the records won't be brought back into St. Louis until this question of the union's legality is cleared up."

The police commissioners will meet tomorrow to receive a report on Police Inspector Maurice Mulcahy's investigation of the union and to decide on disciplinary action to enforce the rules against organizing. Members of the police force have been directed to answer, in writing, questions about union membership and participation in the organization work, and their statements were being assembled today.

Union enrollment was particularly heavy among commissioned officers and employes attached to the Newstead avenue station, 79 reporting they belonged and only eight disclaiming membership. At the Deer street station, 54 answered yes and 58 no to the question of affiliation; Penrose street station, 25 yes and 125 no; Magnolia avenue, 38 yes and 67 no; Lynch street, 62 yes and 86 no; Page boulevard, 13 yes and 99 no; Central district, 23 yes and 152 no; traffic bureau, 61 yes and 102 no; detective bureau, 38 yes and 67 no.

It appeared, however, that the key question put to the men had been ineptly phrased, giving many

OIL BILL BACKER OPENLY ATTACKS SUPREME COURT

Sellers of Texas Assails 'Too Fast Precedent-Upsetting' in Speech to Attorneys General.

By EDWARD A. HARRIS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 28 —The tidelands oil controversy emerged as the biggest issue at the annual conference of the National Association of Attorneys General today. Developments yesterday included:

A surprise attack on the United States Supreme Court by Attorney General Grover Sellers of Texas, sponsor of a resolution urging Congress to take immediate action on the tidelands quitclaim bill. The bill would kill the Government's test suit pending in the Supreme Court.

The hope expressed by the association president, John M. Rankin of Iowa, in his opening address, that the Supreme Court will speedily determine the tidelands case.

A direct rebuke to the Truman administration by Attorney General Robert W. Kenny of California for proceeding with the test suit after Tom C. Clark succeeded Francis B. Biddle as Attorney General.

Proponents of the quitclaim legislation never before had openly criticized the Supreme Court in the mounting storm over the tidelands issue. They had taken the position that the court undoubtedly would uphold the state of California if the case came to a decision. They argued that judicial hearings and inquiries would take so long that it was imperative for Congress to settle the matter without recourse to the court.

Criticism of Court.

Despite their insistence that their legal case was airtight, there have been some whispered fears that the Supreme Court might hand down a decision favorable to the Government. Sellers expressed these fears publicly for the first time yesterday at a "round table" discussion of the tidelands case. He departed from his carefully prepared speech to do so and, it was apparent, took even Kenny by surprise.

"Gentlemen," said Sellers, "I think, if there is anything wrong with the United States Supreme Court today, it is that it's going

TOKYO, Nov. 28 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur relayed to Marine Corps headquarters a request by Brig. Gen. Hanford MacNider that his son, Pfc. Jack MacNider, be permitted to return home from Tokyo, but MacArthur has no knowledge of young MacNider's discharge, a headquarters spokesman said today.

Marine Corps headquarters in Washington said yesterday that Private MacNider's return and discharge with 38 points, 12 short of the number normally required, were "in accordance with the radio request of Gen. MacArthur."

Gen. MacArthur's spokesman made public this exchange of radio messages:

To Gen. A. A. Vandegrift, Marine Corps commandant:

"MacNider very anxious bring his son Private First Class Jack MacNider Fifth Marine Division now on furlough in Tokyo back with him to United States to continue his medical schooling. If you can authorize such procedure be glad arrange air transportation for return with his father to United States where he will report any station you may designate."

The reply:

"Procedure outlined is authorized. Please direct Pfc. Jack MacNider report Marine barracks naval training center, Great Lakes, Ill., duty and grant him 30 days' delay en route if he so desires."

MacArthur has no administration over Marine Corps personnel and the message exchange speaks for itself, the headquarters spokesman commented.

Gen. MacNider, former national commander of the American Legion who served in both world wars, said at Mason City, Ia., that his son, now 18 years old, had enlisted on his seventeenth birthday and "I asked for permission to bring him back (from Japan) with me, so he might continue his premedic studies."

GREW TESTIFIES HE DESTROYED SOME U.S. CODES BEFORE ATTACK

Felt That Meeting Between F. D. R. and Konoye Might Have Halted Jap Aggression —Proposal Rejected.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—Former Ambassador Joseph C. Grew testified today that some codes used by the American embassy in Tokyo were destroyed before war broke out Dec. 7, 1941.

Some were not destroyed until after the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor on that date, he told the Senate-House committee investigating the disaster.

Destruction of codes is a step usually taken only when a break in relations is expected.

Grew said that in the autumn of 1941 "we in Tokyo felt that if Price Minister Konoye and President Roosevelt could meet face to face" this might halt Japanese aggression. The witness previously had told of secret efforts by Prince Konoye in September, 1941, to arrange a "peace" meeting with the President.

Proposal Rejected.

Evidence has shown that Roosevelt and Cordell Hull, then secretary of state, turned down the idea because they felt such a meeting might do more harm than good.

Later in his testimony, Grew said that no one could say now whether Konoye could have carried out, over the opposition of Japanese warlords, any commitments he might have made to Roosevelt. Furthermore, Grew said there was the possibility that Prince Konoye might have been "trying to pull the wool over our eyes" and give the military more time to prepare. He said he doubted this, however, because the military leaders felt they were ready.

Konoye's cabinet fell in October, 1941, and was succeeded by the military administration of Premier Tojo.

The inquiry also brought these developments today:

Moves within the committee to hear Gen. George C. Marshall before the former chief of staff leaves for China as President Truman's special envoy.

A brief flurry over a suggestion by Senator Brewster (Rep.) Maine, that committee counsel be permitted to go through Grew's personal diary in search of items that perhaps should be studied.

Destruction of Codes.

Grew told of the destruction of the codes after Senator Ferguson (Rep.), Michigan, asked him:

"Do you remember when you got word to destroy codes in the embassy at Tokyo?"

"We destroyed some of our codes a few days before Pearl Harbor," Grew replied. "We kept certain

SEVERE QUAKE, TIDAL WAVE CAUSE CASUALTIES IN INDIA

Believed to Have Centered in Gulf of Oman Area; High Sea Rolls in Near Bombay.

BOMBAY, Nov. 28 (AP) — One of the severest earthquakes of the century, believed to have centered in the Indian ocean around the Gulf of Oman, jiggled seismographs in many parts of the world today.

What was described by some as a tidal wave rolled into Bombay suburbs and swept a number of fisherfolk out to sea. Bodies of three women were recovered. Numerous communities in West India were shaken after 6:29 a.m. (4:29 p.m. Tuesday, St. Louis time). Buildings trembled at Karachi.

The violence of yesterday's earthquake off the west coast of India was such that the tremors could not be entirely recorded on the seismographs at St. Louis University. They lasted for nearly five hours. The last shocks were recorded at 11 p.m.

"The beam of light which records the tremors on foot-wide sensitive paper was going off both sides of the paper by large margins," the Rev. James B. Macelwane S.J., dean of the Institute of Geophysical Technology, said.

BYRON PRICE SAYS SITUATION IN REICH IS WORSE, CALLS FOR U. S. REVIEW

Report to Truman Asserts We 'Must Decide Whether We Mean to Finish the Job Completely or Withdraw.'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—Byron Price bluntly warned today that the situation in occupied Germany is growing worse hourly and the United States Government must soon decide whether it will abandon its first major attempt to rule a conquered people.

The former censorship director made the assertions in a report on a survey of conditions in the Reich for President Truman. The report was made public by the White House and the President sent it to State, War and Navy Departments with a request for careful study.

Price called for a re-examination of the entire structure of military government in Germany, including the Potsdam Declaration; blamed France for most of the current occupation difficulties, and declared that France should tell the world whether it is bent on dismemberment of Germany.

"Old and New Hatreds."

The German people "nursing old and new hatreds with mounting bitterness," he said, are "listening hourly" for the voice of a new leader that "desperation may produce."

Among the points made by Price:

"The United States must decide whether we mean to finish the job competently . . . or withdraw.

"We must decide whether we are going to permit starvation, with attendant epidemics and disorders, in the American zone, or ship food to prevent it.

"We must decide whether obstructions raised by the French government . . . are to be permitted to defeat the underlying purposes of Allied policy.

"The next few months . . . will determine whether the American Government, in its first large-scale attempt at governing a conquered people, is to succeed, or fail, or abandon the effort.

"All of our propaganda efforts to instill a sense of collective German guilt have fallen falt."

Truman, in a brief statement accompanying Price's report, said it "is worthy of the most careful consideration."

"Economic Dismemberment."

The report amplifies Price's assertion that as a result of the French attitude, "Germany is not being treated as an economic unit," but is being handled in a way that virtually amounts to "its economic dismemberment."

"The necessity of breaking the

GEN. DONOVAN QUITS U. S. STAFF AT NUERNBERG TRIAL

Former O. S. S. Chief Will Return to Private Law Practice in New York.

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1945.

NUERNBERG, Nov. 28 — Maj. Gen. William Donovan, former chief of the Office of Strategic Services, has withdrawn from the staff of the American prosecution at the war crimes trial here and will return to private law practice in New York.

Donovan, who will go home after a short tour of western Europe, said that he had told Justice Robert H. Jackson some time ago that he could not stay with the case beyond Dec. 1.

There have been persistent rumors of differences of opinion between Jackson and Donovan over the presentation of the prosecution, but these are officially denied. Many parts of the case against the Nazi leaders are based on evidence gathered by Donovan's O.S.S. agents during the war.

WLB TO HALT 'ILLEGAL' PAY RISES IN BUILDING INDUSTRY

Collet Assured of Action at Conference After Check-Up Indicates Unstabilizing Increases.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—Stabilization Director John C. Collet said yesterday the War Labor Board would act to halt "illegal" wage increases in the building and construction industry.

After conferences with the WLB wage stabilization unit and the construction industry's wage adjustment board, Collet said he had assurance that regulations governing wage payments would be enforced strictly.

The WLB said the decision to push enforcement came after a check-up indicated unstabilizing wage increases were being given in the construction industry. The Bureau of Internal Revenue can refuse to accept unauthorized wage payments as deductible items of cost in the employer's tax returns.

NAZIS PLANNED TO SEIZE AUSTRIA FROM FIRST, SAYS U. S. ENVOY'S AFFIDAVIT

INTENDED TO USE WHATEVER MEANS WERE NECESSARY, DIPLOMAT STATES

Arguments Set for Friday on Rudolf Hess's Condition — Court Questioners to Interview 4 Noted Britons.

(Pictures in Everyday Magazine)

NUERNBERG, Nov. 28 (AP)—The prosecution at the trial of 20 Nazi leaders before the international military tribunal presented evidence from an American diplomat today that the Nazis schemed from their earliest days of power to absorb Austria.

The charge was contained in an affidavit by George S. Messersmith, former United States minister to Austria and now ambassador to Mexico.

"From the beginning of the Nazi government, I was told by high and secondary government officials in Germany that incorporation of Austria into Germany was a political and economic necessity and that this incorporation was going to be accomplished by 'whatever means were necessary,'" Messersmith stated in his affidavit.

Ribbentrop Wins Point.

Other developments were:

The tribunal ruled that witnesses living abroad may give depositions to court-appointed questioners and that such affidavits may be used by the defense.

Questioners will be sent to interview Lord Vansittart, former British undersecretary of state; Lords Beaverbrook and Kilmsley, London publishers; and Lord Londonderry. All have been requested as witnesses for former German foreign minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Report on Hess's Condition.

The tribunal announced that arguments would be heard Friday on Rudolf Hess's plea to escape the war crimes trial on the ground of amnesia after psychiatrists described Adolf Hitler's one-time deputy as "not insane at the present time in the strict sense of the word."

The report of American psychiatrists said Hess's hysterical behavior, which was "initiated as a defense against circumstances in which he found himself while in England," has now become "partly habitual and will continue as long as he continues under the threat of punishment."

Showing of motion pictures of Nazi atrocities, which was scheduled for today, was put off because of slight changes in the prosecution procedure. The films, which are to be entered as evidence, were exhibited to defense counsel last night.

American prosecutors met their first setback of the trial when the court ruled against their move to introduce an affidavit from Kurt Schuschnigg, deposed as chancellor and jailed for seven years by Hitler, in which he told of Nazi plotting against Austria.

The Austrian leader's affidavit was made last Nov. 19 in Nuernberg and the tribunal upheld a defense contention that Schuschnigg should testify personally instead of by affidavit.

Some Requests Granted.

The court made it plain that any witnesses asked for by the defense could testify personally if they appeared voluntarily.

In many cases, the tribunal asked for additional information on requested defense witnesses.

The court granted the request of Former Minister of Economics Walther Funk that his wife be summoned.

Hjalmar Schacht's request for Banker Jeidels, who fled from Germany to the United States, was refused. A written statement will be accepted, however.

Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl received court sanction to summon Col. Gen. Franz Halder, once Hitler's chief of staff.

"Flowering of Fifth Column."

Assistant United States Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman, who presented Messersmith's affidavit on the Nazi plans to seize Austria, said Hitler's lightning invasion of that country in March 1938 represented the "flowering of the fifth column." Alderman declared that the Fuehrer's plans for acquisition of his neighbor nation were shown on the first page of "Mein Kampf."

Introduction of Messersmith's affidavit was challenged by German defense counsel, who contended that the diplomat should

GENERAL MOTORS STRIKE LEADERS SEE CONCILIATOR

G.M.C. Head Says He Can't Confer With Government Aid for Several Days.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—An eight-man delegation of the CIO United Auto Workers sat down in conference today with Federal Conciliation Chief Edgar L. Warren on the General Motors strike situation.

Neither R. J. Thomas nor Walter Reuther, the union's president and vice president, made any comment before the meeting. Reuther is directly in charge of the strike for a 30 per cent wage increase.

C. E. Wilson, General Motors president, said in Detroit late yesterday that he and other corporation executives could not confer with Warren for several days at least.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach had announced earlier that representatives of both parties had assured Warren of their intention to confer with him today.

Wilson said he told Warren by telephone that because of the strike he would be unable to attend the national labor-management conference in the capital this week. Warren had planned to confer with company and union heads separately during time out from that conference. After three earlier telephone conversations with Wilson, the conciliator said he had been led to believe the General Motors president would agree to a meeting with him this week.

YAMASHITA DENIES HE GAVE ORDERS FOR ATROCITY ACTS

Defendant, on Stand, Says He Didn't Even Know of Them—Was Under Terauchi.

MANILA, Nov. 28 (AP)—Bluff, bullet-headed Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, testifying in his own defense, described himself today as a subordinate commander having somewhat of a bystander role in the defense of the Philippines and hence not accountable for the long list of Japanese atrocities detailed by the prosecution in his war crimes trial.

Taking the witness stand, before the United States military tribunal, Yamashita declared he always was under orders of Field Marshal Count Hisaichi Terauchi, supreme Japanese commander for the southwest Pacific, and never had control of the air force, marine transportation corps, naval men and 30,000 other Japanese troops in the Philippines.

Asked whether he ordered or knew of atrocities, Yamashita gestured with his large, muscular hands and replied through his interpreter, "No, absolutely not."

Further, Yamashita insisted, he had determined that Manila was indefensible and had ordered his troops out last December.

Yamashita contended it was Japanese Navy troops that remained there, although he didn't know of it at the time, and that he himself never at any time even had his headquarters in the city.

While the general was testifying, the Philippine supreme court denied his counsel's contention that the military tribunal was illegal

British Cultists Venerate Hitler As Divine Instrument, Paper Says

LONDON, Nov. 28 (AP)—London newspapers headlined today reports that an organization known as the Legion of Christian Reformers, said to regard Adolf Hitler as "a divine instrument," had been formed in England last week.

The news stories followed an auction yesterday of a huge granite bust of Hitler and Nazi flags from the former German embassy in London which was marked by spirited bidding.

Offers on the bust started jocularly at "two bob" (40 cents). Capt. R. Gordon-Canning, former member of the British Union of Fascists, immediately snapped "ten pounds" ($40) and, after counter bidding, purchased the granite head for £500 ($2000).

Gordon-Canning, who was imprisoned for two years during the war under defense regulations, told reporters the bust might "go back to Germany in about 25 years time."

present at the sale was a man identifying himself as J. L. Battersby, general secretary of the Legion of Christian Reformers, with headquarters in "Kingdom House," a gray stone mansion on a 16-acre Sussex estate "donated by a friend."

Battersby, did not enter the bidding, one newspaper said, but told one man that Gordon-Canning was willing for the bust to go to Kingdom House and remain there as "an object of veneration." Battersby said, however, that Gordon-Canning was not a member of the Legion.

"We in the Legion regard Hitler as a divine instrument to break the power of the Mammon system," Battersby said. "You cannot serve God and Mammon."

He added that the Legion was "absolutely non-political" and said "Hitler was most definitely sent by God to judge the world."

CONNALLY FIGHTS DELAY OR CHANGE IN BILL ON U.S. PART IN UNITED NATIONS

Opposes All Republican Amendments—Wheeler Criticizes Foreign Policy, Charges 'Appeasement' of Russia.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—Senator Connally (Dem.), Texas, said today he was "not going to stand for" delaying interruptions in the Senate debate on American participation in the United Nations Organization.

As the chamber prepared to take up a series of Republican-sponsored amendments to a bill that would place this country actively in the peace-preserving set-up, the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee told reporters he would fight them all in a drive for a final vote.

Connally, floor manager for the measure drafted by his committee, said he had "plenty of votes" for passage but added: "If we keep getting interruptions of the type that occurred yesterday we'll be here until Christmas, and I'm not going to stand for it."

Attack by Wheeler.

Connally successfully fought off attempts yesterday to have the measure laid aside in favor of other bills. Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, delivered a four-hour criticism of the United Nations and current foreign policy.

Wheeler said that if the United Nations Organization already were functioning to stop aggression, "You would be compelled to go to war with Russia."

When he concluded, Senator Taft (Rep.), Ohio, proposed three amendments, Senator Donnell (Rep.), Missouri, offered another, and Senator Morse (Rep.), Oregon, said he would have one later.

Taft proposed that this country's representative on the security council seek immediate action to limit armaments and the use of such weapons as the atomic bomb, rockets and poison gas.

His second amendment calls for various restrictions on the United States representative and provides that the President submit to the international Court of Justice any dispute involving the United States.

A third would limit presidential power to use troops for United Nations purposes to a three-month period and require congressional approval of later moves.

Donnell's Proposal.

Donnell went a step beyond this by proposing that the President obtain the "advice and consent" of two thirds of the Senate on agreements with the Security Council. This is the approval required for ratification of a treaty.

The bill as it now stands authorizes the President to make a military agreement with the Security Council setting the number of United States troops to be available. It specifies that this agreement shall be subject to approval by majority vote of the Senate and House—instead of two thirds of the Senate as Donnell proposed.

During Wheeler's address, Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, arose to say he agreed with Wheeler about wrongs Wheeler said had been done some small nations by Russia. Vandenberg added he was co-operating to set up United Nations Organization because he saw "no hope on earth" for correcting such wrongs other than through the United Nations charter.

Connally asked if Wheeler favored going to war with Russia. Replying that he did not, Wheeler said what he wanted was to have it made clear to Russia that the United States did not approve its actions.

Wheeler in his speech said that hope for the United Nations Organization was dim, that the United States was "appeasing" Russia, and that present policies were leading to another war.

"We have so degraded the democracy for which we fought," he said, "that, when brought to the bar of judgment, it will be found a harlot that has been whistled off the streets of chaos."

Johnson Sees Drift to War.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (Dem.), Colorado, told the Senate today that "we are drifting toward war with Russia with certainty and speed" and that such a war would men suicide for both nations.

"We are trying to bluff Russia with conscription of teen-age boys, but we are only fooling ourselves," Johnson said. "Russia knows that we are waving an empty pistol by our conscription prattle, and their contempt for us must grow with each passing hour. Panic action, appeasement and defeatism must certainly end in disaster."

Indorsing the Connally resolution, Johnson asserted that unless "we meant business we should have kept out" of the U.N.O.

Senator Morse (Rep.), Oregon, contended that the Senate should withhold approval of the Connally proposal until the United States is ready to accept the compulsory jurisdiction of the new world court over all justicable disputes.

He offered a separate resolution to provide for such acceptance by this country and said it had the support of 14 other Senators on both sides of the aisles.

Johnson said the American monopoly on the atomic bomb is only temporary and urged its use as a "persuader" to prevent aggression.

"It is our opportunity right now to compel mankind to adopt the policy of lasting peace on the basis of righteousness, justice and equality or be burned to a crisp," he said. The alternative, he asserted, is a "Roman peace based on tyranny."

Von Papen Rages During Recital Of His Intent to Use Standing as Catholic to Win Austria for Reich

By RICHARD L. STOKES
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

NUERNBERG, Nov. 28 (By Radio)

FRANZ VON PAPEN became violently disturbed at this morning's session of the international military tribunal while Sidney S. Alderman, assistant United States prosecutor, was reading an affidavit submitted by George S. Messersmith, former American minister to Vienna.

Messersmith related that soon after Von Papen's arrival in Vienna as German minister the defendant told him he intended to use his reputation as a good Catholic to influence certain Austrians, such as Cardinal Innitzer, in favor of anschluss with the Reich. Messersmith commented that "without conscience or scruple Von Papen exploited his standing and that of his wife as ardent and devout Catholics" to overcome the misgivings of Austrians as to the fate which the Nazis designed for the Catholic church.

During Messersmith's detailed account of Von Papen's cynical confidences, the accused was extremely nervous, moving restlessly on his bench and constantly snatching off and replacing his glasses. During the recital of his role as a Catholic intriguer, his sheep-like face with its narrow brow and long chin grew apoplectic with excitement and rage. His head shook vigorously from side to side and he muttered forcible remarks.

Counsel Storms.

Translations of the affidavit in German had been supplied to defense counsel in advance, and Von Papen's lawyer, Dr. Egon Kubuschok, made frantic efforts to prevent its being introduced in evidence. He argued that Messersmith was available as a witness and should be summoned to give his testimony in person so that he might be cross-examined.

Alderman replied that Messersmith was an elderly man, fully occupied with his duties in Mexico City. Kubuschok retorted that he was compelled to suspect the evidence of a man "so aged and incapacitated." Alderman denied that the ambassador was in any way incapacitated, and explained that the prosecution's motive was to spare a man in the seventies a long and dangerous trip in inclement weather.

Lord Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence, the presiding magistrate, ruled that defense counsel might present interrogations in writing to the tribunal, which would forward them to Messersmith for reply.

During his service in Berlin, Messersmith declared, Nazi personalities almost without exception were amazingly candid in their talks with the American consul and made not the slightest attempt to conceal the aims of their party. Among those with whom he conversed were listed nine of the defendants — Hermann Goering, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Hans Frank, Wilhelm Frick, Von Papen, Walther Funk, Wilhelm Keitel, Erich Raeder and Karl Doenitz.

Brutality Shocked World.

After the murder of Chancellor Dollfuss, Alderman explained, such a shock of horror ran through the world that Hitler was compelled publicly to disassociate the Reich from the Austrian Nazi party and to pledge respect for Austria's independence.

"That the policy of anschluss remained wholly unchanged," related Messersmith's affidavit, executed last Aug. 28 in Mexico City, "was confirmed on me by Von Papen when he arrived in Vienna as German minister."

It was recalled that Von Papen had recently been marked for execution in the purge of June 30, 1934 when Strasser, Roehm and Gen. Von Schleicher were murdered.

In accordance with protocol, Von Papen called on Messersmith who, because of being in his own office, was able to control the topics discussed.

The American minister deliberately restricted the conversation to platitudes. His return call was delayed several weeks to make it clear to Von Papen that Messersmith had penetrated the objectives of his mission and had no sympathy with them.

The German greeted him with the words "Now you are in my legation and I can control the conversation."

"In the baldest and most cynical manner," the narrative continued, "he proceeded to tell me that all of southeastern Europe to the borders of Turkey was Germany's natural hinterland and that he had been charged with the mission of facilitating German political and economic control over all this region. He blandly and directly said that getting control of Austria was to be the first step.

"He definitely stated that he was in Austria to undermine and weaken the Austrian government and from Vienna to work toward the weakening of the governments to the south and southeast. He said that he intended to use his reputation as a good Catholic to gain influence with certain Austrians, notably Cardinal Innitzer, to that end.

"He said he was telling me this because the German government was bent on getting control of southeastern Europe and there was nothing which could stop it. He declared that American policy and that of England and France was not realistic."

Forced to Listen.

Owing to the circumstance that Messersmith was calling on Von Papen in his own legation, the American was compelled to listen. But when he finished, Messersmith recounted, "I stood up and told him how shocked I was to hear the representative of a supposedly friendly state admit he was proposing to engage in activities to undermine and destroy the government to which he was accredited.

"He merely smiled and said that of course this conversation was between ourselves and that he would not have talked so clearly to others about his purposes."

Early in 1935, the affidavit proceeded, Von Papen, during a talk with the Austrian foreign minister, Berger-Waldenegg, remarked, "Yes, you have your French and English friends now and you can have your independence a little longer."

Berger-Waldenegg replied: "I am glad to have from your own lips your own opinion which agrees with what your chief has just said in the Saar and which you have taken such pains to deny." According to what the foreign minister told Messersmith, Von Papen appeared to be terribly upset when he realized just what he had said and tried to cover up his statements, but kept constantly getting into deeper water.

Had Some Success.

"Von Papen undoubtedly achieved some successes," Messersmith confessed, "particularly with men like the interior minister, Glaise-Horstenau, who had long favored the 'grossdeutschtum' idea, but who had nevertheless been greatly disturbed over the fate of the Catholic church. Without conscience or scruple Von Papen exploited his reputation and that of his wife as ardent and devout Catholics to overcome the fears of the Austrians in this respect."

After Von Papen had been thus roughly handled, Alderman turned his attention to Dr. Arthur Seyss-Inquart, whom he described as "the original quisling."

An exhibit was introduced consisting of a letter with two inclosures which was written to Seyss-Inquart Aug. 22, 1939, by Gauleiter Friedl Rainer of Salzburg. Dr. Robert Servatius, attorney for Seyss-Inquart, protested on the ground that Rainer is now a prisoner in Nuernberg and should be called to testify directly.

Lord Justice Lawrence ruled that the document might be admitted and that when his time comes Seyss-Inquart can enter such denials as he wishes. The defense may then summon Rainer for cross-examination. The gist of the papers appeared to be that the "glory" of enslaving Austria had been "excessively ascribed to one person, Dr. Seyss-Inquart," though numerous other Austrian Nazis had served Hitler as well or better.

GROVES SAYS U.S. SHOULD BUILD UP ATOM BOMB STOCK

Tells Senators Production Is Necessary Till Supply Is Adequate, Control Is Set Up.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—Maj. Gen. L. R. Groves told the Senate Atomic Energy Committee today he considered it necessary to continue making atomic bombs until we have a suitable supply on hand and the question of international control is determined.

It should be possible to make certain reductions in the plants within two years, the head of the secret "Manhattan project" said in reply to a question by Senator Vandenberg (Rep.) Michigan. Until then, Groves said, the production facilities should be retained and operated about as they now stand.

He testified that budget estimates for peacetime operation had not been prepared. He estimated that the expense would run somewhat less than $500,000,000 a year.

His testimony included these other points:

1. A recommendation for establishment of a special commission independent of any other government agency to supervise and control the development of atomic energy.

2. Official casualty estimates of the two atomic bombings of Japan: 70,000 to 120,000 dead or missing and 75,000 to 200,000 injured at Hiroshima; 40,000 to 45,000 dead or missing and 40,000 injured at Nagasaki.

3. A declaration that the atomic bomb was "the greatest surprise since the Trojan horse" and that it was effective in bringing the Japanese war to a sudden end.

4. A statement that no radioactive damage was done to human beings except at the moment the bomb went off.

5. An estimate that if an atomic bomb were dropped in the "federal triangle" of government building in Washington an area about two miles in diameter would be destroyed.

Scientists Foresees Million Kilowatt Atomic Energy Plant.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28 (AP)—A million kilowatt atomic energy plant—which would help scientists turn to peaceful use the fearsome power unloosed over Japan—is envisioned by Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, whose genius aided creation of the atomic bomb.

The California Institute of Technology physicist, who headed the government's laboratory at Los Alamos, N. Mex., outlined his plan yesterday in an address at the University of California here.

He has not yet put the suggestion before government officials, but he said the plant could be made at least partly self-supporting by generating electricity.

"I hope the University of California, Cal-Tech and others in the area can find the ways and means to get started on a million kilowatt atomic reactor," he said. "Such an apparatus could be connected to a converter to generate electricity. A plant of this type might not pay for itself in 10 years, but many factors are changing and 30 years from now nuclear power may be common."

He said he had in mind a machine which would produce daily a gram of neutrons—the atomic particles which "trigger" the bomb—plus large quantities of a type of a radioactive carbon valuable in medicine.

"We think the neutron itself is radioactive," he remarked, "but we want to know."

Discussing development of the atomic bomb, Oppenheimer observed: "It seemed necessary to perfect the bomb, but we know we have opened up a new order of horror. So long as this threat hangs over all the earth, we can't enjoy scientific research."

CAR SHORTAGE DELAYS G.I.'S

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28 (AP)—A shortage of railroad cars is delaying the homeward movement of thousands of Pacific veterans, Maj. Gen. Homer M. Groninger, commander of the San Francisco port of embarkation, said yesterday.

Groninger said the port had a backlog of requests for 41 trains to carry 18,514 men, some of whom had been waiting for six days to go home.

JOHN AMERY ADMITS TREASON, GIVEN DEATH

Son of British Diplomat Pleads Guilty to Aiding Nazis as Propagandist.

LONDON, Nov. 28 (AP)—John Amery, son of a former Secretary of State for India, was sentenced to death today after he pleaded guilty to charges of high treason and treachery. The entire proceedings took only six minutes.

Amery, 33 years old, was the second former German propaganda broadcaster to receive the death sentence. William Joyce, "Lord Haw Haw," previously was convicted of high treason and sentenced to be hanged.

Amery had been scheduled to go on trial last Oct. 17, but the hearing was postponed on a defense plea that more time was needed to establish his claim that he became a citizen of the Spanish republic during the Spanish civil war.

Amery was on the continent when the war began, and subsequently broadcast appeals over the Berlin radio for Britain to make peace.

He was arrested in Italy last April.

SENATE VOTES BILL CREATING DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 28—Legislative action on a measure creating a Department of Education with an appointive commissioner of education replacing the now elective state superintendent of schools was completed today with passage by the Senate. The bill now goes to the Governor.

In compliance with the new Constitution, the commissioner of education can only be appointed by the State Board of Education. The board would be bi-partisan.

CHINESE COMMUNISTS TAKE ROAD HUB IN PEIPING AREA

Capture Feisiang After 3-Month Siege—New Chungking-Russian Agreement Reported.

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Chinese government admitted today the loss of the important southern Hopei province highway center of Feisiang to besieging Communists.

The Nationalists, on the other hand, were reported to have begun long-delayed landings at the captured Manchurian seaport of Hulutao.

Feisiang, described by the Nationalists as one of the insurgents' main objectives, fell after a three-month siege. The deputy commander of the town's garrison was killed in action. The highway center southeast of Peiping and east of the Peiping-Hankow railroad.

An unconfirmed dispatch in the Chungking Commercial Daily News said government forces had started landing at Hulutao, recently occupied by government troops after evacuation by Communist forces. The report did not say whether United States transports were used. Hulutao provides a strategically valuable landing site for troops to be used in the Nationalist drive on Changchun, capital of Manchuria.

Communist attacks on Hanchuang, 30 miles north of the rail junction city of Tsuchow on the Peiping-Hankow railroad, were repelled, Nationalist dispatches said.

Chinese-Russian Agreement.

The World Daily News said today that a Chinese-Russian agreement had been reached on two points:

1. Nationalists may land airborne troops at Changchun and Mukden, Manchuria, and ground crews may proceed immediately to both points.

2. The Russian withdrawal from Manchuria will be completed by mid-January.

There was no indication what China might have promised in return. Alleged Russian demands, previously reported without confirmation in Chinese newspapers, involved concessions amounting practically to a Russian-Chinese condominium in Manchuria.

The daily Ta Kung Pao said the Chinese communists had withdrawn from Changchun, from which Chinese central government officials recently fled in fear of capture.

Marine Chief Worried.

An American military leader, Maj. Gen. Keller Rockey, commander of United States Marines in North China, was quoted by the Shanghai Central News correspondent as taking a grave view of the situation in north China.

Rockey said the Marines are not contemplating any drastic measures against the Communists who daily are attacking the rail line between Peiping and Chinwangtao, but American lives and property would continue to be protected. The railroad is the only supply line for 50,000 Marines in north China.

It would be hard to predict, Rockey said, when the Marines would withdraw, as it depended on completion of disarming of the Japanese. The majority have been disarmed, but part have taken up guard duties along the various railways.

The Marine commander emphasized there is not one single Marine in Manchuria.

Change of U. S. Envoy.

Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of American forces in China, arrived in Chungking tonight for important conferences with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Premier T. V. Soong, probably over the impending visit of the new United States envoy, Gen. George C. Marshall, and the surprise resignation of his predecessor, Ambassador Patrick J. Hurley.

Hurley's resignation caused disappointment here but Gen. Marshall's appointment was taken to signify the great interest in Washington over events in the Orient.

It was felt here Marshall will be able to make an on the spot decision as to whether United States marines will stay in north China, or return home.

Minister of Information K. C. Wu remarked that Chiang "is very happy that he can meet this great soldier from America."

The government, meanwhile, designated Sept. 3 as the official date of the termination of the Chinese-Japanese war, which began June 7, 1937.

and that Philippine civil courts should take jurisdiction.

Yamashita said the first he knew Manila civilians had been mistreated was upon receipt of Spain's protest forwarded via Tokyo on the killing of its nationals. The protest reached him in April and he asked the Shimbu army corps in Manila for an investigation.

He admitted never having inspected prisoner of war or internment camps because of day and night absorption in the task of planning the defense of Luzon. Nor could he remember much about verbal reports given him by Lt. Gen. Kuo, the camps' director, except that "something was said about the food situation."

His Military Troubles.

Yamashita, conqueror of Malaya, said he came to the Philippines in Oct. 1944 to assume command of the Fourteenth Area Army. Nine days after he took over that army, the Americans landed.

He found his forces in "unsatisfactory" condition, Yamashita declared, with his chief of staff ill in bed and only three staff officers familiar with the Philippines. He was short five divisions of troops, he went on, and lacking in supplies, particularly food and gasoline. There was considerable anti-Japanese feeling among the Filipinos, he admitted.

Staring at his interpreters, Yamashita frequently shook his finger like a lecturing schoolmaster. He repeated remarks for the young Nisei interpreters, nodding benignly when they translated to his satisfaction. (Yamashita has insisted on using Japanese, although he apparently knows English.)

Another witness, Shigemasa Sunada, a former Japanese Diet member, testified that Yamashita had refused to let his troops celebrate the fall of Singapore but instead had held memorial services for the dead and had erected a monument to the fallen enemy.

DUTCH NAZI CHIEF DENIES GUILT AS HIS TRIAL OPENS

Anton Mussert Tells of Urging Hitler to Form Germanic League to Include Holland.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 28 (AP)—Anton Mussert, founder of the Dutch Nazi party, admitted at the opening session of his trial yesterday before a special tribunal that he once proposed to Adolf Hitler the formation of a league of Germanic peoples of which The Netherlands would be a part.

He insisted he did this only in the hope of safeguarding Dutch independence from Germany and saving Europe from Bolshevism.

Mussert pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging him with various acts said to be intended to place The Netherlands virtually under German rule.

Müssert said he had been assured that after the war Hitler would resign as reichschancellor and German fuehrer and would become fuehrer of the Germanic peoples. The league, in addition to Germany and Holland, would have included Sweden, Denmark and Norway, with a common armed force and economic program, he said.

Princess May Visit U. S.

LONDON, Nov. 28 (AP)—Princess Elizabeth may visit the United States within a few months, the London Star reports. The newspaper says there is "some foundation" for a report current in New York that the princess may visit Margaret Truman, the President's daughter, at the White House.

MISSOURI VALLEY BOARD REPORTS TO GOV. DONNELLY, SIDESTEPS MVA

Recommends Basin-Wide Control of Water Resources, Does Not Approve Either Murray or Pick-Sloan Plans.

By CURTIS A. BETTS
State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 28—The Missouri Valley Commission made its report to Gov. Phil M. Donnelly today. The commission was appointed under legislative act to study the Tennessee Valley Authority and the Missouri valley with a view to recommendations as to the advisability of an authority similar to TVA for the Missouri basin.

It reported that it had found a necessity for basin-wide control, development and utilization of the Missouri valley water resources. It said also creation of a regional authority to execute the plan was proper.

The report combined the widely divergent views of members of the commission. It is the result of many compromises and in rather cautious language it contains only those recommendations on which all the members could agree.

Although finding that the TVA is of "vast benefit" to the area it serves, the commission did not recommend the creation of a Missouri Valley Authority. It held that there were objectionable features in the bills pending in Congress for the creation of an MVA. It also recommended that development of the Pick-Sloan plan in Missouri be deferred pending further study.

Recommendations.

The recommendations set out in the report were:

"We agree that the Tennessee Valley Authority is of vast benefit to the people and the area served by it, and enjoys high standing among the people of the Tennessee Valley.

"We agree that the bills pending in the Congress of the United States for the creation of a Missouri Valley Authority are objectionable.

"We recommend that construction of reservoir projects in Missouri proposed and included in the authorized Pick-Sloan plan be deferred until those features of the plan have been again reviewed.

"We agree that there is a necessity for a basin-wide control, development and utilization of the water resources of the Missouri Valley.

"We agree that national action in development of water resources is justified only when there are interstate characteristics operating to prevent successful development by private industry under state laws or by the states or subdivisions thereof.

"We recognize that basin-wide co-ordinated control and maximum practicable utilization of water resources, including conversion of potential water power into pooled electric energy available for public use at the cost of production, is sound public policy. We recognize that this cannot be successfully undertaken by individuals, local or state government, or by private industry. We believe that this utilization of any river basin is regional and not national in scope. However, we do believe that it could be properly assigned to be executed by a regional authority created for and restricted to the accomplishment of that specific purpose.

"Thus restricted, we agree that it would not constitute an invasion into the fields of endeavor heretofore reserved under our form of government for development of resources by individual private industry or by state or local government."

Unanimous Report.

The report, announced to be the unanimous decision of the commission, was submitted to the Governor by its chairman, Senator Claude B. Ricketts of St. Louis. It was specifically approved by all except one member, Frank G. Jonah of St. Louis, chief engineer of the Frisco Railroad, who was said to be too sick for it to be presented to him.

The other members of the commission are L. T. Berthe, a civil engineer of Charleston; Earl S. Cook of Trenton, State Representative from Grundy county; Fred V. Heinkel of Columbia, president of the Missouri Farmers Association; Senator Edward V. Long of Bowling Green, and Marvin M. Wright of Salisbury, State Representative from Chariton county.

Created by a law sponsored by Ricketts, the commission made a two-week tour of the Tennessee valley area in June and a two-week tour of the Missouri valley in October. Its report definitely falls short of the purpose for which it was created. The legislative act specified the purpose was to be to make a recommendation "as to the desirability of the establishment, by congressional action, of a Missouri Valley Authority similar in scope and purpose to the Tennessee Valley Authority."

It became known early in the proceedings of the commission that there was no hope that an agreement could be reached either in favor of or against creation of an MVA. If an attempt had been made to make a specific recommendation on that, the commission probably would have been five to two against an MVA.

By side-stepping that issue, however, the commission was able to agree on a unanimous statement asserting broad principles rather than specific recommendations.

EARLY COUNT IN STEEL POLL FAVORS STRIKE

Balloting in 766 Plants in 27 States on Walkout in Demand for $2 Daily Rise.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 28 (AP)—Early scattered returns from a nation-wide poll of steel workers today showed a trend in favor of a strike to obtain a $2-a-day increase in wages.

Returns were few, but the margin heavily in favor of a walkout. In Ohio, workers at five small plants voted approximately 3 to 1 for the strike. The ratio was even heavier in some other sections.

The voting was done at polling stations under National Labor Relations Board supervision in or near the steel plants. The largest strike poll ever undertaken in the United States, it was estimated by the CIO United Steel Workers to involve nearly 700,000 of its members at 766 steel, aluminum and iron ore plants in 27 states.

4100 East Side Steel Workers Vote in Nation-Wide Strike Poll.

About 4100 workers employed at three East Side steel plants are participating today in a nation-wide strike vote by members of the CIO United Steel Workers of America.

Balloting, conducted by the St. Louis office of the National Labor Relations Board, was scheduled to take place between 2:30 and 5:30 o'clock this afternoon and 10 p.m. to midnight.

Plants concerned are the Granite City Steel Co., where about 1700 production workers are eligible to vote, and the Granite City and East St. Louis plants of American Steel Foundries, employing about 1700 steel workers each.

No vote is being taken at this time at the Commonwealth plant of General Steel Castings in East St. Louis, as it was not included in the original strike vote petition of the union. A supplemental petition, however, included this plant and a strike vote there is set for Dec. 21.

POLICE UNION LIST OF MEMBERS SENT OUT OF THE STATE

members of the force a loophole by means of which they could truthfully disclaim membership in the union. This question asked "are you a member of local 549 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes?"

Many of the men have filed applicatiions for membership, but have not yet received notice of acceptance or paid the initiation fee and dues, so they can say they are not members.

The union has claimed that more than 1000 of the 1900 eligible men in the Police Department have joined, and about 500 more have filed applications which have yet to be processed.

The Police Board has renewed its request to the State Attorney General's office for an opinion on legality of the union. In an opinion made public yesterday, City Counselor George L. Stemmler held police do not have the right to organize.

Stemmler ruled, however, that policemen have the right to gather in peaceful assembly for their common good, and held the Police Department regulation forbidding this to be "unreasonable, unenforceable and invalid." He added that policemen may choose representatives among their number to consult with the board or the Chief of Police.

"If you put these two things together, it's difficult to understand how they could do that without organizing," remarked Mark D. Eagleton, president of the board, who had upheld the legality of a police union.

Eagleton said Stemmler's opinion covered only commissioned officers, and he had requested an additional opinion as to unionization rights of approximately 500 employes who are not policemen. Stemmler said the board's original request for an opinion had not made it clear the ruling should cover employes also.

Eagleton Policeman's Lawyer.

It was disclosed today that Eagleton filed a damage suit in Circuit Court on behalf of a policeman last July 16, five days after he was sworn in as board president. But Eagleton stated there was nothing improper in this. "There is nothing in the law to prevent my representing a policeman or anyone else," he said, "and if a policeman came in tomorrow with a request that I should represent him, I'd certainly do so."

The suit referred to was filed on behalf of Motorcycle Policeman Celestine Wehmeyer, who sought $20,000 damages from Mrs. Marion Wright, of Hillsboro, Ill., for injuries allegedly suffered when he was struck by Mrs. Wright's automobile.

Gov. Phil M. Donnelly said he would confer with board members by telephone today.

MAN, 67, FOUND DEAD; APPARENTLY RUN OVER

Body of Robert Cassidy in Street Bore Markings of a Heavy Vehicle Tire.

Robert Cassidy, 67 years old, formerly of 509 North Spring avenue, was found dead in the street at Vandeventer and Olive street early today, apparently killed when he was run over by a truck or bus.

His head and chest were crushed. They bore markings of a heavy vehicle type of tire. The body was found about 1:40 o'clock at the southeast corner of the intersection, about three feet from the curbstone. It was identified by Theresa Cassidy, 3157 Alfred avenue, sister-in-law of the victim. She said she did not know his last address or occupation.

Police questioned the driver of a bus which had passed the scene of the accident a short time before the body was found. The bus driver was unable to provide any information, they said.

The driver of the automobile was Pfc. James O. Cardwell, 2024 Cass avenue, a soldier stationed at Camp Wolters, Tex. Lunsford was about 60 years old.

TRUMAN PROMOTES HALSEY TO 5-STAR ADMIRAL RANK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—President Truman today nominated Adm. William F. Halsey Jr. for promotion to the five-star rank of Admiral of the Fleet.

Halsey recently relinquished command of the Third fleet. He said at that time he intended to retire.

The former Third Fleet commander, who requested retirement "to give the young fellows a chance," reported to the Navy Department today for temporary duty pending retirement.

OPA PLANS SUITS OVER RESTAURANT PRICE VIOLATIONS

Announcement Follows Survey Showing 30 Pct. of Eating Places Ignore Ceilings.

Legal action will be taken against all restaurants which are disclosed by competent evidence to have been violating Office of Price Administration price ceilings, it was announced today by George L. Robertson, district enforcement attorney.

This statement followed disclosure yesterday that approximately 30 per cent of the restaurants examined in a recent survey by OPA representatives here were violating price ceilings.

Robertson said that suits for treble damages and for injunctions to restrain further violations would be brought in Federal court in all cases in which the evidence revealed violations.

The disclosure of the widespread violations was made yesterday by Phil Ziegenfuss, St. Louis rationing and price control administrator, at a meeting of the St. Louis War Price and Rationing Board's Policy Advisory Committee whose members received awards and certificates for one year's service.

Result of Letdown.

Ziegenfuss attributed the situation to a letdown on the part of both the public and price panel assistants and urged both to a greater alertness in holding the tremendous buying pressures in check until production can catch up with consumer demand.

At the conclusion of the meeting William H. Bryan, director of the St. Louis District OPA, announced plans for reorganizing war price and rationing boards to handle price problems primarily.

The boards will be known as Price Control Boards after Jan. 1, he said, and the price panels will be expanded and departmentalized, with specialists handling problems relating to food, clothing, durable goods and services.

Members of the Policy Advisory Committee who received awards yesterday were: William Semsrott, manager of the Associated Retailers of St. Louis; Harry W. Riehl, general manager of the Better Business Bureau; Forrest M. Hemker, executive committee of the St. Louis Bar Association; Mrs. W. Victor Weir, Consumers' Interest Committee; Erwin C. Meinert, representative of the American Federation of Labor; Oscar Ehrhardt, representative of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and Mrs. George Engelsmann Jr., Women's Volunteer Services.

Three Suits Filed.

Suit for $2486 was filed today in United States District Court by the OPA against R. H. Brock, owner of General Wrecking Contractors, 3304 Chouteau avenue, alleging violations of the general maximum price regulation in the sale of used lumber from Dec. 1, 1944, to Oct. 1 of this year.

A similar suit was filed against Otto Kubatzky, owner of Winco Ventilator Co., 1431 Veronica avenue, for treble damages of $2379 on alleged over-ceiling sales of 803 metal window ventilators from Dec. 1, 1944 to Aug. 1, 1945.

In a third suit, filed against Elmer E. Vorhoff and Milton Duenke, partners operating the County Lumber & Supply Co., 8340 Jennings road, St. Louis county, the OPA asked for $1000 damages based on 20 alleged sales of new lumber at prices over ceilings this year. The suit also sought treble damages for all alleged additional sales at over-ceiling prices from Jan. 1 to Oct. 15 and a permanent injunction to restrain further violations of price and record-keeping provisions of the Second Revised Maximum Price Regulation 215.

WATERWORKS PLANT BOUGHT

C. S. Mott, Flint, Mich., owner of the St. Louis County Water Co., has added the Independence (Mo.) waterworks to his holdings, the Associated Press reported today.

The property was purchased from the American Utilities Service Co. through Stifel, Nicolaus & Co. for a reported $810,000. The waterworks is about 10 miles from Kansas City where the water is purchased wholesale and distributed to consumers in Independence and nearby communities. Mott also owns the Lexington (Mo.) water system.

MISSOURI SENATE GROUP APPROVES NEW HOUSING ACT

Redevelopment Measure Affecting Private Projects Would Replace 1939 Law.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 28—A long step toward providing St. Louis and Kansas City with authority to provide for privately financed housing projects to redeem blighted areas was taken today when the Senate Municipal Corporations Committee made a favorable report on an urban redevelopment act to replace a law enacted in 1939 which had proved impracticable.

The new act, which must be supplemented by additional legislation, is a first move to make possible unlimited ownership of housing projects by insurance companies, and authorizes the Board of Aldermen to grant partial tax exemption to such projects for not to exceed 25 years.

Senator William J. Studt of St. Louis, chairman of the committee, said that he would introduce three additional bills tomorrow to amend the insurance investment laws to permit insurance companies to invest their funds in stocks and bonds of the housing corporations, which is not permitted under the present law.

1939 Act Unworkable.

Confronted with the urgent demand for low priced housing and with the dangerous growth of blighted areas in the city, the late Mayor William D. Becker, and his successor, Mayor Aloys F. Kaufmann, caused extensive studies to be made of the whole housing field. They found that the urban redevelopment act of 1939 was not workable because, without some measure of tax exemption, projects would not be profitable and private capital could not be interested.

Exemption of private property from taxation was not possible under the old Constitution, but under the new one adopted by the people last February, partial exemption for not more than 25 years was authorized.

This opened the way for more liberal legislation through which members of the city administrations of St. Louis and Kansas City believe marked progress toward improvements can be made.

Studies made in St. Louis convinced officials that the amount of capital which could be supplied by groups of individuals would be inadequate to meet the needs, and that if a program commensurate with the requirements was to be undertaken the funds must come from the big insurance companies, which are seeking profitable investments.

Investments Restricted.

Under the present Missouri laws insurance company investments are so closely restricted that their funds would not be available without liberalizing amendments. These will be in the bills Studt will introduce. The bill reported favorably today includes insurance companies in the definition of urban redevelopment corporations, enabling them to make the investments directly and without the necessity of creating separate corporations to which they would transfer their funds for investment.

There was some opposition in the committee to opening the insurance investment field to housing projects, and some to permitting tax exemption, but these objections were not pushed at the committee meeting yesterday.

The committee took no action on slum clearance bills, which contemplate construction of projects through co-operation with housing authorities and government subsidies.

These bills will be considered at a future committee meeting, probably next week.

ACTION STUDIED AGAINST USE OF VACANCIES AS 'BAIT'

McAfee Says City May Have Right to Use Housing Space 'for Health of Citizens.'

J. Wesley McAfee, chairman of the Citizens' Emergency Housing Committee, asked the City Law Department today whether action could be taken by the city against apartment house owners who keep apartments vacant as "bait" for possible purchasers of the buildings. McAfee has asked the Office of Price Administration also to act in this situation.

McAfee said some owners of such buildings, wishing to sell at present high prices, kept one apartment empty to give an additional inducement to a purchaser, who would get the apartment for his own occupancy. He made the same charge at the Citizens' Committee meeting in the Mayor's office yesterday afternoon.

"If the OPA is unable or unwilling to correct this situation," McAfee wrote to City Counselor George L. Stemmler, "it occurs to me that the city may have the right to use its power of eminent domain to obtain, not the ownership, but the right to use this space for protection of the health and safety of citizens." He added that the "desperate need for shelter" of many families might make it necessary to use means which are unusual and ordinarily would be objectionable.

The City Counselor said that McAfee's inquiry presented a novel question, which would require study before an opinion could be given.

Subcommittees, named by McAfee at yesterday's meeting, went to work today on problems of temporary building to house returning service men's families, and overnight shelter for the 500 or more service personnel who now spend whole nights at Union Station. The first reports will be made at a meeting in the Mayor's office next Tuesday afternoon.

The Chamber of Commerce directorate, in a communication to the committee, stated its opinion that "pending the solution of our housing problem, public building programs and other non-essential building operations should be postponed." The communication stated also that the building trades unions should be asked to liberalize their apprenticeship rules to provide more workers, and that the labor unions should approve emergency erection of prefabricated houses.

A call for liberalizing the City Plan Commission's attitude toward measures to meet the present emergency was made in a letter sent to Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann by the Veterans' Forum. The Forum cited the approval of Building Commissioner A. H. Baum. He told the veterans last week that he favored relaxing zoning regulations as suggested by the Mayor, to permit increase of the single-family occupancy now prescribed for houses in residential districts. The commission opposed this plan. Chairman E. J. Russell of the commission was at yesterday's meeting, but made no statement.

McAfee praised the soldiers for their "patience and restraint." He said not more than 20 per cent of St. Louis service personnel had returned to the city thus far. George C. Smith, president of the Chamber of Commerce, estimated the rate as nearer 10 per cent.

The chairman and John J. Church, executive secretary of the AFL Building and Construction Trades Council, discussed temporary home facilities which may be made available in St. Louis. Church described a prefabricated house, up to 4 rooms in size, of which he said a local hardware company could supply about 75 a month. The house is made of white cedar logs, and would be sold for $2400 plus erection costs, payable over a seven-year period. Because of building code restrictions in St. Louis and some adjacent suburbs, locations in unincorporated areas might have to be sought. Church said the unions would not oppose use of these houses.

A cheaper and more temporary dwelling was described by Louis Maginn, president of the Real Estate Exchange. He said 330 demountable houses could be obtained from the Government, which has listed them as surplus property at Orange, Tex. These would sell at prices up to $950 each, but the expense of shipping them here would be heavy. Use of trailers and trailer-type houses, and places where these could be obtained, were discussed also.

McAfee said many owners of one-family dwellings would be willing to convert their upper floors into apartments. This in some cases would call for relaxing of zoning restrictions.

McAfee told of the possibility of obtaining the former National Bank of Commerce quarters, on the first two floors of the Broadway-Olive building, for overnight accommodation of men. Another suggestion, for accommodations at the First Regiment Armory, was reported to be not feasible under Government regulations.

CRITICIZES HIRING LEGISLATORS TO GET CONTINUANCE

Circuit Judge Mueller Says Advantage Is Taken of Statutes to Gain Delay in Cases.

A condemnation of the practice of litigants obtaining a continuance of their law suits by employing members of the Legislature as counsel while the Legislature is in session was voiced today by Circuit Judge Fred E. Mueller at Clayton in continuing a case.

The suit in question was a separate maintenance action by Mrs. Veronica Renda against Albert Renda. It was continued for the second time today when State Senator W. H. Robinett of Mountain Grove entered his appearance for the defendant and requested the continuance on the ground he was busy in the Legislature. He replaced former State Senator Joseph A. Falzone who obtained the first continuance last month on the same ground and who withdrew today.

Pointing out that he had no choice in granting the continuance under the state statutes, Judge Mueller said:

"There are peculiar circumstances in the case indicating that advantage is being taken of the state statutes to cause an unnecessary delay.

It is peculiar that the defendant has to go 200 miles to find counsel to represent him; that such counsel is a member of the legislature; that he replaces an attorney who was a member of the legislature when employed and it is peculiar that each one uses his senatorial duties as an excuse for a continuance."

SUGAR STAMP EXPIRES FRIDAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Office of Price Administration issued a reminder yesterday that special coupons now good, for five pounds of home canning sugar will not be valid after Nov. 30.

These coupons were issued on application to local ration boards. The time of issuance varied in different parts of the country, depending on local supplies. Expiration of the home canning coupons has no effect on the currently valid regular sugar stamp, number 38 in ration book four. That stamp is good for five pounds of sugar through Dec. 31.

NAZIS PLANNED FROM THE FIRST TO SEIZE AUSTRIA

have appeared in person to testify, rather than file a statement. Lord Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence, presiding, ruled that the affidavit would be accepted and that Messersmith could be called personally later if the court decided his presence was needed.

Messersmith said in his affidavit that Germany kept several thousand troops on the Austrian-German border as a constant threat and asserted that high Nazis had admitted that they instigated "waves of terroristic acts" in Austria in mid-1933 and early 1934.

Says Nazis Planned Putsch.

Telling of the abortive Nazi putsch in which Austrian Chancellor Englebert Dollfuss was assassinated July 25, 1934, Alderman said reports of British and Austrian secret service agents revealed that the Hitler government had engineered the putsch.

Alderman described Arthur Seyss-Inquart, one of the defendants, as "the original quisling." Seyss-Inquart was chancellor of Austria at the time of the anschluss and later was made gauleiter of The Netherlands.

Franz von Papen, another of the defendants, was named by Hitler as minister to Austria on the day after the Dollfuss assassination and maintained contact with Seyss-Inquart, Alderman said. In his affidavit, Messersmith said the veteran German diplomat had admitted to him that he took the Viennese post to undermine Austrian independence.

At Messersmith's mention of Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz as one of the German leaders who had talked with him of Austrian anschluss, the former German navy chief's counsel rose and declared that Doenitz had not been acquainted with Messersmith. The counsel, Capt. Otto Kranzbuehler, was ordered by the court to make his objection later.

Messersmith's affidavit included a memorandum given him by the Austrian foreign minister in October 1934, purporting to show that Austrian Nazis had decided to take "brutal" action against non-Nazis and to establish "two centers of terror" along the German and Yugoslav borders.

Hess's Suicide Efforts.

British psychiatrists reporting on Hess revealed that the No. 3 Nazi had tried to commit suicide on several occasions since his mysterious flight to Scotland in May 1941.

Declaring Hess was not insane, the psychiatrists conceded that his loss of memory would "interfere with his ability to make his defense." Hess has paid scant attention to the trial proceedings, reading a novel much of the time and giggling occasionally.

Hess, the medical board reported, is suffering from "hysteria" and "in addition, there is conscious exaggeration of his loss of memory and a tendency to exploit it to protect himself against examination."

Referring to Hess's flight to the British isles to offer peace proposals to Britain, the British report said:

"Partly as a reaction to the failure of his mission, these abnormalities (delusions he was being poisoned) got worse and led to suicidal attempts."

Hess's first loss of memory lasted from November 1943 to June 1944, and his second loss of memory began in February 1945 and has lasted up to the present, the report said. It added: "This amnesia symptom will eventually clear when circumstances change more."

The British report recommended that "if the court decides to proceed with the trial, the question (of Hess's sanity) should afterwards be reviewed on psychiatric grounds." The report added that Hess's loss of memory would not entirely interfere with his comprehension of the proceedings.

Russian's Views.

A Russian report flatly stated that Hess's present behavior "does not exonerate him from his responsibility under the indictment."

The report declared that Hess, "prior to his flight to England, did not suffer from any kind of insanity nor is he now suffering from it."

The Russian report revealed that Hess tried to stab himself in the heart while under detention in England.

The Russian report stated that Hess refused to undergo treatment for his amnesia and told a doctor on Nov. 15 that he would "take all measures to cure his amnesia only on completion of the trial."

The American report, which was concurred in by French and Canadian doctors, said Hess's hysteria would continue so long as he remained under the threat of punishment "even though it may interfere with his undertaking a more normal form of defense."

Appalled by Movies.

After seeing the motion pictures of Nazi atrocities, Dr. Alfred Seidl, counsel for Hans Frank, Nazi ruler of Poland, declared "no argument can be made against these pictures. They are too terrible for words."

"We are human beings, please believe it, and we did not know such horrors existed," commented Capt. Franz Von Papen Jr., who is acting as associate counsel for his father.

DONNELLY PUTS 102 OFFICES IN 14 STATE DEPARTMENTS

Plan for New Grouping Submitted to Senators as First Step in Consolidation of Agencies.

By BOYD F. CARROLL
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 28 — The first definite action toward consolidation of the 102 departments, boards, bureaus, institutions and activities of the State government into 14 executive departments, as required by the new Constitution, was taken late yesterday by Gov. Donnelly. He announced tentative assignment of all of the agencies to new departments.

This brings the State much closer to realization of the long-sought consolidation of governmental activities and elimination of duplicating and useless agencies. It was made possible by the 1943-1944 Constitutional Convention which drafted the new charter.

Donnelly's assignments were turned over to Senators aiding in preparation of the necessary enabling legislation to put the consolidation provision into operation. In effect they will constitute the reorganization of the overgrown executive branch of the government. The new Constitution gives the Governor mandatory power to assign the agencies to departments to which they are germane. An executive order covering the assignments, probably will be issued later.

Legislation Necessary.

Considerable legislation must be enacted to establish new departments not specifically created by the Constitution, and to transfer powers and functions, eliminate duplications, prescribe the type of departmental administration, and otherwise complete the governmental consolidation. The changes probably will become effective about July 1, 1946.

The Governor's action taken after detailed study of the powers and duties of each of the state agencies, is expected to expedite materially the legislative end of the reorganization. This has been one of the major tasks before the legislature since adoption of the new Constitution by Missouri voters last Feb. 27.

The reassignment of the agencies announced yesterday may be subject to some revision if occasion arises, Donnelly said.

The new Constitution actually authorizes 15 executive departments, including the offices of governor and lieutenant governor as one. Donnelly grouped the state agencies in 14 departments, leaving one authorized department open for future needs. The constitutional designations include the offices of governor, auditor, secretary of state, attorney general, treasurer, departments of revenue, highways, education, conservation and agriculture, and not more than five additional departments to be created by the Legislature.

Most of Senate Group Favorable.

Senate members of the Senate and House Joint Planning Committee, a steering committee on constitutional legislation, conferred with Donnelly on his assignments yesterday afternoon. Senator H. R. Williams, Senate Republican majority floor leader, said virtually all of the Senators in the conference were in accord with Donnelly's grouping of the agencies.

Williams said the Senate would proceed at once with preparation of the necessary enabling bills.

Policy questions of whether the new executive departments shall be headed by directors, as favored by Donnelly, instead of bipartisan commissions, and the type of merit system to be established in departments where required by the Constitution, were not discussed in the conference yesterday. Further conferences will be held with the governor, Williams said.

"I am willing to help all I can," said Donnelly, legislative veteran of 20 years' service in the Senate.

Closer Control of Spending.

The major reform in the consolidation plan centers in a department of revenue. It will have control over collection of principal sources of revenue, budgeting, and will exert closer control of expenditures through a comptroller. A bill setting up the department is pending in a Senate committee.

Thirteen agencies and revenue collecting functions were assigned to the revenue department by Donnelly. They include the State Tax Commission, State Purchasing Agent, Board of Permanent Seat of Government, State Building Commission, Automobile Drivers' License Administration, Commissioners of Public Printing, Board of Fund Commissioners and collection of state income, inheritance, sales, gasoline and corporation franchise taxes, and automobile fees.

Donnelly said that in instances where other departments collect fees in connection with inspection duties, it was the intention to assign a revenue department agent to them to make the collections.

The State Highway Department, supervised by a commission, will continue as a separate department, without any attached subordinate agencies, Donnelly said.

The State Conservation Department, headed by a commission, will continue as a separate department, the governor said, with the State Park Board and the Moses Austin Memorial Commission assigned to it as subordinate agencies.

37 Educational Agencies Grouped.

The new department of education will include 37 agencies, under Donnelly's assignments, covering a wide range of educational institutions and activities and 15 existing boards which examine, license or regulate professional, medical and other groups.

The colleges, departments, boards and other agencies, assigned to the new department of education are the State Board of Education, Commissioner of Education, University of Missouri, Columbia; Missouri School of Mines, Rolla; Lincoln University, Jefferson City; the five State Teachers Colleges at Kirksville, Cape Girardeau, Warrensburg, Maryville and Springfield; Missouri School for the Blind, St. Louis; Missouri School for the Deaf, Fulton; Missouri Library Commission, State Library Board, State Historical Society, State Soil Districts Commission, Poultry Experiment Station and Fruit Experiment Station, Mountain Grove; State Poultry Board and State Poultry Association, State Anatomical Board, University Board of Visitors, the boards having charge of examination, licensing or supervision of physicians, chiropodists, dentists, nurses, osteopaths, veterinarians, pharmacists, optometrists, embalmers, chiropractors, barbers, cosmetologists and hairdressers, accountants, architects and engineers and the Missouri Real Estate Commission.

Donnelly said the professional boards had been assigned to this department because all of them had educational requirements for examination for professional licenses.

Other Assignments.

Other assignments by the Governor were as follows:

Department of agriculture (10 activities)—Commissioner of Agriculture, state veterinarian, Grain and Warehouse Department, and the divisions of livestock, poultry, weights and measures, horticulture and floriculture, dairying, state fair, and feed, seed and fertilizer.

Department of public health and welfare (14 agencies and institutions)—State Board of Health State Social Security Department, Board of Managers of Eleemosynary Institutions, State Hospitals for Insane at Fulton, St. Joseph, Nevada and Farmington; State Sanatorium for Tubercular Patients, Mount Vernon; Missouri State Schools for Feeble Minded, Marshall and Carrollton; Confederate Soldiers' Home, Higginsville; Federal Soldiers' Home, St. James; Missouri Commission for the Blind, and the State Cancer Commission.

Department of corrections (eight agencies and institutions)—Department of Penal Institutions, state penitentiary, Jefferson City; intermediate reformatory, Algoa;

ARMY 'SURPLUSES' LAID TO MISTAKES IN ARITHMETIC

Figures 'Ideal' or 'Theoretical,' It Explains—Has 7 Million, Not 53 Million Blankets.

By JOSEPH HANLON
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28—Representatives of the War Department protested to the Mead Committee of the Senate today that the Army was not hoarding, in its strategic reserves, materials critically short in the civilian economy, as had been charged.

They said the Army's figures on its strategic reserve plans (an item of 53,000,000 blankets was one of the figures which aroused considerable curiosity had been badly misunderstood.

In the first place, they said, the figures were very, very tentative, subject to all sorts of assumptions which may or may not prove to be valid. In the second, they were "ideal" or "theoretical" figures. (The Army doesn't have anything like 53,000,000 blankets, for instance.) In the third place, whoever in the Quartermaster Corps made the calculations made a simple mistake in arithmetic, so that the blanket item, and 28 others, were grossly overstated.

Furthermore, they said, the figures are being reviewed and revised by a board headed by Gen. Courtney H. Hodges. (The board was set up after the Army learned the Mead Committee was going to investigate.) And finally, the War Department men contended, the Army's supply reserves had no substantial bearing on the state of the civilian supply up to date because the surplus property disposal agencies haven't been able to get rid even of all that the Army has declared surplus.

List of Witnesses.

The witnesses were Under Secretary of War Kenneth C. Royall, Maj. Gen. T. M. Maxwell, assistant chief of staff for supply, and Brig. Gen. R. L. Osborne, assistant to the director of planning for Army requirements and surpluses.

Senator James M. Mead (Dem.), New York, chairman of the committee investigating the war effort, told Royall at the outset the committee was interested particularly in such items as these which appeared in the War Department's list of proposed strategic reserves:

The 53 million blankets.
Men's shorts, 116,800,000.
Shoes, 24,600,000.
Men's woolen drawers, 42 million.
Sheets, 30 million.
Wristwatches, 450,000.
Trucks (reserve supply, not those in use) 60,000.

Moreover, Mead said the committee understood that the men's clothing industry was facing a virtual shutdown for lack of linings, and that the Army has a great deal of surplus material suitable for linings.

46 Million Error.

Royall contented himself with a general statement about how the Army's figures had been misunderstood and inflated because of mathematical errors. It was Gen. Osborne, discussing the blanket item later, who said that in fact the Army would have only about seven million, not 53 million, for its strategic reserve. He did not give the "ideal" figure for blankets, computed after correction of the mathematical error, but said seven million was far less than the ideal figure."

On the matter of suit linings, Royall said this situation had been called to the War Department's attention only yesterday, and that already it was under examination to determine what the Army could do to increase the civilian supply.

When Royall mentioned that surplus disposal agencies had not yet sold all that the Army had declared surplus, he said $1,264,000,000 (acquisition cost) of consumer goods had been declared surplus, but the disposal agencies, by Oct. 31, has removed only $271,000,000, leaving $993,000,000 still in Army custody.

Mead told him the committee had the disposal agencies next on its list, but he suggested the possibility that if the Army had given consideration to what was needed in the civilian economy, that is to what could be sold readily, the record of these agencies might be better.

RFC Memorandum.

In this connection, he referred to a memorandum sent to the War Department by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation last Sept. 6, listing items which were short in the civilian market. He said he had been informed the War Department did not consider this to be a request for declaration of surplus of such of these items as were available, but simply as a memorandum for its general information, and that nothing had been done about it.

Royall didn't have the answer, but Gen. Osborne later undertook to supply it. He said the RFC memo listed 855 items and categories, many of the categories embracing a good many items.

Of the 855 items and categories, Gen. Osborne said, the Army didn't have any of 34. It considered, in relation to 451, that such supplies as it had were not surplus. And it had declared as surplus "quantities" of 310 items and categories on the list.

SENATE VOTES FUND FOR RESOURCES OFFICE

Bill Provides for Increase of $184,150 Over Current Appropriation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 28—The Senate passed yesterday a House measure increasing the appropriation for the current year for the State Department of Resources and Development to $296,330. This is an increase of $184,150 over the amount already allotted to the department.

The measure, which now will be returned to the House for consideration of Senate amendments, was supported strongly by many Senators who took the position that the department was doing a commendable job in advertising the state and encouraging industry to locate in Missouri.

Senator H. B. Hart of Versailles, in seeking passage of the bill, told the Senate that the department had played a large part in getting the recently announced Department of Interior synthetic fuels experimental plant to locate at Louisiana, Mo.

OIL BILL BACKER OPENLY ATTACKS SUPREME COURT

too fast in upsetting precedents. A good deal of heat has been put on the court in this connection, and if the heat gets too strong and too many precedents are overturned, God only knows where it will stop.

"The states have always had title to the tidelands, and that is an important precedent. If the people of the nation want to change the title to the tidelands, let them do it by constitutional amendment, the only proper method." Meantime, he added, it is up to Congress to reaffirm those state titles by quickly passing the quitclaim legislation.

Announces Resolution.

At the conclusion of his talk he said that "at 'Judge' Kenny's suggestion" he had a resolution to be sent to the resolutions committee, urging Congress to enact the quitclaim bill. It closely parallels the one adopted last week in Chicago by the board of governors of the Council of State Governments, an associated organization.

President Rankin appointed Kenny, who has been leading the drive to secure passage of the quitclaim bill, as one of five members of the resolutions committee. Full discussion of the resolution is expected to be held by the delegates when it is formally presented at a later business session.

The "round table" discussion of the tidelands question scheduled by the conference yesterday turned out to be simply a sequence of four pro-legislation speeches. Kenny led off. He was followed by Fred S. LeBlanc of Louisiana, Clarence A. Barnes of Massachusetts and Sellers.

As the speeches began, Kenny's special assistant on the tidelands case, William W. Clary of Los Angeles, arose from his place beside Kenny and handed the delegates copies of an "open statement to the public" on the controversy. Clary, as has been told, is associated with the Los Angeles firm of O'Malveny and Myers, which is financially interested in the Title Insurance Co. This company has guaranteed tidelands titles, and stands to lose a great deal of money if the Government wins its test suit.

Kenny has acknowledged that Clary's fee for handling the tidelands case will be paid in part by California oil companies.

Rankin's "Hope" in Court.

Association President Rankin, who with 45 other attorneys general signed a congressional brief supporting the quitclaim measure, expressed forcefully the hope that the Supreme Court would decide the matter. Kenny commented to the group that this showed he was not "in collusion" with Rankin.

"I want to take exception to the president's remarks on this point," said Kenny as he arose to start the round-table speeches. "It is fallacious to even hope that the court can decide the case within five years. Many technical questions are involved, and it will be necessary for the court to appoint a special master, and so on.

"We feel that it is a matter of legislative policy, and Congress sets that policy as the representative body of the land."

Rankin later told the Post-Dispatch he would continue to support the quitclaim legislation, but with the persistent hope that the Supreme Court may expedite its hearing and settle the issue first, making the legislation unnecessary.

Kenny told the delegates that "one of the reasons you have all been bored with so much reading matter on tidelands sent to you by myself and Clary is that the subject is of paramount importance."

Rebuke to Administration.

Then came his rebuke to the Administration, a paradoxical development in the fact that Kenny is a Democratic political boss of California, with close Administration ties.

"I had hoped—I was tremendously hopeful — that with the coming of the new administration the United States Attorney General would embark on a new level of state-federal government relationship," he said. "I had hoped that he would put an end to the needling on this tidelands issue—and I wish Tom Clark (United States Attorney General) were here now to hear me say that.

"I made a trip to South America and while I was gone a dead cat came whistling over the fence at me in the form of an original tidelands action filed in the Supreme Court by the Department of Justice. I'm now in the position of having to defend title to the submerged lands of your states, unless you find some way of joining me in the court case."

Kenny previously had told the writer that he was deeply disappointed by Clark's failure to drop the court action. It was originally instituted by Attorney General Biddle.

Without mentioning Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes by name, Kenny told the group that the original action was prompted by a member of the Cabinet for reasons of "job security."

While he did not elaborate on this point, his known contention is that Ickes pressed the action on the theory that while it is pending the President could not remove him from office, since his dismissal would look like "vengeance." This theory runs counter to the evidence—Truman personally authorized the filing of the court suit.

LeBlanc Urges Congress On.

LeBlanc's contribution to the round table was the delivery of a 12-page treatise that declared, in part, that the pending court litigation should not deter Congress from passing the legislation.

Much was said in these talks about the threat in the Government's suit to harbors and docks and the shrimp and oyster industry, if the Government obtained title to tidelands. No mention was made of the Hobbs amendment, which would have permitted states to retain title to coastal lands but would have given the Government the oil beneath them. This amendment was beaten in the House after pleas that it would "scuttle the purpose" of the quitclaim bill. Nor was anything said about Ickes's proposal for a similar amendment in the Senate.

With the exception of some unforeseen developments, such as Rankin's friendly remarks about the Supreme Court and Sellers' barbed ones, the conference yesterday went the way Kenny wanted it to go on the crucial tidelands issue. He has been preparing for the conference for many weeks.

At the close of the session, when Kenny was called on to select an attendance prize number from a hat, and forthwith picked his own number — even Kenny conceded that was "going too far."

Clark Tells State Lawyers Oil Test Suit Will Be Pushed

neys general and their wives were not prepared for the frontal attack actually delivered. It served as strong rebuttal to many of the unchallenged statements made on the tidelands controversy at an earlier business session of the association.

Kenny Scribbles Reply.

Even before Clark had concluded—and strangely enough his speech was well applauded—Attorney General Robert W. Kenny of California, who has been leading the pressure campaign for adoption of the quitclaim legislation, had scribbled a statement in reply.

Handed to the Post-Dispatch correspondent, it read:

"Tonight you heard the war between the states in reverse. The Federal Government, this time, has fired on Fort Sumter. It is the Federal Government, this time, which hopes to receive from the United States Supreme Court a Dred Scott decision. The Attorneys General Association will see that it doesn't."

Kenny had been hoping that Clark would not touch on the tidelands case in his speech. Clark not only gave the Government's reasons for filing it, but said in an impromptu addenda: "You may rest assured we'll give you a real battle up there in the court. We'll give it all we have."

In his suite in the Department of Justice is a mahogany panel, Clark said, which has on it the words: "The Government Wins When Justice Is Done." Justice, he asserted, is all that the Government desires in the tidelands case.

Government Won't "Go Easy."

His words ripped away the conception held in some quarters that "the President's lawyer" would "go easy," for political reasons, in prosecuting the tidelands litigation. His convictions and his intentions on the subject were made crystal clear. His tense and discomfited listeners plainly did not like what they heard.

As he always does, Clark, tall and erect, delivered those words with a friendly ease, punctuating his talk with frequent anecdotes.

The bogey of government seizure of docks and harbors has been waved before the attorneys general and others in the effort to beat the test suit. Clark unmasked this bogey with this statement:

"The pending suit does not involve any bays, rivers or other inland waters, nor does it involve tidelands. It is limited solely to that portion of the ocean embraced within the marginal sea." (The marginal sea, comprising the area between low tide and the three-mile limit, is commonly referred to as the "tidelands." The quitclaim legislation would renounce federal rights to both the tidelands, between low and high tide, and what is known technically as the marginal sea.)

"It is the contention of the Government," Clark continued, "that no state littoral (adjacent) to the oceans ever had or now has any proprietary interest in the marginal sea lands, and therefore no state ever had or now has any power to grant rights to remove petroleum or other minerals from these lands.

"The states rest their case upon the reasoning that when the original states separated from the Crown of England they became individual sovereigns, and, because the Crown by common law owned the submerged lands, the original states, . . an incident to sovereignty, succeeded to such ownership.

"The states further maintain, to quote from the brief of attorneys general filed with the House Judiciary Committee a few months ago:

"The original state did not surrender their lands beneath tidal waters and navigable waters to the Federal Government either by the constitution or otherwise.'"

Cites Court Opinions.

These propositions are "fallacious," he said. He quoted a court opinion which pointed out that under the Declaration of Independence the "United Colonies"—not "the several colonies"—were held to be free and independent. The opinion also said: "The powers of external sovereignty passed from the crown not to the colonies severally, but to the colonies in their collective and corporate capacity as the United States of America."

Clark cited other opinions designed to show that the colonies, in entering the union, did not obtain title to the marginal sea next to the respective state boundaries. He went on: "If anything is beyond doubt in this controversy, it is that the principal basis for the creation and the continued recognition of the marginal sea belt theory is the security and defense of the national sovereign."

The only powers which the individual states may exercise in the marginal sea area, he said, are those of a local or municipal character as distinguished from powers in the field of international affairs.

Clark also knocked down another favored contention of the quitclaim backers—that the case has been decided many times in the past. "It is the position of the Department of Justice," he said, "that there has been no case decided by the Supreme Court where ownership of the marginal sea lands was involved." Practically all of the cases cited in support of the states' claims pertain exclusively to inland waters, he asserted.

The established rule that states own the lands under navigable waters and bays in no way is incompatible with the contention that the Federal Government owns the land underlying the marginal sea, he went on. "Rivers and bays are within the physical body of a state. This reasoning, and its historical background, was made clear as early as 1793 in an opinion by the attorney general of Delaware."

Repeats His Assurance.

Taking note of the fact that most of those present had signed the congressional brief supporting the quitclaim legislation, Clark said it is apparent that "you are concerned about the possible effect of this suit upon the beds of lakes, rivers and bays." He then repeated firmly his assurance that the suit will have no effect on those lands, nor upon titles to the beds of the Great Lakes.

After further citing legal points in support of the Government's position, he said: "That, gentlemen, is the case as I see it. I hope that I have made my reasoning clear to you. You have your duties as states' attorneys general, even as I, in behalf of all the people."

The attorneys general of the states now knew where the Attorney General of the nation stood on the tidelands issue. As they were recovering from the shock, and as their association president was making his way out of the ballroom, a male chorus assembled for the program broke joyously into song.

M'ARTHUR 'MAKING HISTORY, NOT WRITING IT,' HE SAYS

TOKYO, Nov. 28 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, declaring that a Newsweek magazine article created the impression that he was "considering offers for his memoirs," stated today that the supreme commander of the Japanese occupation has "declined all offers" because he is "making history, not writing it."

The statement added that he "feels that certainly as long as he is on active service he would be unable to attempt anything of the sort."

TIRE PRODUCTION UP SHARPLY; QUOTA LIKELY TO BE ACHIEVED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The government's expressed hope that tire rationing can end early next year was bolstered yesterday by an official report that tire output is up sharply.

The Office of Price Administration announced that production had increased considerably during the last few weeks, and "barring work stoppages, was expected to attain the scheduled production goal of 11,000,000 (passenger) tires in this quarter."

Production in the July-September quarter was about 7,000,000 passenger tires.

John D. Small, head of the Civilian Production Administration, said a few days ago that CPA hoped to end tire rationing "shortly after the first of the year or thereabouts."

The number of tires available to the public may be augmented somewhat as a result of strikes in the automobile industry. CPA limits automobile manufacturers to a 15-day inventory of new tires.

I'm so thrilled because—dreft IS BACK!

"Now I can again enjoy the WASHING MIRACLES no soap could ever give me!"
WORKS WONDERS FOR SILKS, WOOLENS, DISHES
No wonder millions of women welcome the big news that Dreft is back! Dreft's amazing suds surpass any soap in the world in keeping all your nice things brighter, fresher, lovelier—with never a trace of soap-fading. And look at these other washing miracles that no soap could ever equal . . .
• Leaves no greasy film to streak dishes
• Gives faster suds
• No soapy deposit to harshen woolens
• Gives 5 times more suds than soap in hardest water
• Even glasses sparkle without wiping
• Rich suds even in ice water

DISHES
SHINE WITHOUT WIPING!
IT'S TRUE . . . No soap ever made can perform the dishwashing miracles that Dreft can! It makes dishes positively gleam without wiping. For Dreft leaves no streaks or cloudiness the way soaps do. Gets even glasses so clean they sparkle—without touching a towel to them!
STOCKINGS
LOOK SHEER AS NEW!
DREFT leaves no soap film to heavy-up hose and cloud their beauty. And colors stay fresh far longer than with any soap. There's no soap-fading ever! No wonder stockings look lovelier—sheer as new!

NEW WOOLENS
WASH SOFTER, FLUFFIER!
WOOLENS are a joy when washed with Dreft. Because Dreft's amazing suds rinse absolutely clear. No soap deposit to harshen woolens and dim their colors. Lovely new sweaters and baby things wash softer and fluffier than with even the finest soap flakes.

LINGERIE
STAYS COLOR-FRESH LONGER THAN EVER BEFORE!
LINGERIE stays color-bright and fresh when washed with Dreft! There's no chance of soap-fading to make undies look all washed out! Dreft's suds will keep your dainty slips and blouses brighter than any soap could ever do!

G. M. C. Strike Leaders Confer With Conciliator

its eighth day today, Federal conciliation moves in Washington were watched for possible peace feelers.

Few observers believed the conference between union heads and Edgar L. Warren, Chief Labor Department conciliator, would bring any formula.

The state of Michigan took official cognizance of the problem of unemployment compensation involving World War II veterans employed by General Motors. The State Office of Veterans Affairs, established to assist the returned soldier, announced that three "test cases" of strike-idle veterans would be presented the Veterans' Administration in Washington for adjudication under the G.I. Bill of Rights.

No figures on the number of veterans employed by General Motors and made idle in the strike has been announced, but the total is believed to run into many thousands.

Michigan law, similar to that in many other states, holds a person ineligible for unemployment compensation if he has a direct interest in a strike.

Offices of the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission were picketed today by 20 veterans protesting against a ruling denying them compensation. Signs saying, "What is the G.I. Bill of Rights?" and "We Fought for It, Let's Have It," were carried by the group.

Two bricks were thrown through a window of the home of William H. Doerfner, general manager of the G.M.C. steering gear division in Saginaw at 5 a.m. today. The union in Saginaw and Doerfner had engaged in a dispute over procedure in distributing pay checks for last week's work. Sixty-five supervisory employes were prevented by a picket line from leaving a plant for 15 hours.

Representatives of 31,000 UAW tool and die workers in the Detroit area shops voted last night to give local union officers authority to stop work on all materials intended for use in General Motors plants "whenever it is most feasible to aid the G.M.C. strikers." A monthly assessment of $5 a worker for the strike fund was voted.

The Ford Motor Co. meanwhile began its previously announced layoff of workers because of work stoppages in 15 supplier plants. Between 10,000 and 15,000 employes were instructed not to report on the midnight shift last night.

Company officers said 40,000 would be affected before the weekend, but expressed a hope they could be called back by next Monday.

FORD CO. PROPOSES UNION PAY IT $5 A DAY FOR EACH UNAUTHORIZED STRIKER

DETROIT, Nov. 28 (AP). THE Ford Motor Co. has proposed that the CIO United Auto Workers Union pay the company $5 a day for each employe involved in an unauthorized work stoppage.

The plan was submitted as a part of the company security phase of a proposed new contract as negotiations with the UAW-CIO were resumed.

The union had agreed that the company should be guaranteed some security but had proposed that each striker be tried by a union board and punished if found guilty.

GENERAL, SIX OTHERS LEAP TO SAFETY IN PLANE CRASH

Craft Falls in Rainy Weather Near Walhalla, S. C.; Pilot Lands in Tree.

WALHALLA, S.C., Nov. 28 (AP) — Brig. Gen. George H. Weems, five other officers and an enlisted man parachuted to safety when an Army transport plane crashed in rainy weather near here last night.

Gen. Weems, Capt. Charles B. Taylor, Capt. Arthur T. Cartier and Lt. Julian Hayes, were found soon after the C-45 transport crashed in a wooded, mountainous area. A few hours later the pilot, First Lt. R. A. Phillips, was found high in a tree. A fire was built to help keep him awake until he could descend after daylight.

The other men, Capt. Richard Tukey and Sgt. L. R. Gauldin, weer found several hours after dawn. No one suffered serious injuries.

TRUCK DRIVERS RATIFY NEW WAGE CONTRACT

CHICAGO, Nov. 28 (AP) — The Central States Drivers' Council representing 40,000 over-the-road truck drivers in 12 states, announced today that it had approved a two-year contract with the Central States Area Employers' Association calling for over-all wage increases of 18 to 20 per cent.

James Hoffa of Detroit, chairman of the Drivers' Council negotiating committee, said the agreement was ratified yesterday by the council and representatives of 300 AFL International Teamsters locals in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas.

Hoffa said the contract involved more than 3000 trucking firms. It was approved by the operators' committee Nov. 16.

Hurley Urges U. S. to Explain Its Policy Toward China

of the Allies to help China establish "a free, united, democratic government."

He said he thought there was "no question" that the policy of helping China toward democracy had the support of both the Russian and British governments but he added that it "definitely did not have the support of the imperialist civil servants of Britain in Asia."

"It did not have the support of the French imperialists," he said. "It did not have the support of The Netherlands imperialists."

In addition, Hurley repeated, the policy was opposed by American career diplomats.

Truman's selection of Marshall, a five-star general, to replace Hurley, a two-star general, appeared to be emphasizing the viewpoint that the present top job in China remains the disarming of Japanese troops.

The former chief of staff served several tours of duty in China and attended several British-American-Chinese conference during the war.

Chinese Ambassador Wei Taoming said China was "very fortunate" in getting Marshall as an envoy.

Intercepted Messages.

The Washington Star said that Hurley has in his possession a file of messages allegedly sent to the Chinese Communists by some of "those whom he considered Communist sympathizers in the State Department."

These messages were intercepted by American agents in China, the newspaper reported, adding that Hurley was reported to have shown them to Truman and Byrnes at the White House Monday and offered to resign at that time.

"Secretary Byrnes, with the President's concurrence, is said to have assured Gen. Hurley that he possessed their complete confidence, that if he would return to China he would have their support and a free hand in dealing with State Department representatives in China," the Star said.

While all this was happening, the paper said, Representative De Lacey (Dem.), Washington, was delivering a speech in the House attacking Hurley for causing "the resignation of former United States Ambassador to China—Clarence E. Gauss."

De Lacey was quoted by the Star as saying: "Step by step, Ambassador Hurley's reversal of the Roosevelt-Gauss policies in China have made the present civil war unavoidable. He and Gen. Wedemeyer have now committed us to armed intervention."

Until yesterday morning, the Star said, Hurley was unaware of this speech and still planned to return to China, but then he read De Lacey's speech in the Congressional Record.

"It was said today," the paper continued, "that Gen. Hurley's sudden reversal of stand, on reading the De Lacey speech, resulted from the fact that he saw in the speech additional confirmation of his suspicions that his own reports to the State Department were being permitted to leak out to critics."

Byrnes' Comments.

Secretary Byrnes at his press conference said that he had thought, until Hurley issued his statement yesterday, that the general was returning to Chungking. He said Hurley subsequently told him that he had decided not to go back after reading some speeches by Congressmen about his mission in China.

The secretary said he could say only that the ambassador was one of his good friends and that he regretted that Hurley could not see his way clear to return to Chungking. He recalled that Hurley had served valuably on important missions during the war.

Byrnes was asked about Hurley's assertion that elements in the State Department were supporting imperialist blocs and also supporting Communists in China.

He replied by saying that he had read in the newspapers statements that there is a definite anti-Russian bloc here in the State Department.

Now, he added, Hurley says there are Communistic elements in the department and he also charges that there is pro-imperialistic policy support. Byrnes said he supposed there were all shades of opinion in the department which he took over a few months ago and he said that he considered that's a good thing if true.

He made it clear that he has not planned any sweeping inquiry into the State Department's personnel as a result of Hurley's statement.

As for United States policy in China, he said there has been no change in it and that the presence of American troops in China is strictly for the purpose of disarming and repatriating Japanese forces. This Government still stands ready at any time to use its good offices in efforts to restore Chinese unity, Byrnes said.

Demands in Congress.

In the House of Representatives, demands for investigation of foreign policy and personnel came from both Democratic and Republican sources.

Vorys asked that further congressional action on more funds for UNRRA be held up until Hurley is heard.

Curtis (Rep.), Nebraska, demanded that the State Department "discharge all Communists on the payroll." He did not give any names.

Jones (Rep.), Ohio, suggested that Hurley be called to address Congress in recess.

Gore (Dem.), Tennessee, and Herter (Rep.), Massachusetts, prepared identical resolutions for an inquiry into conduct of foreign affairs.

Chennault's View.

In Fort Worth Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, former commander of the "Flying Tigers" and the Fourteenth Air Force in China, praised Hurley for "placing the issue of American foreign policy in China squarely before the American people."

"The issue I refer to is whether the policies of our President and our Congress will be implemented out there or whether they will be nullified by a few individuals in the State and War Departments," he declared.

NEW NASH SHOWN IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP) — The first preview of two models of the 1946 Nash was given to dealers yesterday as a prelude to 28 similar displays in other cities.

The Nash Co. announced 116 improvements had been made over the 1942 types, including changes that would allow 25 to 30 miles of moderate speed travel in the lighter car on a gallon of gasoline. The company also announced air conditioning that would be effective with all windows closed and an optional built-in double bed.

BYRON PRICE SAYS SITUATION IN REICH IS GROWING WORSE

present deadlock in the control council in Berlin is so important that use of the full force and prestige of American diplomatic power to that end is fully warranted," Price declared.

"Repeated attempts have been made to set up common policies so that the German railways, the German postal service and other essential facilities could be operated as integral national systems. All of these attempts have failed, due almost entirely to the rigid opposition of the French."

If France is bent on dismemberment of Germany, Price said, "she should be made to acknowledge that policy before the world and not permitted to hide behind the opposite pronouncements of the Potsdam Declaration." He added that "our own policies should then be re-examined accordingly."

Reasons for Urgency.

Price said the urgency of immediate decisions "is deepened not only by the continuing four-power deadlock at Berlin, but by the approach of winter." He added that the next few months will determine whether the American government, in its first large-scale attempt at governing a conquered people, is to succeed, or fail, or abandon the effort."

In addition to breaking the four-power deadlock, Price also recommended:

1. That the change-over of military government to civilian control should be made with the very highest type of civilian administrators and that it should not take place at the top level earlier than June 1. This date originally was recommended by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

2. Revision of top level instructions issued from Washington to the military government in Germany. "The whole collection of orders and instructions could profitably be rewritten into a few hundred words of general principles," Price said.

More Food Urged.

3. Provision should be made for the shipment of additional food exports from the United States, on credit, to provide at least the approved medical ration of 2000 calories "to prevent starvation."

"If starvation comes, as now seems likely, epidemics and rioting will not be far behind," Price said. He said the present rationing in Germany is inadequate "for a people who are expected to work, and who have no heat at home and no way to reach their places of employment except by walking."

4. Asserting that de-Nazification of private industry has gone faster in the American zone than in other parts of Germany, he said the military government should be given greater discretion locally to decide when and how it should proceed in regard to essential services. He said railroads, the communications system and other essential facilities "have been handicapped greatly" by abrupt removal of Nazis from key positions and installation of inexperienced substitutes.

On Freedom of Press.

5. Discontinuance of the present practice of "screening" spot information coming into Germany from the outside world, since "suppression in the German press or on the German radio raises the question how our policy differs from that of Goebbels."

"In general, the German press and radio should have freedom of opinion also, but the publication of anti-democratic propaganda should not be permitted," he said.

6. With winter bringing into the open "whatever threat of real disorder and rebellion" may now lie beneath the surface in Germany, he said, "this is the wrong time to permit Gen. Eisenhower's armed forces in Germany to be decimated and robbed of military effectiveness by demobilization."

7. Asserting there is "widespread surprise among Germans" over the delays in bringing Nazis to trial as war criminals, Price said that "wherever the responsibility lies," this failure "does not improve relations with a German people who traditionally respect only firm and swift authority."

Flyer Rescued From Tree.

WALHALLA, S. C., Nov. 28 (AP) —Cold but uninjured, Lt. R. A. Phillips was rescued this afternoon from a pine tree in which he had hung 60 feet from the ground for 18 hours after he and six other Army men parachuted from a disabled C-45 transport last night. A rescue party built a scaffold around the tree up to Phillips' perch.

HOMICIDE VERDICT IN DEATH OF SHIRLEY JEAN COXEY

A coroner's verdict of homicide at the hands of persons unknown was returned today in the death of 9-year-old Shirley Jean Coxey who was attacked and murdered last Thursday.

Detective Orville Van Stratten said an examination of the child's body at the morgue disclosed two sticks of fresh chewing gum in her mouth. Since the gum had not been well chewed, Van Stratten said, there was reason to believe the girl had placed it in her mouth just a few minutes before she was killed.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coxey, Shirley Jean's parents, testified she had never mentioned being molested. Coxey said his daughter left him Thursday night at the intersection of Vandeventer avenue and Olive street to go to her home at 3817 Washington boulevard. He said he had bought her the chewing gum a few minutes before they parted. Two neighbors told of hearing an automobile drive through the alley at the rear of the 1400 block of North Twenty-fourth street, the night before the child's body was found there.

PLANE AND 40 YANKS MISSING IN INDIA FOR THREE WEEKS

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 28 (AP)—Headquarters of the India-Burma theater said yesterday that an airplane carrying 40 homebound American soldiers had been missing in India for three weeks.

An intensive search has found no trace of the plane, which left Chabau, in northeast India, Nov. 11, for the western India port of Karachi.

Relatives of missing persons have been informed. The four-engined C-54 was piloted by Capt. Warren A. Roth, South Minneapolis, Minn.

Solution Of Yesterday's Puzzle

he thought "the committee would expect to hear him before he leaves." Senator George (Dem.), Georgia, assumed Gen. Marshall would be leaving soon and thought it was important to call him "right away." Representative Gearhart (Rep.), California, commented that he would be "inclined to insist upon hearing him before he leaves."

An army board which investigated the surprise Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, took especial note of the way a final warning message from Gen. Marshall to Gen. Walter C. Short, army commander, in Hawaii, was handled.

The board said that while Gen. Marshall telephoned an alert to Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Philippines, he sent a similar message to Gen. Short by commercial cables. It was not delivered until three hours after the attack.

GREW SAYS HE DESTROYED CODES BEFORE ATTACK

others until the last moment: we destroyed them after we had learned that war had begun."

Ferguson wanted to know which codes were destroyed before war broke. Representative Murphy (Dem.), Pennsylvania, protested that the committee wouldn't want to name specific ones, "spread them on the records for the world to read" when perhaps some of them are still in use.

At any rate, Grew said he didn't recall which ones were destroyed first.

Grew said that a message he received from Secretary of State Hull on Nov. 27 about possible contingencies that might lead to closing the embassy was "not necessarily" a suggestion to dispose of codes.

Reluctant to Show Diary.

On the matter of his personal diary, Grew said that it was just day-to-day scribbling, some of which proved incorrect with developments, and he doubted anything was in it which would help the committee. "I would be very reluctant to make any of it public," he said.

After Brewster made his suggestion that Committee Counsel William D. Mitchell might look through the diary, Mitchell objected, saying that anything open to him would be opened to any member of the committee. Mitchell also said he "would feel embarrassment in passing judgment on the materiality" of matter in the diary.

"And after hearing one member of the committee examine this witness for more than five hours," Mitchell added, "I feel that my judgment and that of some members of the committee might radically differ."

The matter quieted down when Brewster said he was "willing to let it rest here for the present time."

Messages Sought.

Representative Keefe (Rep.), Wisconsin commenting later that the committee had received some messages exchanged between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill of Britain, told Mitchell that "innumerable others" must have been exchanged.

He asked Mitchell to get for the period from Nov. 24 to Dec. 7, 1941, all of the following messages:

1 Between the State Department and Ambassador John Winant in London. (Roosevelt-Churchill exchanges thus far made public were handled through this channel.)

2. Between the War and Navy Departments and the British Admiralty. (Keefe said the President and Prime Minister might have used these facilities.)

3. All messages between the President and Prime Minister which are in the files of the Roosevelt estate.

He asked that Mitchell obtain certificates from custodians of the files saying the communications made available were all which were sent, or if none was turned over to the committee, that none was in the files.

In questioning Grew, Senator Ferguson observed that in a Nov. 3, 1941, note to Washington, Grew said a Japanese war against the United States "might come with dramatic and dangerous suddenness."

Further, the Senator recalled that in a Nov. '17 mesage to Hull Grew said:

"I am taking into account as a probability that the Japanese would exploit all available tactical advantages, including those of initiative and surprise" in extending its military actions.

Ferguson Tells of Aims.

Ferguson has told reporters that he wants to make as clear as possible what advance word Washington had of threats from Japan, and why the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor succeeded. He remarked that the second message seemed to have strengthened the first. Grew favored the word "supplemented."

"But you were putting it in as direct language as you could, weren't you?" asked Ferguson. Grew agreed.

Suggestions that Gen. Marshall should be called as a witness before his departure for China came from several committee members. Chairman Barkley told reporters

NLRB TO SPEED ELECTIONS FOR PLANTS IN RECONVERSION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board changed its procedure yesterday to speed election of bargaining agents in plants converting to peacetime production.

The board thereafter will permit its 18 regional directors to order elections in simple cases without first getting an order from the national board. Chairman Paul M. Herzog said the NLRB had before it now 2100 bargaining election cases.

MISSOURI SPLIT IN CONGRESS ON RIVER FUND FIGHT

Zimmerman for Restoration — Cannon Leads Opposition — Bennett Against Osceola Dam.

Missouri Representatives are in the thick of a fight in the House of Representatives at Washington over the question of restoring to a deficiency appropriation bill $128,000,000 in funds for Army flood control and rivers and harbors work. The fund was knocked out by the House Appropriations Committee Monday. A decision may be reached today or tomorrow.

A floor contest over the funds between two of the Missouri Representatives is in prospect.

Representative Orville Zimmerman (Dem.), Kennett, announced at Washington that he would seek to restore the funds for work in Missouri. These included $1,000,000 to continue work on the Clearwater dam and reservoir in the Black river, near Piedmont; $1,000,000 to start the big Osceola dam and reservoir in the Osage river, near Osceola, and $2,000,000 for flood walls and levees at Kansas City, Mo., and Kansas City, Kan. Zimmerman stressed the need for the Clearwater project, which would give flood protection for part of his district.

Representative Marion T. Bennett (Rep.), Springfield, who had urged elimination of the fund for Osceola dam, in his district, notified Zimmerman he would take the floor in opposition, if Zimmerman included the Osceola project.

Cannon Leads Opposition.

The Army flood control program has a direct effect on all the outstate congressional districts of Missouri. Other Representatives from this state may become involved.

Leading opposition to restoration of the funds in the bill is Representative Clarence Cannon (Dem.), Elsberry, chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

"The Government," he reminded the House yesterday, "has been running on I.O.U.'s for 15 years. There are men in this House who want to appropriate money we haven't even borrowed yet. We've been running the Government on a deficit and we are still trying to borrow more money. Disaster will overtake any nation that fails to pay its way. We can't continue to spend money at the rate we did before the war."

Interest on the national debt now exceeds the normal national budget before 1932, Cannon reminded his colleagues.

Representative Taber (Rep.), New York, ranking minority member of the Appropriations Committee, who called the projects "pork barrel," argued in support of the committee's action. He said, "The nation must begin to wake up and start doing without things we don't need." He asserted that the Army projects had been approved at first after "unsatisfactory, cursory hearings" and should be reviewed.

If the House denies the money, attempts will be made in the Senate to put it in a deficiency supply bill, Representative Tarver (Dem.), Georgia, told the House. He said Representative Kerr (Dem.), North Carolina, would "demand a showdown." Chairman Whittington (Dem.), Mississippi, of the House Flood Control Committee, agreed with Tarver that the projects had been the subject of Army surveys, "extensive committee hearings" and authorization by Congress. Representative Jenkins (Rep.), Ohio, said flood control work was a continuous, normal governmental activity, "which can't very well be broken up."

Valley Association Protests.

The Mississippi Valley Association, supporter of the Army program under the Pick-Sloan plan and opponent of the rival Missouri Valley Authority proposal, has telegraphed leaders of the House Appropriations Committee that the committee's action would increase greatly the influence of advocates of a Missouri Valley Authority and other regional authorities.

One of the chief anti-MVA arguments heard by the Missouri State MVA Commission in its recent tour of the Missouri basin was that work on the extensive program could be started almost immediately under Pick-Sloan. The delay caused by the House committee's action serves to eliminate this argument. On the other hand, MVA supporters argued that MVA could get into action quickly, even taking over plans of existing agencies if desired.

Message to Committee Members.

The Mississippi Valley Association message to some of the 43 members of the House committee, sent by Lachlan Macleay of St. Louis, president, said: "The people of the Missouri valley are dismayed by the action of your committee in eliminating the War Department appropriations for flood control from the deficiency bill. This is a cruel blow to millions of citizens subject to the devastating effect of recurring floods. It is a definite setback to the flood control program authorized by Congress. It will greatly increase the influence of those advocating the establishment of regional authorities. We earnestly urge the reinstatement in the deficiency bill of the War Department appropriations."

Telegrams of protest also were sent to Cannon and others by Mayor John B. Gage of Kansas City, Mo., who asserted that it was "imperative" that the flood control item for the Kansas Cities be reinstated. He urged that all the army funds be granted.

$500 FOREST PARK MOTORCYCLE EARNS $2675 IN 6 MONTHS

'Dividends' Are Fines for Exceeding Speed Limit—$295 Taken In Yesterday.

A motorcycle purchased by the city last June at a cost of $500 for the use of the Forest Park policemen in the enforcement of park traffic regulations has paid dividends. In six months the city has collected $2675 in fines assessed against motorists who have exceeded the 20-mile-per hour speed limit which is in effect in all city parks. Yesterday fines amounted to $295.

Drivers are seldom given more than a warning the first time they are stopped in the park if they are not exceeding 30 miles an hour, the Park Superintendent explained.

COURTHOUSE 'OPEN HOUSE' IN CAMPAIGN FOR NEW ONE

The St. Louis County courthouse and jail will be open from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday to permit citizens to inspect the buildings before voting Tuesday on a $1,650,000 bond proposal for a new courthouse and jail.

Sixty members of the St. Louis County Taxpayers' Protective Association, meeting at the courthouse last night, voted unanimously in favor of the bond proposal. The organization had opposed several previous courthouse bond issues.

John E. Mooney, Clayton lawyer and association chairman, said he had led the opposition to previous proposals because plans had not called for use of the fireproof southern part of the present building. Plans now provide for incorporation of the fireproof portion into the proposed new structure.

Doran of Flyers Fails to Show Up at Practice, Is Set Down Again

Holouka to Take Place On Defense

By Harold Flachsbart

Bazel (Red) Doran, big defenseman of the Flyers, was suspended indefinitely for a second violation of training rules when he failed to appear at a noon practice session today, General Manager George Carson said.

Three weeks ago Doran disappeared and was missing for two games, then finally returned and drew a suspension that caused him to miss a third contest.

Doran played in the four most recent Flyer games, including one last Sunday night against Cleveland, but he was reported meanwhile to have violated training rules again. So when time came for the practice, in preparation for Saturday night's game here against Indianapolis, Carson said:

"Doran is through. We'll miss him, but we can't put up with that sort of thing. He's suspended indefinitely."

The 29-year-old athlete, who stands six feet one inch tall and weighs 203 pounds, played 14 games last year for the Flyers, scoring 10 points, but then a 90-day permit in this country expired and he was required to return to Canada. It was understood the liimted permit stemmed from trouble Doran had had in the Canadian Army.

A native of South Porcupine, Ont., a Canadian mining town, where in the off-season he was a "mucker," a name given a man who shovels ore, Doran possessed such physical strength that he reportedly "handled a double shovel, compared with the average miner's one."

Doran's suspension leaves the Flyers with three defensemen—Jack Dyte, Doug McCaig and Frank Bowman—though they have another, Bill Holouka, now expected to suit up for games. In addition, the Flyers own Frank (Red) Kane, now on loan to Tulsa of the United States League.

For today's practice session a Canadian amateur recently discharged from his country's armed forces appeared for a tryout. His name is Lloyd Schnarr.

Roosevelt High to Get Knute Rockne Memorial Trophy

Roosevelt High School will receive the Knute Rockne Memorial Trophy presented yearly by the Notre Dame Club of St. Louis, it was anounced today, by club president Lou Fehlig.

This was the first time Roosevelt has won the trophy which has been awarded annually the outstanding football team of metropolitan St. Louis in the last seven years. Roosevelt was Public High School champion and won the district title game against Normandy Thanksgiving day. The trophy is awarded on the merits of schedules, sportsmanship and records, and selection is made by representatives of newspapers, radio stations and football officials.

Presentation of the award will be made Dec. 8 at a dinner at the Kingsway Hotel. Reservations for the dinner may be made at the hotel, Fehlig said.

Army Quarter In Hospital--but Not for Long

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 28 (AP)—It took a slight case of influenza to show how highly Army regards Arnold Tucker, the Cadets' field general and chief passer.

Overlooked in the attention focused on the West Pointers' touchdown twins—Glenn Davis and "Doc" Blanchard—Tucker, key man of the Cadets' polished T machine, was the cause of much anxiety yesterday when he was hospitalized with the flu.

For a while when his temperature soared to 102, it looked like the 21-year-old Miami (Fla.) quarterback might miss the big game with the Navy in Philadelphia Saturday. But late in the afternoon the team physician, Capt. Robert W. Bayle, reported that Tucker's temperature had gone down and that the star would be released from the hospital by tomorrow at the latest.

Tucker, a third stringer behind Doug Kenna and Tom Lombardo last year, has come along so fast this season that Coach Earl Blaik rates him above the graduated pair.

"The rest of the team can't operate if he doesn't operate," Blaik declared. "He is by far the best man under center we have had here. He has done a magnificent job. He passes well, he's a good runner, a good tackler and a good blocker."

With Davis sweeping the ends and Blanchard blasting through the middle, Army hasn't had to do much passing this season. However, the records show that the Cadets' air arm isn't to be sneezed at. Tucker has done most of the passing and the team's completion mark is well over .600.

While Tucker was out yesterday, Dick Walterhouse, the extra point specialist and second string quarterback, ran the varsity through a rugged scrimmage against the reserves.

Navy Has Fine Ends.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 28 (AP)—One position at which Navy figures it holds a decided advantage over Army is at end, and therein lies Navy's chances of penning up swift Glenn Davis.

Dick Duden, six feet tall, 203 pounds, 20 years old, and Leon Bramlett, six feet one, 195, and 21 years old, will shoulder the responsibility of halting Davis in Saturday's service spectacle in Philadelphia.

Nobody this season has been able to prevent Davis from sweeping wide on touchdown runs, as Army applied its one-two punch, Davis in the open and "Doc" Blanchard down the middle.

But Navy supporters contend that Davis never has run up against wingmen of the caliber of Duden and Bramlett.

Both have been mentioned repeatedly for All America and Navy coaches consider them the "finest pair" of ends in the country.

No Housing Problem in Baseball Hall of Fame.

IN recent elections held to enshrine famous ball players in the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, the votes have been so scattered that it became increasingly difficult to elect anybody. Therefore this year the system of voting has been changed. In the past members of the Baseball Writers' Association had a wide latitude, but this year the field for the final vote will be narrowed down and perhaps some of the stars generally regarded as belonging in the Hall, will be honored.

Nominating ballots have been distributed among the writers and each will pick ten candidates. After the ballots have been tabulated the names of the 20 candidates receiving the highest number of votes, including possible ties for the 20th place, will be listed alphabetically on a final ballot. The writers then will vote for five of the 20 or more candidates. Approval by 75 per cent of the writers sending in final ballots will be necessary for election to the Hall.

There are many big names of baseball in the list of candidates. To mention only a few who in the past have received many votes, but not enough for election, the roster includes Rube Waddell, Ed Walsh, Frank Chance, Johnny Evers, Rabbit Maranville, Eddie Plank, Dazzy Vance, Miller Huggins and Addie Joss.

Players Active Since 1900 Ruled Eligible.

PLAYERS who more recently have been stars of the diamond include Frankie Frisch, Pie Traynor, Carl Hubbell, Lefty Grove and Dizzy Dean. The rules provide that a player, to be eligible, must have completed his active career prior to 1945. Players, the writers are told, shall be chosen on the basis of playing ability, integrity, sportsmanship, character, their contribution to the team on which they played and to baseball in general.

It isn't too easy to sort and pick ten candidates. We felt that Rube Waddell, despite his well-known play-boy tendencies, belonged in the hall. Rabbit Maranville, too, was one of the great showmen of baseball in our book. He belongs. Dizzy Dean was a standout for color and ability. Dazzy Vance was one of the greatest curve ball pitchers we ever saw. Iron Man McGinnity is part of baseball tradition. The late Ban Johnson always insisted that Lou Criger was the greatest catcher he had ever seen. Of the more recent stars, Carl Hubbell, master of the butterfly curve, should have a spot close to Dizzy Dean. Their pitching duels were a great contribution to the sports picture.

Frankie Frisch, the old Fordham Flash, and Pie Traynor, third baseman on many a fan's all-star team, eventually should be in the Hall of Fame.

One difficulty of the last few elections was the fact that the writers were not familiar with the big names of the early days of baseball. And so a special committee was appointed to give the old-timers a chance. As a result Jimmy Collins, Roger Bresnahan, Ed Delahanty, Fred Clarke, Hugh Jennings, Hugh Duffy and Wilbert Robinson were voted into the Hall April 25, 1945.

Bill Dickey Does Not Expect To Return as Active Player

MEMPHIS, Nov. 28 (AP)—Lt. William M. (Bill) Dickey expects to doff his navy blues in a couple of months but says he probably won't replace them with the familiar mask and shin guards.

At 38, the veteran catcher of the New York Yankees is planning to retire from active play.

"I haven't made any plans yet," the drawling Arkansan asserted today, "but I doubt that I'll do any more catching.

"I haven't played any baseball in two years, you know, and that's a long layoff for an old guy like me."

Dickey has just returned to the states after serving 15 months as athletic director of the naval program at Pearl Harbor. He has been assigned to the athletic department at the naval air station here, pending a discharge expected around the first of the year.

"I helped organize baseball and a lot of other sports out in the Pacific," Dickey said. "I was kept so busy I didn't get chance to play myself."

He asserted he wasn't sure he would stay in baseball but added: "I'd like to, if I could find the right spot."

The strapping receiver, a native of Little Rock, began his career with Little Rock in 1925. In 1928 he joined the Yankees and then followed 16 stout years with one of the game's most fabulously successful teams.

Dickey played in eight world series and 10 times was named a member of the American League's all-star team. He caught in 100 or more games of 13 consecutive seasons.

In 1943, his last season with the Yankees, he played in 85 games and hit .351.

He joined the Navy in March, 1944.

Conzelman Will Resume Coaching Chicago Cards

CHICAGO, Nov. 28 (AP)—Jimmy Conzelman, one of football's most colorful personalities, will return to the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League as head coach next fall.

Conzelman resigned as the Cardinals' coach in June, 1943, to become assistant to Donald L. Barnes, then president of the St. Louis Browns of the American League. During his affiliation with the Browns, Conzelman also retained his position as vice-president of the Cardinals.

Conzelman confirmed his decision to return to football by telephone from Indianapolis today.

Before coming to the Cardinals Conzelman coached his alma mater, Washington University of St. Louis, to three Missouri Valley Conference championships. As a player and coach, he spent 10 years in the National League before coaching at Washington.

Backseat Drivers, Too.

Bob Higgins, Penn State coach observes: "There are three things most persons think they can do better than anyone else—build a fire, run a hotel and coach a team."

Duck Hunters!

Generally fair weather prevails over the Northern Plains states this morning, except in the upper Mississippi valley, where light snow is falling. Temperatures have risen somewhat in the Dakotas and Manitoba, and are near or slightly above the seasonal average, with readings ranging from the middle 20's in eastern South Dakota to the upper 20's in Manitoba and lower 30's in southern Saskatchewan. Slightly colder weather is overspreading northern Alberta and the District of Mackenzie, but no unseasonably low temperatures are noted.

A further rise in temperature is indicated for the Dakotas during the next 24 to 36 hours, with daytime readings ranging from 40 to 60 degrees in South Dakota and from 35 to 50 degrees in North Dakota. Minimum temperatures will range from the middle 20's to the middle 30's. There will be considerable cloudiness, but no precipitation is anticipated, except for occasional snow flurries today in the eastern portions of North Dakota and Montana.

Sunrise tomorrow 6:59, sunset 4:40.

Miami, O., to Open Concordia Home Season

Opening a 10-game home schedule, Concordia Seminary's basketball team will play Miami (Ohio) University Saturday at the Washington University field house, which will be the location of all Concordia home games this season.

The Miami team last year was runner-up in the Terre Haute, Ind., basketball tournament, which was won by Murray State Teachers College, also on Concordia's schedules for Dec. 15, here.

Concordia will meet Washington University twice this season, and hopes to schedule a game with St. Louis University.

The Seminarians, coached by Warren Schuerman, began their season recently against Valparaiso, losing 47 to 37.

The Concordia schedule:

Dec. 1	Miami U. here.
Dec. 5	Camp Grant, here.
Dec. 8	Eastern Illinois, here.
Dec. 13	Arkansas State, here.
Dec. 15	Murray St. Teachers, here.
Jan. 11	Concordia, Springfield, here.
Jan. 12	Arkansas State, there.
Jan. 18	Open date.
Jan. 19	Indiana State, there.
Jan. 28	Washington U., here.
Feb. 2	Illinois Wesleyan, there.
Feb. 9	Indiana State, here.
Feb. 16	Eastern Illinois, there.
Feb. 18	Washington U., there.
Feb. 23	Valparaiso, here.
Feb. 26	Illinois Wesleyan, here.
March 2	Concordia, Springfield, there.

Bears Basket Squad in Two Games Tonight

Washington University's basketball team doesn't have a coach it can count on, for Bob Kinnan will be gone by Jan. 1 even if no successor is appointed. But, meanwhile, the Bears feel hardy enough to take on two opponents in one night.

That's what they'll do tonight, beginning at 7:30 at the Washington Field House, having scheduled a doubleheader against Harris Teachers' College and Parks Air College.

No admission fee will be required for the twin bill, open absolutely free to the public, which will see the squad split into two parts for the program. The Reds will oppose Harris in the first game and the Whites will meet Parks in a nightcap scheduled to begin at 8:45.

London, Brake, Levinson, Bergesch and C. W. Shokmiller are Washington veterans.

Yesterday afternoon Artie Eilers a member of a committee chosen to select Kinnan's successor as basketball coach, said the group hoped to name a new mentor "in a day or two."

Marine From Notre Dame Returns for 'Crack at Army'

A husky young Irishman, James R. Sullivan, left the Marine Corps here today to return, by way of his Cleveland (O.) home, to Notre Dame where he was regular center for the fighting Irish in 1492.

Discharged after 35 months of service, Sullivan had spent the last three months in the Federal building recruiting office of the Marines. A sophomore when at Notre Dame, he will have two more years of eligibility.

Notre Dame won from Army, Navy, Northwestern, Illinois, Stanford, Southern California and the Iowa Seahawks in 1942.

"I got my biggest thrill that year when, with (Coach) Leahy in the hospital, we upset Bernie Bierman's unbeaten Seahawks, 27-0," Sullivan said. "Now, I want another crack at Army."

Six feet, two inches tall and weighing 225 pounds, Sullivan was an amateur boxer at the age of 15 and met Lem Franklin, hard-hitting Negro heavyweight, before Franklin turned professional. Franklin knocked him out in the second round.

Dates Announced for Basket Title Events

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28 (AP)—Harold G. Olsen, Ohio State basketball coach and chairman of the National Collegiate Athletic Association Basketball Tournament Committee, announced yesterday dates of the N.C.A.A. tournaments.

Finals and semi-finals of the Eastern Division will be held March 21 and 23 at Madison Square Garden in New York. The Western Division playoffs will be played at Kansas City, Mo., March 22-23.

The national finals will be in New York March 26 with a consolation playoff game preceding the championship clash.

Marquette, Miami Players Top Bills' All-Opponent Squad

Three players from each Marquette and the Miami University teams, were named at a meeting of players of the St. Louis U. team for their all-opponent eleven.

Orlando Palesse, Marquette, left end; Kalchik, Marquette, at left tackle; Ed Kopscher, Olathe, at left guard; Gene Malowski, Detroit, at center; Joe Mullen, Detroit, left guard; Ed Del Grande, Miami, at left end; Roy Engele, Olathe, at quarterback; Perry Harris, Drake, left half; Paul Copoulos, Marquette, right half; and Harry Ghaul, Miami, at the fullback post.

Honorable mention was given to the following: Teik and Ramsmeyer, Marquette; Simmons and Sullivan, Detroit; Migliorisi and Voigel, Drake; Banks and Smith, Fort Riley, and Taylor of Rolla.

U.S.C. End Is Named Lineman Of the Week

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP)—Harry Adelman, who played a stellar role in Southern California's triumph over Oregon State Saturday, has been named the Associated Press' lineman of the week.

The Trojans had to beat State to stay in the running for the Rose Bowl nomination and Adelman's spectacular job at left end was a prime factor in their 34-7 victory.

With Southern California trailing 6-7 Adelman tackled John Karamanos of Oregon State in the end zone for a safety and two points to put Southern California in front. The Trojan later fell on a fumble for a touchdown and broke through the Beaver line several times to throw the ball toters for heavy losses.

The aggressive play of Washington State's guard, Laurie Niemi, also kept the Cougars in the Pasadena picture. Washington was behind 7-0 and was marching toward the Cougars' goal line when Niemi nailed Gordon Hungar for a four-yard loss. On the next play Niemi recovered a Washington fumble on his own six-yard stripe.

Battered by Army the week before, Pennsylvania's George Savitsky came back and did a whale of a job on Cornell from his tackle berth last Saturday. Warren Amling, Ohio State's crack guard, turned in another outstanding performance against Michigan.

Among the other forwards who were praised for their play Saturday were:

Ends—Kelly Mote, Duke; Max Dodge, Nevada; Sam Maynard, Utah; Gene Wilson, Southern Methodist; Bruce Bradber, Rice; Ted Kluszewski, Indiana; Jack Larond, California, and Bill Pritchard, North Carolina.

Tackles—Buster McClus, Nevada; Dan Williams, Princeton; Tom Dean, Southern Methodist; Ted Hazelwood, North Carolina.

Guards—Joe Dickerson, Penn; Sid Varney, North Carolina; Jack Poole and Ed Perini, Duke.

Phillips 66 Defeats Kansas City Team

INDEPENDENCE, Kan., Nov. 28 (AP)—Leading all the way, the National A.A.U. champion Phillips 66 cagers of Bartlesville, Okla., achieved their third straight basketball victory of the season here tonight downing the Kansas City Karnes drug team, 60 to 26.

The Oilers were never extended, and all members of the squad figured in the scoring. Jimmie McNatt, ace forward, and Gordon Carpenter, star guard, tallied nine points each to lead the winners. Charley Kalsu, Karnes center, racked up 11 counters in defeat.

Bartlesville held a 27 to 11 advantage at the halfway mark.

WRAY'S COLUMN

When Carnera Came to St. Louis

SEE where Primo Carnera broke into the fight news recently. . . . In Milan, Italy, he suffered a seventh-round technical kayo, after declaring that he had been forced into the fight at the point of a spectator's pistol. . . . Some mistake there. . . . Ordinarily, a spectator probably would have used the weapon to prevent him from entering the ring.

Primo, so the boxing books say, will be 40 years old his next birthday. . . . Probably he's upwards of that, because what the boxing guide tells about him is in many cases far off the beam. . . . In fact, to believe the story of his French manager, the biggest ring hoax in history was based on Carnera's exploitation of the United States.

Leon See, who brought Primo across, after his control of "Prime Beef" had been usurped by his New York underworld associates, spilled the beans and in detail told all about the build-ups and jobs that made over this mild-mannered European circus strong man into a ferocious man-crushing gorilla of the ring.

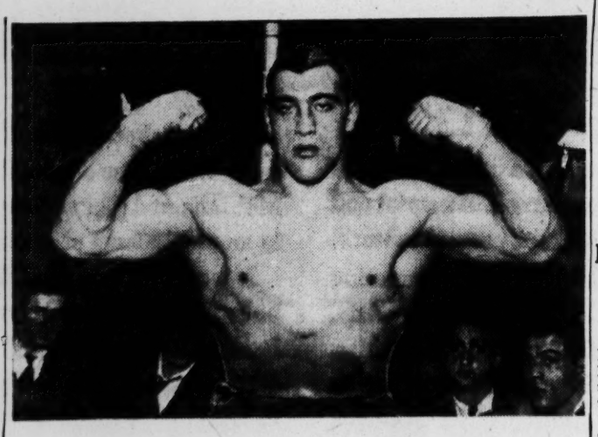
After a European campaign See brought Primo to this country in 1930, telling tall stories about his killing punch, his ferocity and the limitless power in his huge frame, which towered 6 feet 6 inches above the canvas and packed around a weight of 265 pounds. . . . To tell the truth this was good weight, too, because Primo was always in shape—one thing his publicists didn't have to misrepresent.

Perhaps they meant well with Primo, in the beginning. . . . They hired the shifty Abe Attell to coach him in boxing. . . . They got him some good trainers. . . . But when the shifty William Duffy of New York broke into the picture as American manager, things began to happen.

The first year of his big American campaign they put the big fellow over in a large way. . . . Primo fought 25 fights and won 22 of them on knockouts! . . . He lost only one fight—that to Jimmy Maloney, whom he made the mistake of meeting in Maloney's home town, Boston. . . . Jimmy got a Boston verdict—and maybe earned it.



Primo in His Prime

PRIMO CARNERA, huge Italian who was built up to a championship in 1933, following a highly suspicious three-year campaign in this country. Despite his splendid physique and 265 pounds of well-conditioned beef and bone he couldn't punch a lick.

They Made Carnera Believe Himself Good.

CARNERA, during this campaign, was pitted against pushovers. . . . He fought two of them right here in St. Louis—Buster Martin, an Oklahoma policeman, and Chuck Wiggins, a has been whom John Barleycorn had licked into submission long before. . . . With these two opponents, Carnera drew more than $80,000 in gate receipts—about the most money earned by one boxer in this town at any time.

We believed the yarns about Carnera, in the early days. . . . He really was built wonderfully and trained hard. . . . Attell had taught him how to use that wagon-tongue left arm. . . . But after the Wiggins farce, we hedged. . . . That act was too raw. . . . But it wasn't as bad as the Godfrey fight in Philadelphia, which we also saw. . . . Godfrey could have stopped Carnera whenever he wanted to, had he desired.

Gradually the odor about the huge Italian's rise to fame intensified. . . . He fought Leon Chevalier in Oakland and was barred by the commission thereafter. But despite all the suspicion aroused by his campaign, by the time he came back to St. Louis in December 1932, he had been built up in the press to near-championship stature. . . . They were getting

Muny to Ask U.S. Soccer Group to Support Sweeping Suspensions

Hot Points Given Berth Of Set Ups

By Dent McSkimming.

Co-managers and 11 players of the Natural Set Up soccer team were suspended last night in drastic action taken by the Municipal Soccer Association, which announced shortly after noon today that a new team—the Hot Points—would take the Set Ups' place in the Big Four league.

Sponsored by Turner Minnigerode, sporting goods dealer, and managed by Eddie Heggi, the new team will move into the suspended team's place in the schedule and will play its first game Sunday afternoon against the Carondelet Sunday Morning Athletic Club at Fairgrounds Park No. 1.

Five former Natural players declared free agents by the Muny group—Eddie Begley, Joe Spica, Leo Puttin, Danny Neaf and Harold Thompson — will form the backbone of the Hot Points, Minnigerode said.

Last night's suspension meeting had this result for the Set Ups:

Ben Fernandez and Cecil Rodriguez, who have collaborated in managing the team through its six weeks of action in the Big Four Open group this season, headed the list of men punished. Players who are forbidden to participate in Muny games henceforth are: Art Garcia, captain of the team; Joe Garcia, Larry Kickham, Bill Cohan, Harold Gunning, Emil Muniz, Frank Muniz, Tony Whetzel, Ike Mendenez, George Thie and James Payne. Thie, a fullback, is a member of the Carter Carburetor team of the Y.M.C.A. Industrial League who made the Chicago trip just to help out.

Bill Fogarty, who played in the game, was not punished since he was not a member of any local team. He has just been discharged from the Army. Five other Natural players faced no charge since they did not go to Chicago and they were declared free agents by the committee.

Almost all the players involved are now or have been ranked among the city's outstanding players. It had been expected they would form one of St. Louis' strong contenders in the national championship competition which opens next month. The U.S.S.F.A., national governing body, will be notified of the suspensions and will be asked to support the league in its action, the committee members said.

Players questioned by the board were unanimous in declaring they assumed their manager had obtained necessary permission for the Chicago game. Ben Fernandez said he was not aware he had overlooked this vital point until it was too late to cancel his contract with Chicago. He asked the committee to limit its punishment to the management and to let the players remain in good standing. He convinced the committee of his sincerity but failed to sway its judgment. The board was made up of Tom Molloy, Nick Reidy, Joe Phelan and Jim Eagan. George Thompson, acting superintendent of recreation, was chairman.

The Chicago series of two games, Nov. 22-25, was booked by Walter Giesler, chairman of the Missouri Soccer Commission. The distressing lack of co-operation between the state body and the Muny League was repeatedly emphasized by players, managers and committee members.

"This squabbling between factions of officials is ruining soccer here," said Art Garcia.

The Missouri Commission was not represented but it was announced that the two governing boards will get together in a joint meeting early next week. The immediate business then will be the scheduling of National Cup games but the broader subject of closer co-operation will be thrashed out.

Rolls 267 for City Women's Pin Mark

Norma Bumb, bowling in the 7 O'Clock Tuesday Night League, rolled a 267 for a new women's high for the season in the city last night, at Bevo Alleys.

She competes on the George Amann Meat Market team which defeated the Seven Ups in all three games and had individual scores of the 267 for the first game, then shot 179 and 159.

Thelma Delaplain, who also competes at Bevo in the Seven O'Clock Friday Night Ladies' circuit, had the previous high for the year, a 266, bowled just two weeks ago.

All-Time Attendance Mark Set by Big Ten Grid Teams

CHICAGO, Nov. 28 (AP)—There are those who say the quality of Western Conference football play was not up to prewar standards the past season, but attendance at the games shattered almost every mark on the books.

The nine teams of the circuit played before a total of 1,983,683 fans, official figures show, compared with the previous all-time record, set in 1941, of 1,811,380.

Two teams, Ohio State and Michigan, which were in the title fight until the final game, each played before more than half a million people, for the first time in history. Northwestern, ranked among the also-rans in pre-season prognostications, drew 386,489 fans for nine games.

Here's how the teams drew:

Team	Total Attendance	Total At Home
Ohio State (9)	544,499	377,327 (6)
Michigan (10)	529,580	305,664 (6)
Northwestern (9)	386,489	211,500 (6)
Minnesota (9)	381,358	257,426 (6)
Wisconsin (9)	333,131	145,000 (5)
Purdue (10)	306,185	60,000 (4)
Illinois (9)	301,623	118,336 (5)
Iowa (9)	212,502	64,000 (4)
Indiana (10)	208,273	66,400 (4)

Some other records were written into the statistical books, which have been kept only since 1939.

Jerry Niles of Iowa, and the Hawkeyes' reliance on the forward pass provided three of six new team and individual records for conference play. Iowa averaged 23 passes per game to beat the Illinois mark of 22 set in 1940. Niles tossed 130 passes during the season to erase the mark of 104 set by Otto Graham of Northwestern in 1942, and Niles' average of 21 2-3 was 4 1-3 over Graham's mark.

Northwestern was penalized but 18.85 yards per game, Illinois held its foes to an average of 23.7 per cent in pass completions and Purdue's Bill Canfield, with 18 pass receptions in six games, were the three other records of the season.

SHORT—WAVES

DR. EDDIE ANDERSON, athletic director and football coach at Iowa until he entered the service three years ago, announced at the annual Illinois U. banquet that he expected to return to the Iowa City campus next fall. . . . NORMAN (NED) MALONEY, Purdue's right end, was named as the most valuable player on the team. . . . At Michigan, ART RENNER, another end, was elected captain of the eleven. . . . BILL GOMPERS, Notre Dame back, will miss Saturday's game with Great Lakes, because of a vertebral fracture.

Bob Quinn in St. Louis; 'Will Cover Much Ground In New Promotion Job'

Bob Quinn, new baseball promotion man for the Wilson Sporting Goods Company, came back today to St. Louis, scene of his most successful years as a major league executive, and spoke enthusiastically of the job, announced yesterday.

"It's a brand new job, and I'm going to cover lots of ground," said the 75-year-old Quinn, who resigned last week as director of the Boston Braves' farm system.

Quinn said the sporting goods company asked him to visit its Chicago office shortly before he tendered his resignation to the Braves.

"The job was strictly unsolicited," he said, "and that's one reason I took it. Wilson made me a very good offer. My headquarters will be in Chicago."

Six of Quinn's 50 years in baseball were spent as general manager of the Browns in the Phil Ball-Lee Fohl-George Sisler era when the local American League team enjoyed both playingfield and financial success, missing the pennant by one game in 1922.

Bob Montgomery Is Given Discharge

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 28 (AP)—Bob Montgomery, recognized by the New York State Athletic Commission as world lightweight boxing champion, was released from the Air Corps at Luke Field yesterday on a medical discharge.

Cpl. Montgomery was injured in an auto accident at Princeton, N.J., in July, spent three months in Valley Forge General Hospital at Phoenixville, Pa., and was moved to Mitchel Field Convalescent Hospital, and was reassigned recently to Luke Field's physical training department.

British Champion Wins.

LONDON, Nov. 28 (AP)—Bruce Woodcock, British heavyweight champion, scored a technical knockout last night over Jock Porter in the third round of their scheduled 10-round nontitle bout. Porter was down five times before the referee stopped the fracas.

50,000 Expected to See Yale, Harvard Game This Weekend

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 28 (AP)—The Yale-Harvard football game, no longer the annual top gridiron battle of the nation but still a lively attraction, returns to the American sports scene Saturday after a three-year lapse.

There was a time when it was almost impossible to obtain a ticket for the contest unless you were an alumnus or a friend of an alumnus. Those days are gone, but Yale still expects a crowd of 50,000 for the sixty-second renewal of the rivalry between these most ivy-covered of ivy-covered teams.

If the expectations are fulfilled, it will be the biggest throng in the Yale Bowl (capacity 72,000) since the Army game of 1941.

That would be quite a turnout for a game that wasn't even scheduled when the season started.

Bowls 300 Game.

BINGHAMPTON, N. Y., Nov. 28 (AP)—Marion Randesi, bowling with the Pepsi Colas of the City League, last night rolled 300, 225, 243 for 768, one of the nation's best totals for the season

TOUGH AS AN ELEPHANT'S HIDE!

That's Phillips 66

When you pay for protection—it pays to get the best! That's why we'd like to call your attention to Phillips 66 Motor Oil—the oil that's as tough as an old bull-elephant's hide!

You know, toughness isn't something you can refine into an oil. It's got to be there in the first place. Well, Mother Nature made this oil tough—and it took her thousands of years to do it!

All we do is pump it out of the ground . . . give it some special Phillips refining . . . and bring it to you with all those wonderful God-given lubricating qualities unimpaired!

When there's only a few pennies difference between "the best" and "mediocre," why take a chance? Drive in where you see the big Orange-and-Black sign with the double-six and say—"Fill 'er full o' Phillips!"

You won't find a more honest, natural oil in America!

"Fill 'er Full o' Phillips!"

Mehlville and Affton Win in Bayless Event

Affton defeated Valley Park, 26 to 23, in the final quarterfinal contest of the Bayless High School basketball tournament last night. Valley Park defeated Brentwood, defending champion, Monday night in the first upset of the meet.

Mehlville eliminated Ferguson, 38 to 34, while Eureka bested Bayless, 29 to 24.

Andy Rust of Mehlville led the night's scoring with six field goals and three free throws for 15 points.

Bayless meets Hancock in a consolation game tonight at 7 o'clock, while in the next contest Eurkea takes on Berkley in a championship affair. Ferguson and Valley Park play the final, another consolation game.

him ready for a title fight with Jack Sharkey, then the titleholder.

But he didn't even remotely resemble a champion when he fought John Schwake, the blubbery St. Louis heavyweight, at the Coliseum here. . . . He could have been disqualified for a foul in that fight. . . . But they gave Schwake a rest and sent him back in. . . . And he wasn't fit to fight, after his injury. . . . The record book says he lost on a kayo. . . . But Carnera really lost, in the estimation of many present.

We followed Carnera to his championship fight, in which he delivered a most amazing, not to say suspicious, knockout of Sharkey. . . . And we also wound up at the ringside to view Carnera's finish when he was kayoed by the clown prince of the ring, Max Baer.

Coast League Will Continue Fight for Higher Draft Price

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Pacific Coast League will continue its fight for major league rating and higher player draft prices at next week's meeting of the National Association of (Minor) Professional Baseball Leagues in Columbus, O., Clarence Rowland, president of the coast circuit, said yesterday.

Rowland said the eight Coast League directors would support both proposals, with the draft prices coming up for first consideration at the meeting next Monday of double-A league officials. Coast officials want the basic AA-to-majors price raised from $7500 to $15,000.

"We're not much concerned whether this requires a change in rating from AA to AAA," said Rowland. "The main point is the minor leagues should get more money for their drafted players."

71st Infantry Wins From Third Infantry

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Seventy-first Infantry Division football team, champions of the Third Army, yesterday defeated the previously unbeaten Third Infantry eleven Regiment Cockades, Seventh Army champs, 20 to 6.

It was the final appearance of Texas Jack Mitchell, formerly of the University of Texas, who was the main ground gainer for the Cockades. Jack is leaving soon for home.

"THE JOB HAS BEEN WELL DONE"
—says Secretary of War Patterson

"The transportation requirements of this war have been tremendous. The part played by the railroads of America in meeting these requirements has been so outstanding and of such a high degree of efficiency that it reflects great credit on railroad transportation generally and upon the officers and employees of the individual railroads which make up the whole. The job has been well done."

—Excerpt from a letter of the Hon. Robert P. Patterson, Secretary of War, addressed to the Association of American Railroads.

Thanks, Mr. Secretary, for this tribute!

As a part of the great railroad industry, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, with its 34,000 employees, a 42 million-dollar expenditure for improvements, and splendid public cooperation, helped to make this fine performance possible.

Legally There's No War in China; Russia Could Turn Over Manchuria To Yenan as Agent of Chungking

Chinese Communists Nominally Acknowledge Chiang as Their Commander—U. S. and Soviet Union Also Play Make-Believe Game.

By GEORGE WELLER

The Chicago Daily News—Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1945.

CHUNGKING, Nov. 28

CHINA'S civil war is an upside-down conflict. Each side has reversed the practices of normal warfare. The nationalists announce Communist victories—and are mum about their own. The Communists blare to the world each nationalist advance into Manchuria—but are discreet about their attacks on governmental railway posts.

The fellow who is winning trumpets how badly he is being beaten. He never admits that he has taken a town. He waits for a wail from the other side, and then either is silent or abashedly admits, "we had to fight; those guys were pushing us around."

The United States and Russia, which stand behind the embattled forces, are also beginning to play the same game of Let's Pretend.

America's Key Role.

American spokesmen emphasize that the Americans are equipping one side with lend-lease, long after Japan's defeat, merely in order to demilitarize the Japanese, who have not a kick in a carload. The Americans quietly ignore the fact that the entire tactical position of the American expeditionary force is the core of the Nationalist offensive against the Communists and prevents three Red forces in Shantung, Anhwei and Manchuria from uniting.

The Russians, no less adept at looking one way and seeing another, have allowed the Chinese Communists to raise one army in Manchuria and to import another. They, too, are making believe that there is no such thing as civil war in China. When the Nationalists ask for the delivery of Manchuria, as promised in the Chinese-Soviet treaty, the Russians blandly say, "Come and get it."

Beneath this mumbo-jumbo lies the fact that everyone concerned is more or less embarrassed that, after eight years of being walked on by Japan, the Chinese should have nothing better to do than to fight each other. The Chinese, themselves, are ashamed. This shame makes each side's eagerness to place the blame on the other that much more acute.

Absurd Formality.

Legally, the situation of the armies is preposterous. The main reason the Communists claim the right to take over Manchuria is that they are "members of the nationalists' forces." Communist propaganda almost never attacks Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek directly. It still nominally acknowledges him as commander-in-chief.

Conversely, even while blasting the perfidy of the Communist leaders, Kuomintang generals never quite reach the point of formally stripping them of their powers.

Legally, the civil war is still nothing more than one-quarter of China's national forces, fighting privately the other three quarters.

There is a loophole here under which the Russians can justify handing over Manchuria to the Communists. With both sides pretending that the embattled armies are united, the Kremlin needs only to pretend, too.

While the Communist press pounds Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of American forces in China, the No. 2 Communist, Gen. Chou En-lai, sees him to the airfield and is his luncheon guest. When the Red general needs an airplane to fly to Yenan, it is those awful Americans who are asked to provide it.

When American pilots, wary of Chungking's misty mountains, fail to appear, whom do you suppose Chou En-lai asks for a smaller substitute aircraft? That's right—his deadly enemy, the nationalist government. And the government turns handsprings getting it for him because Chou En-lai is flying to Yenan in order to bring back Communist delegates to new peace negotiations.

Quisling Turncoats.

When China gets around to court-martialing its renegade generals and pro-Japanese army officers, they will all be wearing Allied campaign ribbons.

These quislings—called, in the Far East, "puppets"—are mostly paying the price for having guessed the wrong victor by doing their first real fighting after the war. They are fighting the same armies they used to hunt on behalf of Japan, the Communist armies of northern China.

Played down by the Kuomintang press and little noticed by foreign observers, a gigantic shift of power has taken place in the design of China's ever-changing military forces. About 600,000 quisling soldiers—that is, 24 Chinese armies, or 72 divisions—have purchased their immunity from the normal penalties of treason by being absorbed into the nationalist forces. A small percentage have entered the Communist forces.

The change in China resembles that effected in Greece by the British in taking the quisling security battalions, who fought with German help against republican partisans, and incorporating them, after a brief period in a concentration camp, directly into the national army. At bottom the principle is the same: Having fought the leftists during the war, the puppets can expect to fight them during the "peace."

Puppets in Manchuria.

Most quisling forces in China proper are already absorbed, but those in Manchuria, numbering about 200,000 are a factor of uncertainty. The Communists already infiltrated in Manchuria are getting first chance at absorbing them. Amid the heterogenous patchwork of Japanese, Russian, nationalist, Communist and irregular armies, which way the puppets turn is an important element in the uncertain Manchurian future.

The Communists' press and their radio transmitter at Yenan hammer continually at the government's policy of using puppets to fight the Communists. Long lists are read of puppet division commanders, who served four years or more under the Japanese and now are leading the same division under Chiang Kai-shek.

The governmental press, replying, says that scores will be settled with collaborationists some day, after the civil war ends. A Chungking newspaper explains: "The present way of disposing of puppet troops is only a provisional measure to protect the populace under present circumstances. It is a most technical question and cannot be described as collaboration."

Chungking's Excuse.

Asked why quislings who fought the Japs are now used to fight Communists, a governmental official told the writer: "What do you want us to do, punish them for collaborating with the Japs? For every division commander we punish, another division would go over to the Communists. We must choose between absorbing the puppets, or having the Communists absorb them."

Whatever political ethics are involved, the transformation from enemies to allies is technically simplicity itself. In most cases, puppet armies change nothing but their headgear. The Chinese quartermaster corps, when it was requested to supply new uniforms for several thousands of reformed puppets, sent them merely a few plane loads of round caps to replace the Japanese style peaks they had been using.

Meantime, men are dying, property is being destroyed, American relief is trickling through UNRRA to Nationalist, but not Red China. Both sides say that there is fighting at Paotow and Kweishon for Inner Mongolia's main railroad. It would take two months to go there and find out who is to blame. Anyway, it is sure to be the other fellow.

U.S. PATROL BOAT FIRED ON IN YANGTZE RIVER; NONE OF CREWMEN HURT

SHANGHAI, Nov. 28 (AP).

THE American naval patrol craft 1134 was fired on with small arms yesterday as it moved down the Yangtze river about eight miles above Kichun, R. Adm. C. T. Joy announced today.

Joy, commander of the Yangtze patrol, said the vessel was undamaged and no American personnel was hurt. Identity of the attackers was not known. The patrol craft was in a small convoy moving from Hankow.

On Oct. 22 the United States Navy repair ship Seize was fired on by a shore battery and small arms below Nanking. Its mast was hit and the Seize returned the fire with machine guns.

What the Russian Censors Deleted In Story of Attitude Toward Allies

By RANDOLPH CHURCHILL

(Copyright, 1945.)

(The blackface passages in the following article were deleted by Russian censors when Randolph Churchill originally submitted the manuscript for transmission from Moscow.)

HELSINKI.

DURING my recent visit to Moscow, I was at pains to discover all I could about Russia's attitude to the Western powers and what are her immediate political and territorial objectives.

I met Molotov, Vishinsky, Lozovsky, Litvinov and Maisky, the last of whom was an old friend of mine from the days when he was Soviet Ambassador in London. Vishinsky and Lozovsky, together with Dekanozov, whom I did not meet, are all members of the Central Committee of the Communist Party. Litvinov, who is one of the few surviving old Bolsheviks, and Maisky, who is an old Menshevik, have no such exalted position in the party. And though they are also deputy commissars of Foreign Affairs, they don't have the same influence as their colleagues. They are regarded as technicians whose advice is sought on matters on which they are thought to be specialists. All of them are now sporting magnificent diplomatic uniforms, which seems to be the standard practice in totalitarian countries.

Criticism of Bevin.

Russian diplomatic circles are unanimous in voicing their criticism of British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin. They regard him as a reactionary and all seem to think they were better off in the days when Anthony Eden presided over the Foreign Office. This criticism is not entirely based on Bevin's forthright attitude at the London conference of the five Foreign Ministers. Russian Foreign Office officials think that, as a trade union leader who has for years fought against infiltration of British Communists into the trade union movement, he has brought to the Foreign Office a general aversion to all Communists, including those who inhabit the Kremlin. In support of this theory, they point to the fact that Bevin never accepted any invitation to the Soviet Embassy in London prior to 1941 and that to some Russian invitations he sent discourteous replies. They further allege that Bevin let it be known around London that it was "as a matter of principle" that he never went to Soviet receptions.

The other main theme of Soviet dissatisfaction which I encountered was on the topic of the atomic bomb. Russian officials with whom I talked affected to believe that the declared American intention to retain the manufacturing and engineering technique which has been perfected in the United States shows a desire to use the bomb for "imperialistic purposes." They further added that such a policy was bound to cause suspicion and hostility in the Soviet Union.

About the Atomic Bomb.

I naturally did not allow these criticisms of my western allies to pass without comment. I pointed out that, whatever social solecisms Bevin may have committed before the war, his firm attitude at the London Conference had received the warm approval of a large majority of British public opinion. In the matter of the atomic bomb, I tried to reassure my Russian friends by pointing out that, though the Americans alone possessed the bomb, they have not dropped it on the Russians nor made the slightest use of any diplomatic pressure which might be thought to reside in the new weapon's extraordinary power.

The fact that the Americans possess such a weapon without using it was the best possible guarantee of the pacific intentions of the United States. I asked them chaffingly whether in fact anyone in the Kremlin had lost a single minute's sleep worrying about whether the Americans were about to drop an atomic bomb on Red Square. They were all too honest to pretend they had.

I next tried to point out that all this talk of "arousing suspicions" was a little one-sided. We, too, in the western world, are sometimes perplexed and bewildered by the policy of the Soviets.

"What are the ultimate objectives of Russian expansionism?" I asked. "Do you really want Tripolitania and Eritrea? And don't you think we are bound to be a bit concerned by the Communist Fifth Column which, despite the abolition of the Comintern, has grown up in every country in the world and which still takes its line directly from the Kremlin?"

I am bound to say they took all these questions in very good part, as I have found Communists always do when they are put by supporters of the individualist and capitalist world who are known to be fundamentally friendly to the Soviet Union and who are not thought to be blinded by ideological prejudices. Some of what I gathered was reassuring; some of it rather less so.

Tomorrow I shall try to give a dispassionate appraisal of what I was told and what we may expect to be the main lines of development in the Soviet foreign policy of the immediate future.

VATICAN REPORTS VIOLENCE AS ALBANIA OUSTS PRIESTS

LONDON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Vatican radio said last night that advices received in Rome reported "bloody disturbances" occurred in Albania on Nov. 15 during the expulsion of all Italian Roman Catholic clergymen from that country.

2,359,000 JAPANESE STILL IN ASIA AND PACIFIC AREA

TOKYO, Nov. 28 (AP)—United States Eighth Army headquarters today estimated the Japanese remaining in Asia and the Pacific includes 1,700,000 in Manchuria, 67,000 in the Ryukyus, 93,000 in the Carolinas, 548,000 on Formosa and 51,000 in New Guinea.

The first boatload of 2479 arrived Oct. 7 from Mili atoll, in the Marshalls.

RUSSIA NOW REPORTED ANXIOUS FOR AGREEMENT ON COLONIAL TRUSTEESHIPS

LONDON, Nov. 28 (AP)

AN informed, non-Russian source said last night that the Russian delegation to the United States Preparatory Commission may agree to a compromise on the issue of trusteeship of colonies.

Trusteeship is one of the few issues on which the executive committee of the preparatory commission was unable to reach an agreement. Britain and the United States recommended establishment of a temporary committee until new mandates could be parceled out, but Russia objected strongly.

The Soviet Union has asked for a mandate over Tripolitania, in North Africa, and at the London Foreign Ministers' conference the Russians made it clear that they wanted to participate in international supervision of other former colonies and League mandates.

Soviet delegate Andrei Gromyko has just returned from Moscow with fresh instructions which are said to advise that "Russia is extremely anxious to reach agreement" with the other major powers on the trusteeship issue.

'U. S. ON I O U 'S 15 YEARS,' CANNON FIGHTS SPENDING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—Opposing a drive to restore millions in eliminated funds to a deficiency supply bill, Representative Cannon (Dem.), Missouri, declared yesterday the government has been "running on I O Us for 15 years."

"There are men in this House who want to appropriate money we haven't even borrowed yet," the chairman of the Appropriations Committee told the House. "We've been running the government on a deficit and we are still trying to borrow more money."

Cannon said "disaster will overtake any nation that fails to pay its way," and told his colleagues "we can't continue to spend money as we did before the war."

ROOSEVELT'S SHIP ESCAPED HIT BY U. S. TORPEDO IN '43

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Navy acknowledged today that the battleship Iowa carrying President Roosevelt to the 1943 Cairo conference escaped being hit by a torpedo fired accidentally from a United States destroyer.

Confirming reports of the occurrence, a Navy spokesman told a reporter that the torpedo, from the destroyer William D. Porter, exploded astern of the Iowa, at a "considerable distance." The battleship was not damaged and there were no injuries to personnel. The incident occurred Nov. 14, 1943.

The William D. Porter was sunk by air attack in the western Pacific last June.

The Navy said a board named to investigate the accidental firing of the torpedo in the Atlantic found that "certain personnel of the William D. Porter were inefficient in performance of duty. These officers and men were admonished." No names were made public.

French Relent, Accept Reich Export Plan

Agree to 4-Power Control After Envoy Talks With Byrnes.

By PAUL GHALI

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1945.

PARIS, Nov. 28

FRANCE finally has accepted the establishment in Berlin of an inter-Allied organization for Germany's exports. Thus France climbs down, for the first time, from its uncompromising attitude which threatened Germany's whole economic life.

A deadlock on the central administration for Germany arose in September when France opposed any common administration so long as the Rhineland and Ruhr had not been given separate administration.

This major decision, made known to this correspondent through private, but unimpeachable authority, was taken at yesterday's meeting in Paris of the French committee for German affairs, over which President Charles de Gaulle presided. The writer's informant interprets the move as a good will measure, but points out that it does not infringe on France's intention to press the Rhineland issue to a prompt and favorable conclusion.

The French change of attitude came as a result of United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes's firm talks with French envoy Maurice Couve de Murville. Murville returned from Washington with clear impressions that the United States would not discuss sympathetically the French thesis unless France first showed its willingness to co-operate in Berlin.

A dispatch from London today states that the British cabinet agrees to support French views for western Germany. This may also cast some light on the reasons for France's sudden change.

This correspondent's source, however, made it clear that France's good will applied only to inter-Allied organizations for Germany and that Gen. Joseph-Pierre Koenig, France's representative on the four-power Allied Control Council for Germany, would continue to oppose any broad administration in which Germans would figure.

It is worth noting that while France has agreed to a common organization for German exports, Russia, for no visible reason, has vetoed it.

U. S. BACKS URUGUAY PLAN TO PROTECT HUMAN RIGHTS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The United States yesterday backed up a Uruguayan proposal for Collective Intervention in the internal affairs of any American republics are to preserve the or its international obligations.

Secretary of State Byrnes issued a statement expressing this nation's "unqualified adherence" and declaring that, if the American Republics are to preserve the peace, they "cannot permit oppressive regimes to exist in their midst."

Uruguayan Foreign Minister Alberto Rodrigues Larretta suggested the intervention policy as a hemispheric security measure in a note sent to other American republics last week. While the note made no mention of any nation, diplomats regarded it as being aimed at the military government in Argentina.

Quiet Death for Labor-Industry Conference Expected Unless Truman Gives It 'Shot in the Arm'

Virtually No Possibility of Agreement on Methods to Reduce Work Stoppages — Night Sessions Called for if Needed to Adjourn This Week.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT

Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28

UNLESS President Truman gives his labor-management conference a shot in the arm it will adjourn this week with a record of non-agreement surpassed only by President Wilson's ill-fated assembly in 1919.

There is virtually no possibility that the conference in its present state of mind can recommend the creation of adequate machinery to minimize work stoppages now caused by industrial disputes.

Although there have been reports that several government officials have asked the President to try to revive the conference either by a speech or a letter, the White House today said nothing was in prospect along that line. This White House statement did not preclude some definite move by President Truman after the conference has adjourned. President Wilson failed in his attempt to rescue the 1919 meeting.

Whether there will be public flare-ups over positive disagreements which occurred in the closed sessions of the working subcommittees will be known when the 36 delegates and their alternates meet in plenary session beginning tomorrow afternoon. The executive committee yesterday called for night sessions if necessary to the conference to adjourn this week.

Split Reports.

Dr. George W. Taylor, conference secretary and spokesman, told a press conference late yesterday that as far as he could learn only one subcommittee would report substantial agreement to the executive committee today and that the others would offer "split reports." The one unanimous report already made public is on "initial collective agreements," and is merely a general statement of what a model first contract should contain.

All committee reports were due today but the committee on management's right to manage was given an extra 24 hours to try to come to an agreement. The committee on collective bargaining seems hopelessly split over management's insistence on "union responsibility" and labor's insistence on "union security."

The management members of the committee on representation and jurisdiction questions yesterday issued a statement saying that after three weeks of discussion with the labor members they had "regretfully arrived at the point where further discussion is not likely to be fruitful at this time."

Causes of Disagreement.

The split in this committee apparently came from the management contention that the National Labor Relations Act should be amended to give some protection to employers; that labor itself should develop, publish and file with the National Labor Relations Board definite procedures under which jurisdictional disputes could be finally resolved or failing that there be legislation to that end; and the proposal that in the determination of a jurisdictional dispute the employer be not required to employ more workers on any operation than are necessary to perform the operation.

The labor members did not make public their views on these topics.

Dr. Taylor told reporters that the executive committee hoped to have some of the subcommittee reports redrafted to include the items of agreement, with notations that there had been disagreement on other items. The objective is to avoid reports which would have little chance in the conference itself since the working committees had disagreed.

Typical of the vague generalities with which the conference is content was the anti-discrimination resolution approved unanimously by the 16-man executive committee yesterday. President Philip Murray of the CIO had called for a forthright declaration that collective bargaining contracts include an anti-discrimination provision.

Substitute by Mosher.

After withholding action for several weeks, the executive committee accepted a substitute recommendation proposed by President Ira Mosher which merely resolved that "the labor-management conference urge on all elements of labor and management the broad democratic spirit of tolerance and equality of economic opportunity in respect to race, sex, color, religion, age, national origin or ancestry in determining who are employed and who are admitted to labor union membership.

After discussion, the committee rejected a sentence in the original Mosher substitute which stated: "The conference reasserts the fundamental American principle that individual ability, merit and achievement should remain the measure of individual recognition and reward."

This was struck out after labor argued that it might violate seniority in contracts.

Murray suffered another defeat when the executive committee tabled by a vote of 13 to 3 his resolution calling for conference consideration of President Truman's statement that substantial wage increases were imperative.

Dr. Taylor said he expected Murray to bring this subject up in the plenary meeting of the conference. It hasn't an outside chance of adoption.

The special subcommittee on fact-finding commissions was unable to reach a decision yesterday and will continue its discussions today.

A Marine Father's View

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Phelim O'Toole's recent letter on the North China situation is right. I also am a service father. I have twin boys in the Philippines, a third at Tientsin, China, and a fourth at Nagasaki, Japan. All are Marines and have seen service.

The twins of mine are 22 years old. One writes me that they are at Malabang, in the Moro country. Their camp is surrounded by those wild tribesmen who have been fighting the Filipinos since after the Spanish-American War.

The report is that these fellows try to infiltrate the Marine lines for the purpose of getting information as to the number of men and their equipment, generally meeting death at the hands of the Marines. This looks very much like the Japs left subversive agents behind to embarrass the Americans. Every now and then a supply train will be ambushed, Marines killed or wounded, or Marines killed in their sleep or badly cut up with the bolo, by those who do now and then penetrate the lines.

There are about 30,000 to 40,000 Moros against a measly 2000 or 3000 Marines. Marines are good, but the odds are just a little bit against them. And what for, anyhow? I thought the war was over—the fighting war, at least. What good are the Marines doing there? We have no quarrel with the Moros. Yet they have declared a sort of war on these Marines, and men are being killed and wounded.

It is one thing to occupy a defeated enemy's country, but to keep armed forces in China and the Philippines—countries supposedly our allies—is, in essence, meddling in their internal affairs. Call it by any other name and it is just the same in the end.

For one, I think the sooner we stop this business and get these boys out—and I am speaking for all the Marines in China and the Philippines—the better it will be for us all.

Equivalency Certificates

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The Missouri State Department of Education's plan for issuing high school equivalency certificates is most constructive, enabling those who have failed to complete their high school course to enter trades, professions or business concerns without the lowering of standards. By this plan Missouri takes its place with other states which have already adopted this program.

A Veteran Finds Intolerance

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Since my arrival home, I have been shocked to learn of utterances of racial discrimination in our city. I am an ex-service man of Jewish faith who saw the blood of young men spilled on the Normandy beaches and Bastogne battlefield. These were the sons of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish mothers.

I have read how the United Nations will soon inaugurate a program to re-educate the people of Germany and Japan. We are to assume that the concepts of such teachings will encompass our democratic principles of life, namely, tolerance, equality and freedom for all men of all creeds everywhere.

Perhaps we had better start here at home to educate some of our adults and children through churches, schools and homes on these basic principles.

Rationing's Out, But—

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The end of meat rationing in the United States is glad news for us, but it is a callous attitude for us to assume that we have the right to gorge while our friends abroad starve.

I hope some way will be found to get food to the hungry—at least to the innocent victims of war. We cannot avoid a moral responsibility to help feed them.

Well-Paid Bank Clerks

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Being a bank official of one of our large banks in St. Louis, I take issue with some recent letters bemoaning the plight of underpaid bank clerks.

For the light work and easy hours, I think their salaries are, on the whole, fair and commensurate to their contribution. The officers, on the other hand, take all responsibility and incidentally bring in the bulk of the business.

One of my associates once remarked, "If we paid them any more, they'd just gamble it away." And while I do not strictly agree with him on that, recent events do seem to bear him out.

Gen. Hurley's Misleading Statement

It is easy to be misled by the fiery statement of Gen. Hurley in announcing his resignation as Ambassador to China, for there are many points in it that are unexceptionable.

When he says our foreign policy has dangerous weaknesses, he is only repeating what many other eminent students of it have said again and again.

When he says that, in both world wars, we failed to establish the principles for which we fought, he is echoing an accusation that is being increasingly made.

When he warns the country that a third world war is in the making, he is expressing a fear that, tragically enough, is gripping the world, though World War II ended scant months ago.

Gen. Hurley's conclusion is eloquent and wholly admirable. He says America should support the amendment or revision of the United Nations Charter to make it democratic, adding: "Our strength should be used to uphold the decisions of the United Nations rather than to support conflicting ideologies or war-making power blocs."

It happens, however, that the picture of the failure of our foreign policy in China is not as simple as Gen. Hurley makes it. It happens that, though he lays responsibility on underlings in the foreign service, the major blame has been placed by widely differing schools of thought on Gen. Hurley himself.

He was sent to China by President Roosevelt to prevent collapse of the Chiang Kai-shek Government and to keep the Chinese Army in the war. It was a mission of the utmost importance and gravity. If, while we were locked in the struggle with Japan, Chiang had collapsed, the results might have been calamitous.

Gen. Hurley, however, became so enamored of his job and so blind to certain truths and realities concerning the Chinese situation as to aggravate the internal division within China that now has flared into civil war—a civil war in which our own American soldiers find themselves increasingly embroiled.

One shocking aspect of our policy in China has come to light in the belated disclosure that virtually every flyable American plane in India and Burma is being flown over the "hump" for delivery to Chiang's Government. The mass flights are being rushed, despite vile weather, and there have been numerous crashes, with a still unstated cost in American casualties.

The division between the Chungking and Yenan governments existed long before Gen. Hurley went to China. It was so serious a division as to be almost a war within a war, for Chiang Kai-shek, instead of sending all his best troops against the Japs, massed many of them against the Chinese Communists.

Gen. Hurley threw all his weight and all the prestige of the United States Government behind Chiang Kai-shek. This encouraged the Generalissimo to intensify his opposition to the Yenan group and to grant few, if any, real concessions to it. A rift which our diplomacy might have narrowed was, instead, widened.

With the complex issues behind the rift, it is impossible to deal in detail here. Suffice it to say that, whatever may have been the origin or the ideology or the affiliations of the Yenan group, known as Chinese Communists, they have a tremendous and fervent following. This is due largely to policies of granting agrarian reform and local autonomy to the people.

The Chungking Government, on the other hand, is in the direct line of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, the great Chinese liberator. It is theoretically devoted to democratic principles and to eventual self-government in China. Actually, it is an iron-fisted one-party military dictatorship.

It is this theoretical democracy, but actual dictatorship, that Gen. Hurley tried unsuccessfully to shore up against mounting popular dissatisfaction, of which the Yenan group was the chief spokesman.

Some of his predecessors, like ex-Ambassador Gauss and Gen. Stilwell, knew better. To quote, first, Maxwell S. Stewart in The Nation:

> Hurley has favored Chungking from the beginning. He abandoned the Stilwell policy of making military considerations the sole criterion in apportioning war supplies and has turned all lend-lease shipments over to Chiang Kai-shek. . . . In making this dangerous foray into power politics, Hurley has completely reversed the Gauss-Stilwell policies which came so close to achieving unity in China last fall.

In an editorial in the New York Herald Tribune of Oct. 30, entitled "Catastrophe in China," it was said:

> As a result of the policies which have been followed during the incumbency of Patrick J. Hurley as American Ambassador at Chungking, there is grave danger that American troops will become involved in the fighting. Ambassador Hurley's all-out support of the Kuomintang (Chungking) Government has created a situation in which Americans are giving aid to one Chinese faction in its quarrel with another.

Proceeding to describe these factions, the Herald Tribune says there is no question that the Chinese Communists have won the support of the Chinese people in many areas of North China by means of their agrarian reforms and their development of local democracy. Of the Chungking regime, the Herald Tribune says it "is extremely conservative, to say the least, and often is denounced as reactionary," contains semi-Fascist elements and lacks strong popular support.

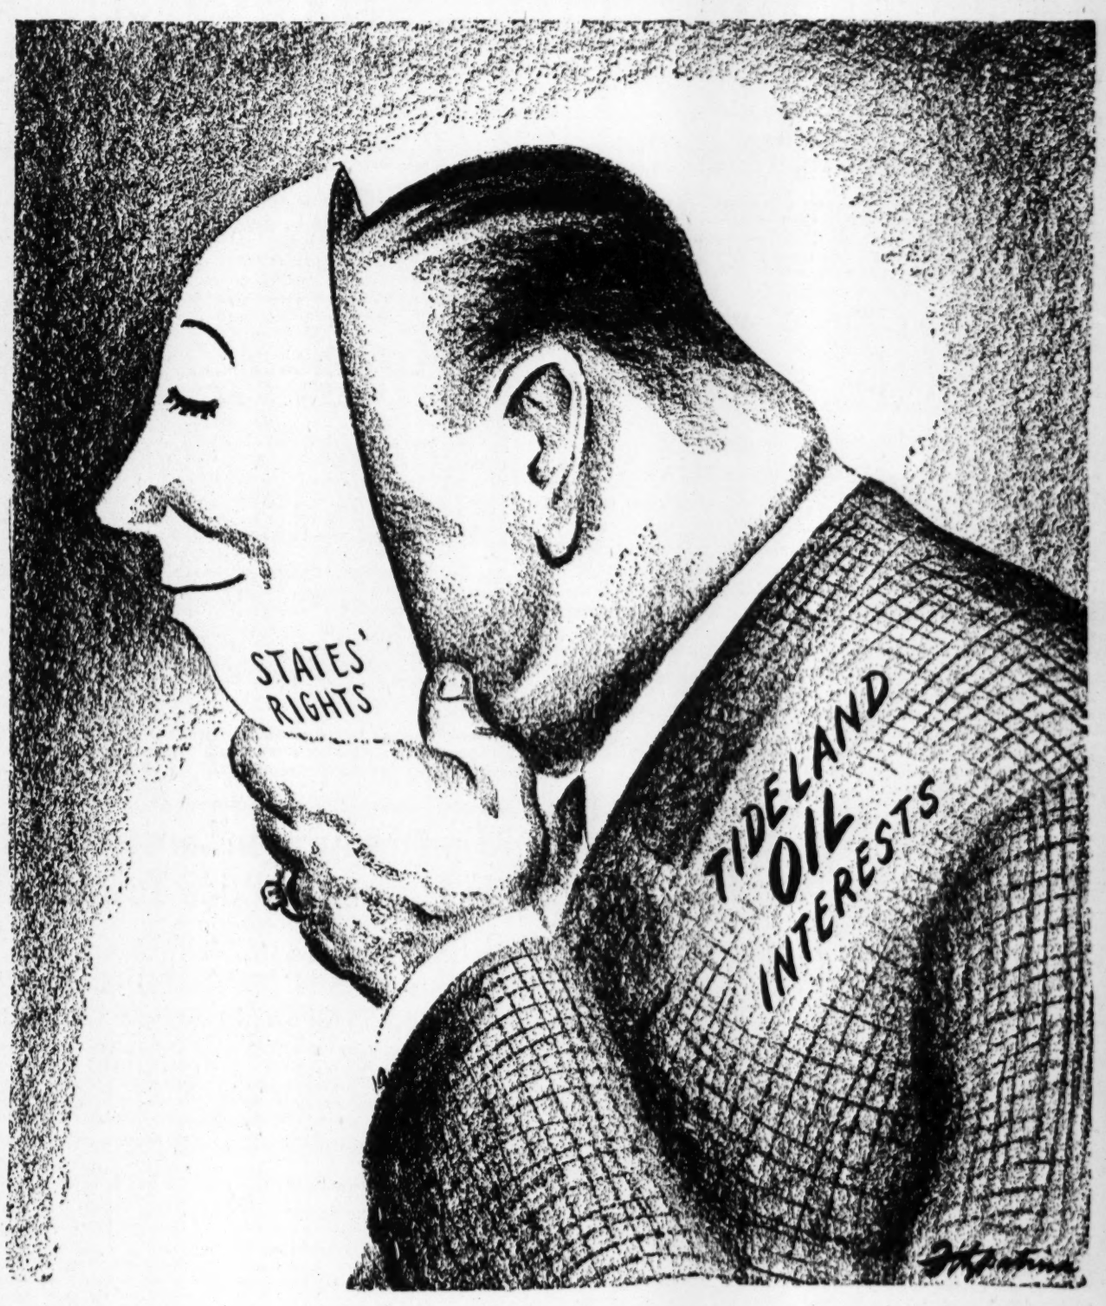
It is in the light of such political realities as these that Gen. Hurley's statement must be read and, when it is so read, its brave and admirable generalities lose weight and substance. The witches' broth in China, in which our soldiers are now involved, was stirred by Gen. Hurley himself. American foreign policy is assuredly subject to criticism but it is strange indeed to find our chief policy-maker in China opening himself up to an exposure of his own failure.



AT THE MEETING OF ATTORNEYS GENERAL

The Eternal Feminine

The enchanting paradoxes of the feminine personality are nowhere illumined more revealingly than in the big display ads of the department stores in every day's newspaper. Here, in words written, presumably, by women and certainly for women, are clues to the mystery that has mystified since Eve.

Take a recent page, and consider the adjectives applied to items of apparel and the women it is hoped are going to buy them. On the one hand, are "pert," "saucy," "frivolous," "young," "naive" and "simple." The composite is a woman winsomely impractical, adorably helpless, the sort of picture to fill the masculine breast with a swelling sense of proud indispensability.

But consider the others of these adjectives for the very same set of women: "clean," "neat," "meticulous," "thrifty," "smart" (in the phrase "smart gal"). Here is a different character altogether, cool, careful, precise, capable and, perhaps, calculating. Right about here, it's time to stop and look around. Your smart gal may look divinely naive in dimity, but under the frivolous hair-do there's a mind meticulous as an adding machine. Men of America, a word to the wise.

Speed on Temporary Housing

The chairman of the Citizens' Emergency Housing Committee, J. Wesley McAfee, says he is "fast being persuaded that St. Louis is going to need to build temporary housing of some kind." In that conclusion Mr. McAfee is eminently and irrefutably correct.

Anyone who has done a day's house-hunting will affirm it. The acquisition and construction of temporary housing is one of the first and most plainly necessary steps to be taken in dealing with the shortage. Will the committee now go about taking that step with the boldness and speed demanded in view of the fact that the ranks of the homeless in St. Louis are increasing at the rate of 300 to 400 a day?

How Much Veteran Aid?

Is it to be the official policy of St. Louis to do as little in the field of veteran service as it can get by with? There seems to be no other way of understanding Mayor Kaufmann's indorsement of the present referral center at the Old Courthouse and his refusal to press for a mobilization of community facilities under a single roof.

The referral system has been condemned as inadequate by Gen. Omar Bradley of the Veterans' Administration. Gripe sessions of local ex-service men have denounced the runaround procedure that sends them on long, multiple trips to accomplish their necessary business of getting re-established in civilian life. The Mayor himself is on record as having suggested a one-stop veterans' center. He has said that all city facilities, including finances, should be made available for the work.

What has now caused Mayor Kaufmann to decide that a mere referral center is good enough? First, he seems to have accepted the elaborate explanations of the board of directors of the present center, who found cause to blame everything from Congress to a local scarcity of office space for shortcomings of veteran aid here. The directors, after excusing shortcomings, concluded that on the whole they were doing fine.

The matter is bigger that a simple question of criticism or justification of what has been done. The community may well be grateful for the efforts of the present directors of veterans' aid and at the same time demand organizational improvement.

What St. Louis needs is a unification of veteran service that will get practical and prompt results for every man who comes home. It needs one center, staffed by experts and backed by the whole community, to begin to do this job. When are the leaders of the city going to begin it?

The "States' Rights" Oil Grab

The attempt of Attorney General Kenny of California to make his tidelands-oil grab look like a states' rights crusade is really such an energetic job of deodorizing the stink-weed that it is unfortunate his labors are not exerted in a better cause.

Mr. Kenny assures us that the State of California is not interested in continuing to raid the nation's last large national-defense reserve of oil for the sake of the revenue it derives from granting leases on tidelands. The State of California is moved only by its concern for states' rights.

Edwin W. Pauley, millionaire California oil operator, is not exerting every ounce of his business and political influence for the grab because he is interested in continuing to make money out of the tidelands reserve. Mr. Pauley, Attorney General Kenny would have us believe, is actuated solely by an abstract, truly platonic love of states' rights.

The California oil-company lessees of tidelands who have agreed to pay part of the fee of Mr. Kenny's special Assistant Attorney General Clary take only a side interest in the profits they are getting from tidelands oil exploitation—what got them roiled up is their sacred devotion to states' rights.

It is a strange spectacle: the predatory scramble for the United States's reserve of fighting oil, and the laughable contention that all that is being scrambled for is states' rights.

Progress of the Anti-Bribery Bill

Some Missouri Senators have thought things over in the last two weeks, and have decided that bribe solicitation ought to be a felony, or at least that they couldn't justify continued blocking of a bill making it such. Whatever their thought processes, the Frisby bill ending the present slap-on-the-wrist treatment for bribe solicitors has been reported out by Criminal Jurisprudence Committee members by unanimous vote, after approval had failed two weeks ago.

No reason exists for anything but all-out approval in the Senate as a whole. The same holds good for the House, where a bill of the same import failed last May because so many members ducked a vote that a quorum could not be obtained. This time, after the Falzone expulsion trial, the public is alert to the need for repairing a glaring defect in Missouri law, and no excuses for failure to pass the bill should be tolerated.

Housing and Inflation

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Ceiling on price of houses is necessary to avoid the spiral-crash outcome of 1920, OPA chief writes; controls are required to safeguard 4,000,000 families in need of homes; opposition of real estate and building industry groups is called contrary to their own interest.

Chester Bowles, OPA Administrator, in the New York Times Magazine

I was talking, the other day, to a young Sergeant just discharged after two years in the Pacific.

"My wife and I want to buy a home," he said. "We've been planning it ever since I went over, and we have some money saved. Is something going to be done to keep prices down, or will we have to figure on a lot more money than we've got—or can ever get?"

That frank question deserves a frank answer. On the answer depends the whole future of home ownership—and whether millions of American families will be able to afford a home at all.

I believe that on that answer depends, too, the whole future of the building industry—its long-term prosperity and its ability to provide full building employment.

There is no doubt that the dangers of inflation, of rising prices, are very great now for nearly everything we buy, and will remain so for some time. But, in housing, we face the most dangerous and violent single inflationary threat yet to greet us in the whole war period.

Facts of the Case

Certainly no one in New York or any other city needs to be told that the housing shortage is widespread, acute and rapidly getting worse. Some surveys put the number of families who want to build or buy right away at nearly 4,000,000.

It is estimated that by the end of next year nearly 2,000,000 service families will be homeless unless they can double up with relatives. This is in addition to 1,500,000 families already living doubled up. Pitching tents in Central Park will be more than a joke.

The constantly increasing demand would be a terrible inflationary threat, even in normal times when there was no shortage of homes, materials or labor, and when building could go ahead at top speed. The fastest rate at which homes were built in the peak of the building boom (1925) was just under 1,000,000 a year. Yet we cannot start at a million-a-year rate. We face a critical shortage of many building materials, especially of lumber. Under the most favorable conditions, it is unlikely that more than 475,000 homes can be completed within the next year.

Explosive Price Situation

It is a dangerous, explosive situation. It can, if uncontrolled, force prices of homes to fantastic levels. Prices are already soaring on the homes now built and for sale. Home prices show an average jump of about 50 per cent above pre-war levels; in areas where the shortage is especially acute, there are rises of 100 per cent or more.

Reinforcing our alarm is the grim similarity of today's situation with that following the First World War. Many of you remember what happened then; most of you remember to your sorrow.

You know the tragic end of the story. In June, 1920, the realty crash hit us. Thousands of builders and contractors who had stockpiled materials at inflated prices were ruined. Although the housing shortage was as acute as ever, home-building dropped off 40 per cent. Factories closed, and millions were jobless. Many a plan for home ownership was lost forever.

Within the limits of its present powers, OPA has taken all possible steps to prevent such a disaster from happening again.

But one serious weakness remains. There is now no limit to the prices which can be charged for completed homes—either new ones that will be built for sale or those already built.

Lack of any control over home prices will encourage a serious black market in building materials. When a speculative builder sees a chance to clean up huge quick profits, will he hesitate to pay over-ceiling prices for his brick, lumber and lath?

Market Will Collapse

Furthermore, with uncontrolled sky-high profits possible in building new homes for sale, far too few builders will build for rent, where controls allow "only" fair and reasonable profits.

Still further, the whole building industry, riding the fast horse of inflation, will head for a serious fall—a fall which will affect our entire economy. As home prices rise so far that families cannot afford to buy, building must slow down and lay off workers.

A recent survey made by the Architectural Forum showed that 37 per cent of the families who expected to build or buy homes would wait or give up if prices rose by only $1000. Any practice which deliberately cuts off over a third of its potential market can lead only to sharply reduced production and employment.

It is for these many serious reasons that I have urged Congress to consider legislation to control home prices—much as I dislike the idea of imposing new regulations when controls should normally be reduced.

Opponents of Control

Outspokenly opposed are certain members of the real estate and building industry. And, of course, they are joined by that rugged group who have opposed almost any and every type of control program yet advanced by your Government.

The real estate and building opponents say that controls — especially over new homes, their main target of attack—would "strait-jacket the industry," and "stop building in its tracks." I find this statement very interesting.

The building industry faces today, as we have seen, a period of almost record-breaking demand—higher than that even of the booming '20s. And this demand will, if only immediate needs are met, take at least five years to satisfy; adding other housing needs to the most urgent ones, a 10- or 12-year period of maximum activity is in store for builders.

Under any price control measure now proposed, builders face the most profitable and prosperous era in their history. I cannot believe that this country's progressive and alert builders, assured of fair profits on the millions of houses they must put up to meet demands, will fail or refuse to produce those houses.

Excuses of Carlton Hayes For What He Did in Spain

"Wartime Mission in Spain," by Carlton J. H. Hayes. (Macmillan Co., New York.)

Mr. Hayes, our Ambassador to Spain from May, 1942, to last January, prefaces his book by stating that it is not written as an apologia. Rather, he says, it is a "historian's candid and factual account."

Despite these avowals, the book is almost entirely an apologia for his performance in Spain. Worse, it is also an apologia for the Franco regime. And it departs shockingly from the historian's standards by distorting and suppressing facts time after time.

Mr. Hayes deserves credit for what he did to keep Spain out of the war and to cut off its help to the Axis, although the wily Franco was also persuaded by Allied victories to alter his course. But the Ambassador's appeasement of Franco was offensive to many Americans, and it continued after any military excuse for it had ceased. It continues in the book.

Hayes excuses Franco's pro-Axis statements as mere words that meant nothing. He minimizes the role of Axis aid in bringing him to power. He says little of Franco's tyrannies, and nothing of the Spanish people's miseries. He describes the regime as a military dictatorship with a few Fascist trimmings, a system adapted to Spain's special needs. He slurs the Spanish republicans and exhibits anti-Russian bias.

Defenders of Hayes say he was merely carrying out State Department orders, and he also uses this justification. It is rather feeble, considering his numerous quarrels with Washington policy. For instance, he objected strenuously to the plans for cutting off Franco's oil, and for trying to stop all shipments of Spanish wolfram to Germany. The former he considered "a big mistake." As to wolfram, Secretary Hull had been "somewhat impulsive," had not "thought through" the consequences. Hayes also berates the OWI and BEW for some of their methods.

But his choicest epithets are reserved for the critics at home. These journalists and commentators, he says, were leftists, extremists, snipers from the rear, reckless persons who didn't mind jeopardizing the war effort. Again and again, he disparages American "public opinion" (usually in quotation marks). It was misinformed, he says, and inflamed by agitators. Hayes does not mention the cause of one outburst—his speech of Feb. 26, 1943, disclosing that Spaniards were getting more gasoline, thanks to American shipments, than citizens on our East Coast.

Comparison of this book and that written by William E. Dodd, Ambassador to Germany in 1933-37, is inevitable. Hayes, despite the apologetics, considers his mission a great success. Dodd, also a historian by profession, was sure his had been a failure. Which was the sucess and which the failure—the upholder of Franco, last relic of Fascism, or the man who wore himself out warning America against Hitlerism—is something for a really candid, factual historian to judge.

The Fine Art of Knot-Tying

"Handbook of Knots," by Raoul Graumont. (Cornell Maritime Press, New York.)

Here is a well-illustrated, handy little volume that will be useful not only to professional seamen and yachtsmen, but to sportsmen of all sorts and to workers in many fields. The index is arranged by occupations and hobbies, such as camper, cowboy, farmer, magician, shipping clerk; so the reader may find at a glance the knots he ought to know. The book is a welcome addition to the excellent list of the Cornell Maritime Press.

HAROLD J. LASKI

Urges Patience Toward Bevin's Palestine Policy

LONDON.

IT is already obvious that Jewry in Palestine has reacted with violent hostility to Ernest Bevin's plan for its future. So far as I can gather, this hostility is shared by the different Zionist organizations in London; and such news as I have seen suggests that American Zionists are hostile, too. His proposals are completely different from those principles which the Labor party has affirmed and reaffirmed since 1939 and as recently as May last. Zionists who have spoken to me speak with passion of betrayal. Bevin, they say, has, in effect, yielded to Arab threats and embarked upon a new policy of appeasement.

I have thought long and hard over this white paper. I agree that it puts the problem on a plane quite different from any that Labor party declarations had either suggested or implied. At this stage, I nevertheless think that condemnation is a grave error. I think the wiser path is one of waiting to see what the Anglo-American Commission decides. Only in the light of its recommendations, both interim and final, and the decisions taken on each, can the wisdom or unwisdom of the policy be judged.

I speak as one who has come after long searching to believe in the necessity of a Jewish home in Palestine. I recognize the urgent need of European Jewry. I know the barbaric torture from which for so many long years Jews have suffered, torture never so evil as since 1933. I think I realize fully the agony of mind of Jewish leaders who see no way out but Palestine and now see that access is still barred to any but a small number of the tragic remnant of Jewry which is left.

Hope in Commission Study.

I understand their fears that all their creative work—from any angle remarkable work—may be undone as a result of the investigations of the Anglo-American Commission. Granted all this, I nevertheless believe that no judgment ought to be pronounced against Bevin's scheme until we know and weigh with due care the proposals which result from its inquiries.

Do not let us underrate its implications. It is of decisive importance that President Truman has agreed to full American participation in the inquiry. It is of not less decisive importance that the terms of reference to the Anglo-American Commission are wide enough not only to make possible the abandonment of that administrative separation between Palestine and Transjordan which was a grave initial error in British policy, but which Zionists have always insisted was an error which worked to their detriment.

I am told that Bevin's scheme is an attack upon the right of the Jews to become a majority in Palestine, and that it is the wish of the overwhelming majority of European Jews to settle there. They could then, it is said, form a Jewish state, in which Arabs would be fully citizens, but through which the Jewish desire for nationhood could be realized. On that there are, I think, certain necessary comments.

If it is the wish of the overwhelming majority of European Jews to settle in Palestine, the Zionists need not fear the outcome of the committee's researches into this question since their judgment would then be confirmed. I do not see in the Balfour declaration or in the terms of the mandate itself any pledge that there shall be a Jewish majority or a Jewish state.

The Issue of Immigration.

I think its clear meaning, whichever document be taken, is the right of Jews to be allowed freely to enter Palestine so long as that entrance does not impair the welfare of the Arab. I think the committee can be shown, first, that free entrance, viewed objectively, has increased, and not impaired Arab welfare, and that, if Transjordania be included, and irrigation schemes like that of Dr. Lowdermilk are applied there and to the Negev, the Arabs in a Palestine so conceived would lack any ground for opposing large-scale Jewish immigration, even if it meant a Jewish majority.

If now, or later, it is agreed that such a Palestine is fitted for self-government, I think the Arabs would be as morally obliged to accept a minority position as Jews have to do in Romania or Hungary, in Egypt or in Syria. I add that, in such a Palestine, I do not doubt that the Jewish majority would set an example to the whole of Southeastern Europe and the Middle East of how a national minority can be treated with justice and tolerance.

Two Short-Term Errors.

I regret myself that Bevin's figure for permitted Jewish immigration in the period between now and the final recommendations of the Anglo-American committee was not larger; and I regret that he did not insist to the Arabs that it was simple justice to remove the discriminatory ban on the Jewish purchase of land.

The first would have been justified by the tragic position of European Jewry; the second would have removed the stain of racial discrimination by law imposed by British policy in 1939 despite the view of the Mandates Commission that it violated the terms of the mandate. I do not see why the ban on land purchase should be regarded as a British obligation to the Palestinian Arab when the Mandates Commission declared that the British Government had no power to impose such a ban.

I believe, further, that investigation will show that no alternative place or large-scale Jewish settlement can be found acceptable to the Jews except Palestine. No other place has historic or spiritual significance for them. That means that Bevin is now committed to finding a permanent solution of the world problem of Jewry so that the Jew everywhere is, and feels himself to be, as fully a citizen in the land where he dwells as he certainly feels himself to be in the Jewish settlements of Palestine.

No Time for Violence.

Bevin has himself said that his own political reputation is staked upon the outcome of these proposals. I think that is a fair and proper appraisal of their importance. The situation before which we all now stand, Jews in particular, is far too grave to allow disappointment or anger to prevent these proposals from having a full opportunity to prove, by the recommendations of the Anglo-American committee and the decision built upon them, that they are in fact the solution for which he hopes.

Let me say emphatically that this is not a time for violence; there has been too much of it already, and its result is simply and solely to prevent a disinterested analysis of the position. Nor is this the time for boycott of the committee's investigation. I am convinced that the work of the Jewish agency in Palestine can stand up to any fair investigation.

The time for judgment is when the final proposals are before us. It is by them that Bevin must be judged. That his method is not the method expected by the Labor party or by the Zionists must not be rashly regarded as betrayal until we have seen the full program that is its outcome. The two supreme tasks before Jewry now are patience, however hard it may feel to be patient, and the preparation of that overwhelming case for the principles of the Balfour declaration which I believe they are able to make.

For if the Anglo-American Commission has to judge that case, so also has history. Bevin has, deliberately, taken an immense risk in which some millions of lives are involved. Our first duty is not an emotional outbreak but a calm and determined effort to see that those lives are saved.

13 MONTHS ON BARLEY AND RADISH TOP BROTH

Cpl. Maury Rich Fell Off From 170 Pounds to 90 as Prisoner of Japs.

St. Louisans' War Exploits

A BROTH consisting of barley and radish tops was the sole diet for 13 months for Cpl. Maury Rich, who has returned to his home after 41 months as a prisoner of the Japanese. Rich was captured on Corregidor May 6, 1942.

Prior to this, he said, when he and his companions were in the Philippines, natives would supplement their meager diet by leaving food in the woods surrounding our camp. However, this stopped when two of the natives were caught and beheaded. Rich, who weighed 170 at the time of his capture, weighed 90 pounds at the time of his rescue, Sept. 10, from the camp at Oeyama, on Honshu.

Conditions in the camp in Japan were more severe than those in the Philippines, he said. In Oeyama he was forced to work in the nickel mines in the mountains a few miles from the camp, where many of the prisoners frequently were beaten. Their hardships were mitigated, however, by the elation the prisoners felt at the sound of the B-29s passing overhead on their nightly raids.

The most noteworthy of these raids, he said, was the one on July 30, when the nearby seaport town of Niazu on the west coast of the island was raided, for this raid heralded the end of the war. Unfortunately, the bombers passed over the camp during their bombing run and two of the prisoners were killed.

Two weeks later, he said, after an especially severe raid that lasted through the night and until noon of the next day, the prisoners were not required to go to work. Later in the afternoon a sentry, who once had told them that if Japan lost the war all prisoners in the home islands would be killed, announced that the war had ended.

Rich, 33 years old, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rich, 5723 Easton avenue, Wellston.

Wac Was Dispatcher in India.

Cpl. Constance Lee Raymer, formerly a dispatcher at the Air Transport Command base at Karachi, India, who returned home by airplane last week, was one of six members of the Women's Army Corps who accompanied a party of soldiers, who had been released shortly before from a Japanese prison camp in Manchuria, on a shopping and sightseeing tour of the Indian city.

"We took them to a shop for their first taste of 'states-side' ice cream in three years or more. Everyone of the men ate two or three banana splits," Cpl. Raymer recalled. "When we began the trip through the native section of the town some of the soldiers seemed to take no interest in the party, but before we returned to the base they were all having a good time."

Her habit of looking out for the welfare of others in the party caused an incident in the flight home, when their "bucket-seat" transport plane reached the 15,000-foot level over Newfoundland. While hurrying about to warn the passengers to put on their oxygen masks, Cpl. Raymer forgot to adjust her own and had to be revived. She is the daughter of Mrs. Edna Raymer, 3200A Barrett street, and is now awaiting discharge from service.

ELIZABETH KENNY FOUNDATION DRIVE TO OPEN HERE DEC. 8

Donation cans and "wishing wells" for individual contributions to the Elizabeth Kenny Foundation for infantile paralysis treatment will be installed in St. Louis hotels, restaurants and stores this week as part of the fund raising campaign which will continue until Dec. 8.

St. Louis and St. Louis county have been assigned a quota of $100,000 in the current drive. A national goal of $5,000,000 has been set. Headquarters for the campaign organization here were established this week at 418 Olive street.

Fifty per cent of the funds contributed here will be used locally in co-operation with the Elizabeth Kenny Institute in Minneapolis, founded by the former Australian nurse for treatment of the disease and research into its causes.

BABY CHRISTENED IN WASHINGTON U. MEMORIAL CHAPEL

First Such Ceremony There Since Queen Marie Visited St. Louis in 1926.

When Mark William Stevens, month-old son of Lt. and Mrs. William Ott Stevens, was christened in Graham Memorial Chapel at Washington University, Sunday, it was the first time such a ceremony had been performed there since Queen Marie of Romania acted as godparent while on a visit to St. Louis in 1926.

Mrs. Stevens, who lives at 2521 South Kingshighway, said the chapel was chosen for the christening for sentimental reasons. All the persons who participated in the ceremony had attended Washington University. Her husband went to the night school, she received her A.B. degree there in 1942, both godfathers and the godmother studied at Washington, and the minister, the Rev. Earl Hunter Terry, was formerly head of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at the university's medical school.

The baby, his mother said, will go to Washington University when he grows up.

At the other christening Queen Marie became godmother of two-year-old Marie Weber, whose mother, also named Marie, brought her to St. Louis from Smackover, Ark., for the occasion. Mrs. Weber's parents were born in Romania and she once had met the queen in Bucharest.

929 PLACED IN JOBS IN WEEK; 12,870 OPENINGS, SLIGHT DROP

Persons placed in jobs during the week ending last Friday totaled 929, compared with 866 the week before, the United States Employment Service reported today. Of the placements, 634 were men, 295 women.

There were 12,870 job openings at the end of the week, a slight decrease from the preceding week, when there were 12,991. Persons referred to employers totaled 3725, compared with 3856 the week before.

ARTISTS AND MODELS BALL

An Artists' and Models' Ball, sponsored by the Urban League of St. Louis for the benefit of the people's Art Center, will be held tomorrow night at the Castle Ballroom, 2839 Olive street.

Miss Jane Bowles, chairman of the ball committee, said funds obtained will be used by the art center for acquiring new quarters in Grandel Square, the present building at 2811 Washington avenue having been sold recently.

BRITON TO SPEAK TONIGHT

Maj. Gen. Francis H. N. Davidson of the British Army will discuss "Anglo-American Co-operation in War and Peace" at a dinner meeting of the English Speaking Union tonight at 7:30 o'clock at University Club, 3605 Washington boulevard.

Gen. Davidson has served as director of military intelligence of the War Office and as an artillery corps commander with British Expeditionary Forces.

Westminster Alumni Election.

W. Stanley Stuart, 1327 McCutcheon road, Richmond Heights, was elected president of the St. Louis Alumni Association of Westminster College yesterday at a meeting at the Forest Park Hotel. Dr. Franc L. McCluer, president of the college, spoke. Other officers elected yere: W. Floyd Dean, first vice president; William M. Harlan, second vice president; Gypton Vogt, secretary; Frank Winters, assistant secretary, and Jack Hudson, treasurer.

TWO AIR ACES APPEAR IN VICTORY LOAN DRIVE

Capts. Gentile and Godfrey on Noonday and Caravan Programs.

(Pictures in Everyday Magazine.)

Appearances by two noted Army fighter pilots and the arrival of a Navy train heightened activity in St. Louis today in the Victory loan drive.

With St. Louis county over the top in its quota, sales of bonds in the area rose to a total of $63,451,628, or 51.5 per cent of the overall goal. Purchases in the county amounted to $6,463,173, or 102 per cent of quota. In the county as well as the city, however, sales of "E" bonds to individual buyers lagged.

Capt. Don S. Gentile of Piqua, O., and his wingman, Capt. John T. Godfrey of Providence, R. I., two of the ranking air aces in the European theater, now test pilots at Wright Field, Dayton, O., appeared on the noonday matinee show at the Little White House, Eighth and Olive streets. They will appear again with the Victory caravan at 7:30 o'clock tonight at South Broadway and Russell boulevard.

Destroyed 40 Planes Together.

Together they destroyed more than 40 German planes, Capt. Gentile getting 23 in the air and seven on the ground, and Capt. Godfrey knocking down 18 in the air and destroying 19 on the ground. Both returned home in May, 1944, after three years of combat, Capt. Gentile having been in the Royal Air Force and Capt. Godfrey in the Royal Canadian Air Force before they transferred to the Fourth Fighter Group of the United States Eighth Air Force.

However, Capt. Godfrey went back overseas at his own request to continue his one-man assault on the Luftwaffe, was shot down and spent eight months in a German prison camp before escaping to the American lines.

"My plane was shot up when I was strafing an airdrome and I crash landed," Capt. Godfrey said. "At the interrogation center the Luftwaffe gave me a party—girls, champagne and everything, but I soon found out that all they wanted was information.

"What an espionage system those Nazis must have had! One of the first things they asked me was 'How does Capt. Gentile like flying jet-propelled planes at Wright Field?' I didn't even know where Don was at that time and the fact we had jet planes hadn't been announced."

Both were modest about their combat achievements and agreed that neither would be alive but for the other's aid. "It was team work that did it," they said, "just like a halfback and a blocking back on a football field." They hope to remain partners when they get out of service and plan to open a flying school.

The "Navy Blue" victory train, comprising six carloads of Navy combat equipment and other exhibits, was opened to the public on Track 2 at Union Station. Visitors will be admitted free until 9 o'clock tonight. The train crew of 25 officers and enlisted men were given a breakfast by a group of Navy associations at Hotel Jefferson. At a reception on the train at 11 a.m., the crew members were greeted by a St. Louis committee of Navy veterans of the Spanish-American war, World War I and World War II. The ceremony was broadcast by Post-Dispatch Station KSD.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

A HOUSE-WARMING party in a home in which the host had lived during his boyhood and bought from the last owner two months ago will be given this afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Huttig. The house, at 37 Washington terrace, was built by Mr. Huttig's father, the late Charles H. Huttig, and afterward became the property of the late Marvin E. Singleton.

The present owners have redecorated the rooms in pale yellow and pale green tones in the Eighteenth Century manner. They have invited about 350 guests, among them several from out-of-town, to today's party. Receiving hours are from 5 to 7 o'clock. Those from out-of-town are Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey W. Waters and their daughter, Miss Sally, and Mrs. Mildred McNair Meek, a former St. Louisian, all of Chicago, and Mrs. Huttig's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mullally and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rossi, all of Evansville, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Orthwein Jr., whose present house is at 2 Log Cabin lane, Ladue, have bought the home of the late Mrs. Henry Clarkson Scott, 31 Westmoreland place. They plan to take possession the middle of January.

Mrs. Othwein's brother, Lt. Norfleet Rand, U.S.N.R., returned yesterday after three years of duty aboard a destroyer escort in the Pacific. He is with his father, Frank C. Rand, 7100 Delmar boulevard.

The Very Rev. Sidney E. Sweet, dean of Christ Church Cathedral, and Mrs. Sweet, have with them their son and daughter-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. Sidney E. Sweet Jr., and their young granddaughter, Shelley Janeway Sweet, who arrived yesterday from Philadelphia.

Lt. Sweet, on terminal leave from the Naval Reserve, has been at Pearl Harbor since last June, and after his discharge will take his family to live in New York, his home before the war. The visitors will be here two or three weeks, during which time Dean Sweet will officiate at the christening of his granddaughter.

Return From the East

MR. AND MRS. CON P. CURRAN JR. of Kent road, Clayton, recently returned from a trip to New York and Boston. They were accompanied home by their daughter, Mrs. William Harrison Coulter (Clare Curran), and her two children, William Harrison Jr. and Clare Curran Coulter, who have been living in Boston, while Ens. Coulter was hospitalized there. Ens. Coulter, who recently was transferred to the Naval Hospital at Great Lakes, Ill., is expected here for Christmas.

Recently discharged from the service was George J. Convy who has joined his wife, the former Miss Lucy Dial Curran, at their home, 921 South Hanley road, Clayton. A coxswain, he served more than three years in the Coast Guard, the last six months of which were spent in the Pacific.

MRS. JAMES EADS CAMPBELL of Harrisburg, Pa., will arrive the first of next month to visit her mother-in-law, Mrs. John W. Harrison, 625 South Skinker boulevard. She will be here about a month. Shortly after her arrival, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Harrison and the latter's sister, Mrs. Hen . C. Read, will motor to Fort Smith, Ark., to accompany Mrs. Read home. Mrs. Harrison and her daughter-in-law will return to St. Louis almost immediately. Mrs. Read has been visiting her sister for almost two months.

Mrs. Harrison expects as Christmas guests her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Price of Winnetka, Ill. Mr. Price will be here for a few days, while his wife, the former Miss Pemala Harrison, will remain for about two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Anderson, who spent the Thanksgiving holidays with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William N. Claggett, 12 Black Creek lane, Ladue, have returned to their home in Detroit.

Mrs. Brenton Van Cleave, 625 South Skinker boulevard, returned yesterday morning from Chattanooga, Tenn., after visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Watson Van Cleave of Lookout Mountain, for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Van Cleave are the parents of a daughter, Brenton Elizabeth, born last month. Their other child is a boy, Tommy, aged three and a half. Mrs. J. W. Van Cleave is the former Miss Elizabeth Van Cleave.

Mrs. Brenton Van Cleave will have as her guest tomorrow Mrs. Milton Smith of Denver, who will be here one day while en route to New York.

R. F. Stockton Lowndes, aviation machinist mate, second class, stationed at the Naval Air Station, Dallas, Tex., is expected home Friday on leave to visit his wife at their home, 5601 Kingsbury court. Mr. and Mrs. Lowndes will have as their guests the last of this week his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lowndes of Denver, Colo., who have been visiting relatives in Baltimore and Cumberland, Md. Mr. Lowndes recently received his discharge from the Navy at Coronado, Calif.

Miss Mary Frances Gildehaus will arrive Dec. 20 from Washington, where she is associated with the Co-Ordinator of Inter-American Affairs, to spend the holidays with her mother, Mrs. Paul Gildehaus, 4943 Lindell boulevard. Miss Gildehaus' brother, Paul, is also home, after a brief tour of duty with the American Field Service in Europe.

Miss Gildehaus, who has held her present position since the early days of war, was previously with the British Ministry. Next summer she will go to Nantucket, Mass., to join her family at the summer place they bought a few months ago. Mrs. Gildehaus will go east in May to supervise repairs.

AMERICAN PHYSICISTS TO MEET HERE FRIDAY

Society to Feature Symposium on X-Rays in Sessions at Washington U.

The 268th meeting of the American Physical Society, featuring a symposium on X-rays, arranged in celebration of the fiftieth anniversity on the discovery of X-rays, will be held Friday and Saturday at Washington University. Representatives of 18 universities and of several government and commercial laboratories will attend.

Chancellor Arthur H. Compton of Washington University will give the main address of the meeting at the Saturday morning session. His subject will be "The Scattering of X-ray Photons."

"The Birth and Early Infancy of X-rays" will be discussed by Dr. G. E. M. Jauncey, professor of physics at Washington University, as the main topic of a meeting Friday.

Dr. Jauncey's presentation, at 2:15 p.m. in Crow Hall, will be followed by discussions by N. S. Gingrich of the University of Missouri; C. S. Barrett, Carnegie Institute of Technology, and B. E. Warren, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Harvey Fletcher, head of the society will preside.

There will be two sessions Saturday, at 10:15 a.m. and 2:15 p.m., both in Crow Hall. In addition to Dr. Compton's speech at the morning session, papers will be presented also by A. W. Hull of the General Electric Co.; R. J. Van de Graff, W. W. Buechner, H. Feshbach, A Sperduto, E. A. Burrill and L. R. McIntosh, all of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and G. Failla, Columbia University.

At the closing session, papers will be read by Paul Kirkpatrick of Stanford University, J. W. M. Drummond, California Institute of Technology, and J. A. Bearden and C. H. Shaw of Johns Hopkins University. Sectional meetings also will be held both days. G. A. Boutry of the Conservatoire National des Arts and Metiers, Paris, will present a paper at one of these meetings.

Social activities in connection with the meeting include a tea Friday in Brown Hall, a dinner at 7 o'clock Friday at the Gatesworth Hotel and a luncheon Saturday for wives of members. About 150 members are expected to attend.

4 1-2 PCT. RISE IN CEILINGS FOR SHOE MANUFACTURERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—Manufacturers' ceiling prices for shoes will be increased four and one-half per cent to cover increasing production costs, the Office of Price Administration announced yesterday.

The order to effect this probably will be issued in December, the OPA statement informed the Shoe Manufacturers' Industry Advisory Committee.

OPA said there probably would be no change in prices consumers will pay. No decision on this will be announced until a study of distributors' costs and earnings is completed.

OPA said indications are that wholesalers and retailers can absorb the entire amount of the general increase in manufacturers' prices. The industry committee protested against this conclusion.

The committee adopted a resolution stating it felt the increase in manufacturers' ceilings is insufficient, but tsat the industry would accept it and ask issuance of the order "with all due haste."

OPA said that its action in increasing ceiling prices at the manufacturers' level will include additional adjustments to encourage production of lower-price shoes.

John Wayne Is Starred In 'Dakota'

"DAKOTA," a romantic drama of the days when that was one of America's last frontiers, opened at the Fox theater yesterday with John Wayne, Vera Hruba Ralston and Walter Brennan in the leading roles. It is a story about a cowboy who hopes to open up and develop the country, only to run into a bunch of cattle thieves who are trying to run the ranchers from their homes and blame it on the Indians.

The other feature at the Fox is "Crime Doctor's Courage" in which Warner Baxter solves the murder of a young couple by a crazed killer.

"Strange Confession," a murder mystery starring Lon Chaney, opens at the St. Louis theater today, along with "River Gang," starring Gloria Jean and Sheldon Leonard. The former tells the story of a crazed scientist who kills his employer because he steals his scientific discoveries. The latter also has to do with murder.

"Love Letters," a romantic drama starring Jennifer Jones and Joseph Cotten is being held over for a second week at the Ambassador. With it is a Robert Benchley short, "Boogie Woogie."

"The Dolly Sisters," technicolor musical starring Betty Grable, John Payne and June Haver, remains for a second week at the Missouri, along with "The Spider" starring Fay Marlowe and Richard Conte.

"Kiss and Tell," the gay comedy of adolescence, starring Shirley Temple and Jerome Courtland, remains for a fourth week at the Shubert, accompanied by "George White's Scandals," starring Joan Davis and Jack Haley.

"Weekend at the Waldorf," which threatens to break house records at Loew's State, is being held over for another week. Stars of the picture are Ginger Rogers, Lana Turner, Walter Pidgeon and Van Johnson.

Starting Thursday, Loew's Orpheum will offer Connie Bennett and Gracie Fields in a story of wartime intrigue called "Paris Underground." They are supported by Kurt Kreuger and Charles Andre.

The other feature will be "Prison Ship," with Nina Foch and Robert Lowery.

LACLEDE GAS IS STOCK LEADER AT 1945 PEAK

Selling in Motors, Steels and Rails Late in Day Brings Irregular Close to Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP)—Late selling hit the stock market today and closing prices generally were lower after earlier irregularity.

Rails, steels and motors were the greatest losers. Airlines managed to hold on to some of their gains as did the farm implement division but when the ticker tape stopped only a handful of plus signs were apparent.

Until the last few minutes, steels had an irregular pattern in the face of the nationwide vote by workers in that industry as to whether to strike for a $2 a day wage increase.

Motors were off from the start after possibilities for an early end to the General Motors strike were chilled by President Charles E. Wilson's failure to participate for the present time in a Washington conference with labor department representatives.

Laclede Goes to New High.

Laclede Gas was the most active issue on the board today, closing at 7¼, up ½ point, a new 1945 peak. Turnover was 104,500 shares.

Total sales for day were 1,810,000 shares, compared with 1,830,000 shares yesterday.

Trading broadened. Of the 992 issues traded in today, 413 were lower, 411 higher and 168 unchanged. One hundred forty-four made new 1945 highs and two new 1945 lows.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed off .8 of a point at 75.0.

Lower were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Western Union "A", Kennecott, Du Pont, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, Schenley and Standard Oil (N. J.).

Plus signs were retained by Goodrich, International Harvester, American Airlines, Eastman Kodak, U. S. Gypsum and International Telephone. Eastern Airlines and Sinclair touched new 1945 highs.

Gaining in the curb were American Cyanimid, Ogden Corp., Bridgeport Oil, Phillips Packing and Sonotone.

Sees No Steel Strike This Year.

In connection with nationwide steel strike balloting, investors noted the trade magazine Iron Age's prediction that "it was apparent this week that steel mill shutdowns would not occur before the new year."

Attention was focused on the air group by these developments: Northwest Airlines asked the Government to allocate it nine more planes; Eastern Air Lines earnings were almost double last year's, and Pan American Airways signed contracts for purchase of 20 Boeing Stratocruisers.

Automobile production stoppages are beginning to be reflected in the operations of suppliers, Wall Street noted, after E. G. Budd Manufacturing Co. in Philadelphia announced it had received instructions from General Motors and Ford to suspend deliveries on their contracts for auto bodies.

Day's 15 Leaders.

In the following table will be found the sales, closing prices and net changes of the 15 most active stocks traded in on the New York Stock Exchange today:

DEAD on your FEET from FATIGUE?

Then read about this sensible, drugless way to guard against that tired feeling due to B Complex deficiency!

It is surprising, and shocking too, how many people go along day after day so tired, so tuckered out most of the time, that they find it difficult to do their work and impossible to enjoy life. It isn't that they are sick. There's nothing organically wrong—just that awful fatigue!

Now, while fatigue may be due to a number of causes, it has been proved that in a surprising number of cases, fatigue is due to a lack of three factors in your daily diet—thiamine, essential for the normal functioning of the nervous system; riboflavin and niacin.

All three are factors in B Complex vitamins. All three are equally important.

The sensible, honest and inexpensive way to guard against B deficiency ... the way to help avoid that constant nagging fatigue ... is to supplement your diet with BEXEL. BEXEL is a remarkable product—an easy-to-take capsule which contains concentrated amounts of thiamine, riboflavin and niacin. If you will take BEXEL over a reasonable period and if, at the same time, you will follow the common sense rules of getting a reasonable amount of sleep, and eating a good diet, then ... well, you'd be amazed how many thousands of people have been helped to joyous vitality and radiant energy by BEXEL.

BEXEL contains no artificial stimulants that let you down. It is the new, modern way to insure against loss of energy and fatigue due to dietary deficiency of B Complex. And BEXEL is inexpensive—surely that's insurance worth taking out.

Get BEXEL today in your drug store. Or ask your doctor what he thinks of this wonderful preparation.

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE
You must feel definitely better after taking BEXEL for a month—or your money will be refunded without question.

Report Tomorrow on Jobless Pay Sought for 300 Veterans in Strike

A meeting of the 300 veterans who joined in the strike called at the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants last week will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow to hear a report on the efforts of a special committee of Local 25 of the CIO United Automobile Workers to obtain unemployment compensation for them during the work stoppage. The Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission announced last Monday that the General Motors strikers were not eligible for such compensation.

The union refused to say whether an exception had been made for the veterans yesterday when the special committee went to Jefferson City for a conference with commission representatives. A spokesman said, however, that the committee had been given a "favorable reception."

The meeting tomorrow will be limited to the veterans. At the meeting in Jefferson City the union contended they should be eligible for unemployment compensation, since many of them were not employed until after the strike vote was taken last month, and, therefore were not responsible for the work stoppage. A number had been hired so recently they had not yet joined the union, it was said. In the announcement last Monday, Paul J. Henry, commission chairman, said a person is entitled to unemployment compensation if he is deprived of work as a result of a strike, but is not connected with it.

Andrew J. Perko, chairman of the bargaining committee for the Fisher Body Division, and three other union representatives, met yesterday with plant officials to try to obtain pay checks for the last week the union members worked. Approximately 1800 Chevrolet employes received their checks last Friday, and 600 from Fisher Body were paid. An additional 1400 Chevrolet workers and 500 from Fisher had not called for their checks at the time the pay offices closed, Perko said, and they have been unable to get them since that time. Based on average earnings the checks being held would total about $105,000, he said.

During yesterday's meeting, company officials offered to distribute the checks if the entire office force, all cafeteria workers and a number of additional maintenance men were permitted to enter the plant for an unspecified period, Perko said. The union rejected the offer, but said the entire payroll department would be permitted to enter to distribute them, Perko continued. The company would not do this, he said.

Management's Statement.

In a public statement issued today the local management of the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants here had the following to say:

"In view of published statements on the alleged withholding of pay checks at the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants, the following statement of facts is presented:

"The strike became effective at 10 a.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 21. The next payday was on Friday, Nov. 23. Employes were advised that payment would be made on that day. The payroll department was instructed to stay open that night as long as there was anyone there to be paid and the location was not closed until management had been advised that checks had been issued to everyone who had appeared. At that time a large number of checks had not been given out. Arrangements were then made to pay the additional people on Monday and the union was so advised.

"Arrangements were made with the police department for protection in getting into the offices Monday but in spite of active police co-operation the office employes, by force and intimidation and by the use of illegal picketing, were prevented from entering the offices on that day and it was impossible to make payment.

"In conversations with union representatives it was pointed out that just as soon as our employes who are not members of the union were able to get onto the premises with reasonable safety, prompt payment would be made. We are quite as anxious to pay all employes as they are to get the money."

IN MEMORIAM

GARK, NORMAN — In loving memory of my dear son who gave his life for his country on Leyte, 32nd Division, Nov. 22, 1944.
The month of November again is here,
To me the saddest of the year;
Because it took from us
A dear one, just one year ago;
His loving heart is now at rest,
God took him home when He thought best;
When we are done with toils and care,
We'll meet our dearest Father there.
Sadly missed by FATHER, PETER GARK.

QUIET DEATH FOR LABOR-INDUSTRY PARLEY EXPECTED

expected, President Eric Johnston of the United States Chamber of Commerce has a plan for making the pallbearers a semi-premanent executive committee to look after the unfinished work.

But even here there is a minor disagreement. Johnston originally proposed continuance of the present 16-man group. Immediate discussion is about a committee of eight, with two members from the Chamber of Commerce, two from the National Association of Manufacturers and four representing labor organizations.

Management is reported favorable to such a continuing body. Labor has not indicated its views.

It's an Idea

Are You Considering Place in Country?

By Leonard Hall

FIVE years with no residential construction has created a housing shortage which is desperate in some American cities, critical in others and a problem that in many communities is going to take years to solve. Some subdivision development is already under way, but with today's material shortages plus excessive costs all long the line, these small homes aren't going very far to solve the problem. Under such circumstances it is natural that returning veterans with families, and many other folks as well, are asking this question, "Is there any way in which I can work in the city, yet live in the country where I can have a bit of land and supplement my income with vegetables, eggs and other produce and give my youngsters a better environment than they'd have in a city flat?"

THE ANSWER, of course, is yes, provided yours happens to be the kind of family that is suited to country living. Naturally this solution can be worked out most easily if your job is in a small city or town, where getting from work to your home in the country is a matter of minutes. But the thing can be done even when you work in a city like St. Louis, which is surrounded on every side by terrain that lends itself to small-acreage, part-time farming. Our means of public transportation out into the country, it is true, are none too good right now. But this condition is bound to improve steadily. We do have good highways leading out in every direction so that one can either drive to work, or to a point where public transportation is adequate. Provided you and your family like country living, there's no reason why you can't have it. And the very fact that your income derives from a regular job with a weekly pay check, with produce from the part-time farm as an extra dividend, is the thing which makes it practical.

THE MAIN PROBLEM, of course, is to work things out on a sound basis—and this takes real thinking and planning. You must determine first of all, and this depends almost wholly upon your job in the city, how far out you can afford to live. It seems to me, in this connection, that more and more plants and offices are going to find it efficient to work a five-day week. This will affect not only the distance you can afford to go, but also the size of the part-time farm which you can operate. But distance is the first consideration when you start to hunt for a country place, and once this has been determined the search can get under way.

I think that the next consideration is the way in which the countryside is being developed in various directions from the city. In one direction, for example, you may find country clubs and large estates, with little or no farm land left. Here transportation may be good, but land values and taxes so high as to be prohibitive—unless an estate is what you're looking for. In another direction, and it may well be one with even greater scenic attraction than the country-club section, the residential development has been limited to the main highways, while farm lands still line the by-roads. Such areas are the ones in which you will want to do your searching.

OFTEN IN SUCH AN AREA you'll find old farm homes that are up for sale. Perhaps they don't have all the modern conveniences. But they are generally sound in structural values so that a man who is handy with tools and doesn't mind putting in his weekends at hard work can make such a house exceedingly livable in short order. And it may be that a room for each youngster, a workshop for dad, a big and comfortable kitchen for mother will more than make up for lack of modern fixtures until these can be put in. Certainly such a house would have advantages over many a crowded city bungalow, flat or apartment. And the modern craze for "ranch type" structures with breeze-ways and colored tile often means that you can buy your old farm house at a remarkably reasonable figure and turn it into a comfortable, convenient home at comparatively low cost.

THE AMOUNT of land to be included in your part-time farm is another important consideration. It depends, I should say, first upon the amount of time you are going to have to develop it and, second, upon the cost per acre in the location where you buy. Land that runs $1000 an acre will be a long time paying for itself, no matter how skillfully you work it. On the other hand, the very fact that you're close to the city means you can hardly hope to buy at strictly farm prices. But five acres at $200 an acre means you are not investing much more than you would for a small city lot, so that might not be far out of line. And five acres, if you set out to make it productive, can come mighty near sustaining a family. If it contains an acre or two of woodland, I'd say you were doubly lucky.

Once you've acquired your house and land, it seems to me that the important thing is to lay out your projects in an orderly fashion. Undoubtedly the vegetable garden would come first and then, probably, your flock of hens. If the youngsters are big enough to help, other livestock can be added as rapidly as you have buildings to house them and time to care for them. You'll want the place fenced and will need to have water available. When this point has been reached, you can consider goats or a milk cow. A pig is always a paying proposition. Rabbits can be raised without too much time and effort. Bees are a possibility, if you live where there is a good honey flow. But never make the mistake of jumping into everything at one time.

Such a place in the country, it seems to me, offers wonderful possibilities for security and independence and adventure for any family that's fitted to undertake the job.

They'll Do It Every Time -:- By Jimmy Hatlo

Economical Menus for Tomorrow

By Meta Given

This is the season for hot potato salad and if your family is an average one in its likes it will enjoy having potatoes served in this manner pretty often. Don't make the mistake of never varying the salad. One new variation in our salad today is the addition of some shredded cabbage; another is the use of pickle juice rather than diluted vinegar. The pickle juice bears intriguing spice flavors. Bacon fat and some cooked bacon are typical in hot salads, but there is no reason why salt pork cannot be sliced thin and panfried as is the bacon. Then instead of leaving the bacon or salt pork in the sauce, it may be left to drain on paper toweling and crumbled on just before sending it to the table. In this way the bacon or pork is crisp rather than soft. A few flecks of red add a lively color that is always appreciated. It might be a little chopped up firm ripe tomato, pimiento, sliced radish or a dash of paprika.

Hot Potato Salad.

One slice bacon, cut into bits; one tablespoon flour, three-fourths cup juice left from sweet and sour pickles, one-third cup water, three-fourths pound cooked potatoes, peeled and sliced; one small onion, sliced; one cup shredded cabbage; three tablespoons green pepper, slivered.

Pan fry bacon until done. Stir in the flour until blended. Add liquids gradually. Stir to keep smooth and cook until slightly thickened. Turn heat very low, add remaining ingredients and toss quickly. Remove from heat and serve immediately. Four servings.

Menus for Thursday.

Breakfast: Fresh grapes, hot oatmeal, sweet rolls, pan broiled bacon.

Luncheon: Hot potato salad, toasted and buttered English muffins, apple sauce.

Dinner: Lamb shoulder chops, parsley potatoes, buttered cauliflower, shredded lettuce and chopped eggs with salad dressing, whole wheat bread, banana cream pie.

Puree Mongole

One cup split peas, five cups water, two cups tomato juice, one onion, two tablespoons butter or margarine, one cup cream, salt and pepper.

Soak split peas overnight in plenty of water to cover. Drain next morning. Combine the five cups of water, peas, tomato juice salt and pepper to taste. Fry onion, which has been minced in two tablespoons of butter or margarine until onion is soft and yellow. Add to first mixture Bring all to boil and simmer about 45 minutes, or until peas are soft. Add more seasoning, if desired. Strain soup to remove pea husks. Add cream and bring again to a boil. Place a dash of paprika on top before serving.

Are You Always Tired?

THE caption of this brief article is such a common complaint that I decided to discuss it with you. Every day a patient will say, "I am so tired, doctor, what can it be?" In the majority of cases nothing serious is found, but on account of the possibilities a casual examination is unwise. Organic and functional ailments must be studied as well as the habits of the individual. Glandular deficiencies, anemia, low blood pressure and focal infections are a few of the conditions, easily discovered, that might well account for this so-called "tired feeling." There are others, of course, and much more serious, but detailed examination is necessary to detect them. A low basal metabolism (glandular deficiency, thyroid) accounts for quite a few of these so-called "tired feelings."

Anemia, low blood pressure and focal infection such as teeth, tonsils, sinus and in the male the prostate gland, are easily detected and give rise to a fair percentage of "tired feeling" in the individual seeking advice about his inability to register much pep.

A lack of outdoors and exercise with dietetic errors which lead to auto-intoxication are the basis for the tired feeling of many folks, and if corrected, add much to their happiness. Chronic constipation with associated intestinal toxemia is a frequent factor.

The habits of the person must be studied. Excessive smoking, drinking and late hours must be taken into account. Indoor work with no exercise, excessive coffee consumption, bolting of food, hard work with long hours, etc., play a very important role in the so-called "tired feeling."

We must remember that a combination of the conditions mentioned may be present. In any event, one can easily see the fallacy of taking vitamins, tonics and what have you, without first being examined, as, for example, glandular deficiency (thyroid) will respond only to thyroid medication. This little hint is only to call attention to the necessity of being examined by your physician rather than rely on haphazard suggestions.

DR. EDWARD WHITE ROBERTSON.

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Tuesday.

THE press this morning reports that Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the American Medical Association Journal, has called President Truman's plan for a national health program "socialized medicine" at its worst. So the American Medical Association will oppose this plan and, I imagine, any other which would really help the nation to have better and more widespread medical care.

At the same time, I notice yesterday's statement by Dr. Claude Robinson, president of the Opinion Research Corporation, who said: "The evidence is irrefutable that the public strongly desires some easier way of paying for medical care. . . . An overwhelming majority of the people (64 per cent) say they personally prefer to pay in advance—more than half are willing to admit they have at some time experienced hardship in meeting medical bills."

UNDER THE PLAN as suggested to Congress, people will have a choice of doctors. As I read it, there is no compulsion, so that those who can afford to remain outside all insurance plans have not changed their situation in the least. They have never needed help to get medical care. This bill is designed to meet the needs of those who have not been able to meet their own needs in the past.

The country needs more doctors, but there will have to be some method by which those who practice in certain areas of the country are assured of a stable income. Otherwise, these areas will continue to be without medical care.

It is inevitable that new ideas always meet opposition. Yet in this particular case, not only do the new ideas have solid backing from many doctors, but the great mass of people affected are going to understand this situation and think of their own interests. Incidentally, these interests coincide with the interests of the nation, because a strong people are essential to a strong nation.

NEW YORK is an interesting city to live in, because you never know where you will meet unusual situations. I was standing with my arms full of bundles waiting to cross the street, the other day, when a lady near me tried to take some of my bundles from me, saking: "May I carry them home for you?"

I insisted they were not heavy and that I was quite able to carry them home myself. Then it occurred to me that that was the type of kindness you expected in a small town, where everyone knows everyone else, but which you hardly expect in a big city like New York. When it happens, it warms your heart. In the same way, if I stand for a long time without being able to get a taxi, sooner or later one is sure to drive up and either the driver or passenger, addressing me by name, will turn out to be old acquaintances who are willing to help out!

Social Problems

By Emily Post

THE alarmed friend of a bride-to-be asks: "How far may a bride carry her wedding plans when she is marrying a man who has been divorced and moreover, is the father of several children? She thinks everything can be the same as though this man had not been married. She plans to announce her engagement, to wear his ring and to have a wedding with all the trimmings. Several of her friends, including myself, think she will be making herself the talk of the town."

The answer to this depends seemingly upon the point of view of the people of her town. And this is, of course, something I don't know. Also I have no idea whether the divorce was scandalous. If her clergyman will permit the marriage in his church, there is no reason why she may not have as big a wedding as she chooses. In any case, she may announce her engagement, wear his ring and be dressed as a bride.

DEAR MRS. POST: I would like to know how many visiting cards my husband and I should have left when we went to call on a husband and wife and the husband's sister and found them not at home.

Answer: If they were strangers upon whom you left your cards for the first time, you should have left two of your own visiting cards and three of your husband's—yours on the two ladies, your husband's card on the two ladies and one gentleman. Ordinarily, you would leave one card of yours and one of your husband's and bend the card in the middle, meaning everyone.

DEAR MRS. POST: When there is a death in the family of a relative, is it proper when sending flowers to sign the card to be inclosed, "John Jones and Family" when the Jones family consists of the father, an unmarried daughter and two married sons?

Answer: Either send Mr. Jones' card alone implying that he represents his family without saying so or inclose all your cards in an envelope.

FINED FOR IMPROPER STORAGE OF INFLAMMABLE MATERIALS

James Liolios, owner of the Jimcraft Venetian Blind Co., 3001 Olive street, was fined $25 by Police Judge Joseph B. Catanzaro today on a charge of permitting a condition at his place of business likely to cause a fire.

Deputy Fire Marshal Edward F. Bowman testified he found cans of inflammable paints and oils improperly stored at the place when he inspected it yesterday. He said he had warned Liolios previously to keep the materials in a metal cabinet.

Liolios, pleading not guilty, said he found it difficult to obtain the metal containers indicated. His shop is on the second floor of a commercial building.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

• Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest, but of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

Dear Martha Carr:

I HAVE been married a number of years. Most of our friends have at least one child. When they come to our house to visit their children jump up and down on the chairs and the couch, and bring drinks of water into the living room and spill it all over the rug and upholstery. One child even took a pencil and scribbled all over the wall paper. That was just too much. Sometimes, nearly distracted, I correct these youngsters myself, since their parents just sit and smile fondly on them no matter how much they damage other people's property. Their parents don't seem to care that I correct the children—the children don't either. They just keep right on keeping on. Shall we quit seeing these old friends, of whom we are really fond, or shall we just let their children finish what they've started and call it a day? When we first married I worked so we could have these nice things we have. I enjoy life and like to entertain but I can't stand much more of this. Am I getting to be just an old meanie, or do children always act like this so it's to be expected? What shall we do?

WONDERING.

Before you pick up someone's young hopeful and toss him playfully out of a third story window or otherwise handle roughly the poor little darling, lay in a supply of toys. Get some picture books, too—but no crayons unless you want your color scheme strangely added to. Then when your friends bring in their youngsters the children will each be handed a toy or a book to engage his attention and should sit happily still and become absorbed in same until time for the fond parents' departure. If this little trick doesn't work either tell your friends you are sorry but the party is for adults only, that the children would be very bored; or change your group of friends and attach yourselves to parents who have better disciplined children, or better still confine your friendships to the childless.

Dear Martha Carr:

MY BOY FRIEND is home on leave and last time he came over to my house we quarreled. So he said he thought it would be better if we just broke up. I had too much pride to make any protest, so we did. Now I am sorry, for I really love him. When he goes back after this leave it will be to four years' overseas service. What shall I do? CHICK.

The obvious thing is for you two to get together again before that leave is over and it is too late. Doubtless by this time the boy friend is as sorry for the quarrel as you are, but if you both remain stubborn you'll get nowhere. Telephone him and ask him to come and talk the matter over. If he refuses you might write him a little note and tell him you are sorry if you said or did anything to offend him, hope he'll call it quits and won't go half way round the world nursing grudges. If he still remains out of humor that's his hard luck. You will at least have tried to keep him from losing a friend.

Dear Martha Carr:

I HAVE been going with a girl from another city. She is a lovely girl and I can't find any fault with her. The trouble is all with me. I am not in love with her and don't care to go with her any longer. But I am in a spot, because she has told me she loves me and I don't want to hurt her. I am not going to be able to see her again for two or three weeks. Do you think I should write her and tell her how I feel or wait till I see her, and continue writing in the meanwhile same as usual? She desn't date anyone else. F. W. W.

Rather than to keep the girl devoted to you waiting eagerly for your next visit and thinking you in love with her, better end the matter now. The sooner the better. Write her a little note, explain that you are able to get over to see her so very seldom that you think it would be better for her not to count on you, that you want her to feel free to date others and enjoy life and some day find someone who will love her as she deserves. Of course, you could simply treat her to absolute silence and not go to see her again. But to write seems a little kinder.

IN ANSWER TO "Mrs. M. P.": I am afraid to budget is your only answer. If you will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope I'll mail you my budget leaflet. Use it as a guide in making out one suited to your own needs, go over it with your husband and see if there haven't been little unexpected leaks here and there which can be done away with. If you still can't make ends meet talk your problem over with one of the workers at Social Security or some other agency. Often they can be of great help in working out matters of this kind resulting in better living for those with small incomes and large families.

Polished Table Tops

By Christopher Billopp

FEW things are more beautiful than polished table tops. But great care must be taken to see that they suffer no blemishes.

A polished table top may be marred by having hot things or wet things placed on it. It may be scratched by a sharp instrument. Sticky hands may smear it.

When such blemishes occur the culprit must be tracked down and justice satisfied. There is nothing more dangerous than a person who imagines he or she can make blemishes on a polished table top with immunity.

There is, however, great difficulty in finding the culprit. A careful inquiry into the movements of all members of the family will reveal that nobody has been anywhere near the table top.

Or, if an admission is wrung from them that they have been near the table top, they will testify on oath that they placed nothing hot on it and nothing wet on it; that all the instruments in their possession are blunt, and that their hands were not sticky.

Weren't they eating molasses taffy in the immediate vicinity of the table? Well, as a matter of fact, they were. But they know their hands were not sticky for they remember distinctly licking their fingers afterward.

Since this line of investigation bears little fruit, attention will be turned to casual visitors to the house who were there for the alleged purpose of cleaning, delivering a package or paying a social call, but who evidently waited for somebody's back to be turned before committing mayhem on the polished table top.

However, unless an investigator wishes to invite stout denials, protests of innocence and bitter indignation on the part of persons suspected or accused, it is advisable to drop the only irrefutable conclusion that it must have been a ghost.

Kindness Is Not Always Best Course

By Elsie Robinson

"JIM is one of the kindest men I know. Why, he wouldn't hurt a fly."

How often have you heard that expression—"wouldn't hurt a fly"—or used it yourself? More times than you can count, and you've believed in it thoroughly, haven't you? Well, why shouldn't you believe in it? Isn't that one of the standards by which we judge character, the conscious effort to avoid hurting others?

Yes, it's a fine thing, being gentle with other people's feelings, and I'd be the last to deny it. But I will not give blanket approval to the practice for, under certain conditions, sparing the feelings of others may eb the most vicious possible habit.

IT'S LARGELY a matter of balance. Suppose you plan to make some change in your life, take some important forward step, and you run up against opposition in the form of your mother's tears because your proposed action will deprive her of your companionship. Or your father is furious because he had hoped all his life that you would follow in his footsteps. Which outweighs the other? Which is more important: your own progress or your mother's complacent comfort, your father's egotistical ambition?

Thousands of careers have been ruined, countless marriages have been wrecked or never even took place, innumerable social reforms were snuffed out before they ever had a chance because of the "hurt feelings" of selfish parents, the envy of political rivals or the ridicule of incompetent professional colleagues.

Certainly there are times when opposition is justified. But true progress cannot afford to wait upon "the other fellow's feelings." Progress is the concern of all mankind; hurt feelings, all too often the indulgence of peevish or cowardly individuals.

Suppose Christ himself had been turned from his purpose by his friends' tears and lack of faith?

WE WOULD still be ignorant barbarians skulking in caves if our ancestors had stifled their ambitions and buried their dreams in deference to the feelings of other members of the tribe. There would have been no great scientific discoveries, no inspired writings, no moral crusades if possessive parents, envious friends, and timid conservatives had had their way.

How can we tell when the step we plan is worth the pain it will cost? We can't always tell. But history shows that there is a Power behind us which can tell, a wisdom which has always lighted the way—if we kept our eyes on the goal.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

THE patrolman strolled up to a drunk who was leaning against a four-story building and remarked pleasantly, "An' phwhat is it yez think yez are doin' there, me buck?"

"Holding up the building," pronounced the drunk solemnly.

"Oh, it is, is it?" laughed the cop. "Well, yez had bitter come with me, me buck, and let the building fall down."

The drunk came with the cop, and the building fell down.

ON THE MORNING of an important recital in London, a famous American violinist stopped in at a small Leicester Square shop and asked the girl for an E string. "Yes, sir," she replied dubiously, and disappeared for several minutes. When she returned, she had in her hand a box full of assorted pieces of cord, string and old rubber bands. "'Ere, sir," she said, you pick hit yourself. I can't tell the 'e string from the she string."

He Lost Five Sons in the War

Four of Chicago Minister's Boys Were Chaplains, Fifth Choir Director

By Al Grace

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.

NOW that this war is over, the Rev. Dr. Amos Ligon, 59, has returned to the more certain ways of peacetime living.

This involves regular instruction in the way of the Bible for his registered congregation of 200 Negroes at the Lily of the Valley Baptist church on Chicago's South Side. During his spare time, he teaches at the Illinois Theological Seminary.

Only a few years ago, this schedule was varied by personal attention to the theological progress being made by his five sons. That was before all entered the armed forces, however. Now there are none to guide in his footsteps.

All—four chaplains and a choir director—were killed in action.

Amos Jr. was the first to die. He was killed in Italy Nov. 7, 1942, just nine days before his thirty-fifth birthday.

Raymond Clyde, 34, went down with a torpedoed ship en route to the Pacific on March 4, 1944.

Twelve days later, aboard another transport headed for the Pacific campaign, Rev. James Ligon, 33, met his death.

On May 15 of that year, the Negro minister's fourth chaplain son, William Anderson Ligon, 32, was killed in the Italian campaign.

Six days after that, the son whose love for the way of the Lord led him into music instead of the ministry, died during an air raid in England. With the death of this boy, John D. Ligon, his hope of remaining a choir director in the service of God on this earth was ended.

The Ligon sons inherited the love for their God and their country from their father. He served as chaplain of the Ninth and Tenth Cavalries in the Philippines in 1903 and 1909. In World War I he saw action with the 169th Infantry Division in France.

Born in Cairo, Ill., the Rev. Dr. Ligon likes to relate that he first got around to teaching the Gospel when he was nine. "My grandfather was a minister," he explains.

After a period of service in the evangelical field, he was given his first pastorate at the age of 17. He acquired his D.D. and Ph.D. at Illinois Theological seminary and was given his first Chicago pastorate assignment at the Rock of Ages Baptist church in 1928. He has been with the Lily of the Valley congregation since 1935.

"Amos, Raymond, James and William," he recalls, "started out for the ministry in their young days. They didn't care much for playing with the other boys. They'd sooner get themselves a little crowd and start in preaching.

"They would preach all the time. When I would go out on tour of revivals, they would come along and lend a hand. They lived in this teaching all of their young lives, so it wasn't long before they were ready to go out on their own. I personally ordained them."

JOHN showed as much interest in the ministry, the Rev. Ligon asserted, "but he seemed to be born into hymns more than the Gospel. He wanted a choir of his own. That's what he wanted to do and that's what he did all his young life until he died."

Once the five brothers got into service, they gloried in their work and seldom wrote of anything but how, in this way, "we will be able to win final victory," their father said. Apparently, he added, none had thought about not returning to his peaceful way of life. They made no mention of that in their letters.

While they were away Dr. Ligon did his share on the home front, in addition to the church work. He put in several hours daily on work benches in the United States Army Quartermaster depot here.

Now, aside from memories, Dr. Ligon's sole connection with the armed forces lies in a step-son, William, who is in the Navy. He also has his five daughters (four others had died) and fond recollections of a testimonial program staged in memory of his sons and in his honor recently by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The sponsors and guest speakers said some fine things about Dr. Ligon's sacrifices. He sees the deaths of his five boys in this light:

"I hope that the supreme sacrifice of my boys and all the other boys will make it possible for those who returned to enjoy the fruits of the democracy for which so much blood was spilled.

"Every man who leaves his home, job and security for a battle-front should, when he returns, be entitled to freedom and happiness and peace, the kind of peace that should come to all mankind."

THE REV. DR. AMOS LIGON, LEFT, WITH OSCAR BROWN, PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE, AT A PROGRAM IN CHICAGO HONORING THE MEMORY OF FIVE SONS OF DR. LIGON LOST IN ACTION IN WORLD WAR II. FOUR WERE CHAPLAINS. DR. LIGON HIMSELF SERVED AS A CHAPLAIN IN THE PHILIPPINES IN 1903 AND 1909.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

"Proletariat" — Accent on Offspring.

THE economist Henry George once described the proletariat as being that segment of the population that was so poverty stricken that it possessed nothing it could sell but its votes!

In a sense, that disparaging comment was part of the inheritance of the word. All through history, the proletariat and poverty had been associated. But that was not the whole story—the most surprising angle in the story of this word is not yet told.

"Proletariat" is rooted in the Latin proles meaning "offspring." The word has come down to us from ancient Rome where the proletariat was regarded as the lowest class in the community, because while other citizens served the state with their property, the proletariat contributed nothing but their offspring! Hence the use of the term was tinged with contempt and it was applied in hostile or sneering vein.

In the English language, "proletariat" was at first used in its original sense of the lowest level in the community and about in the same spirit as in ancient times. Later it came to signify simply those who had no material reserves to fall back on, who were dependent for their subsistence on daily labor, the so-called "working classes."

Your Stars -o- By Marion Drew

WHAT TO EXPECT TOMORROW

Sun in Sagittarius.

General Tendencies— Tomorrow should be a pleasant day, perhaps better for domestic affairs and old friendships than for lively business events. It hardly seems the right time for romances, but maybe, if you have your eye on someone much older than yourself, you can accomplish something in this field, too. The most easily noticed trends are toward governmental matters or welfare work and, late in the day, something successful in the way of finances. On the whole, fairly pleasant, don't you think?

If Tomorrow Is Your Birthday.

Your coming 12 months seem to hold stimulus for the affections in spite of the delays to be felt all during this Winter and the early Spring of 1946. Don't let any discouragement creep into your attitude toward life, because a kindly attitude under this year's responsibilities will lead to great rewards. Probably you will have to wait another year before you find your dreams coming true; don't try to hurry matters in 1946, therefore.

Tomorrow's Watchword — So many people tell me that I quote from "Pagan" philosophers—well, most people are supposed to know Christian tents and can find them easily if they will seek or knock at the gate, as Jesus said. We do not always read about the philosophy of Tibet, however, so let me add this: "Whatever happiness is in the world has all arisen from a wish for the welfare of others. Whatever misery there is has arisen from indulging selfishness." Surely, no Christian could object to that thought.

The basic flavor of the onion, brown butter and peas can be the foundation for many a tempting dish.

My Neighbor Says:

Rhododendrons and mountain laurel should have plenty of moisture at their roots when the ground freezes, because they send off a great amount of moisture through their broad leaves.

Crabmeat in Ramekins

Three cups crabmeat, canned or fresh, three eggs, one and one-half cups soft bread crumbs, one cup milk, one and one-half teaspoons salt, three tablespoons butter or margarine, six tablespoons cheese.

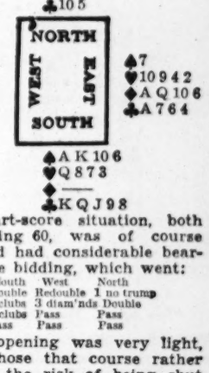
Flake crabmeat. Add unbeaten eggs, crumbs, milk, salt and soft butter or margarine. Mix well and turn into a casserole or ramekins. Sprinkle with grated cheese and bake at 325 degrees 45 minutes.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

THE extremely short-sighted opening lead in today's deal was responsible for quite a "swing."

East, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Both sides 60 on score.



The part-score situation, both sides having 60, was of course tense, and had considerable bearing on the bidding, which went:

East	South	West	North
1 diamond	Double	Redouble	1 no trump
Pass	2 clubs	3 diam'nds	Double
Pass	4 clubs	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

East's opening was very light, but he chose that course rather than run the risk of being shut out of the bidding altogether. South's takeout double was logical enough, on the score. West might as well have made his shutout effort then and there instead of on the next round—his redouble was pointless. Finally, South should have left in his partner's double of three diamonds, although good play by East would have made the penalty negligible.

Again four clubs doubled, West summarily decided that the best defense was to try for a heart ruff. Hence, he laid down the heart ace and, despite East's highly significant play of the deuce—a play that demanded a shift, which could only be to diamonds — autocratically continued with hearts. The king won, and when a trump was led East duly hopped up with the ace and returned a heart—giving co-operation where he had received none—but West's cherished heart ruff did exactly no good! Now declarer ruffed West's diamond lead, drew trumps, and after carefully counting the obvious distribution of the East hand, coolly finessed to the eight of spades! East had shown four hearts and four clubs, and he had bid diamonds; hence, he was marked with a singleton spade, at most.

Thus, the doubled contract was fulfilled because of West's insistence on ruffing a heart. Had he led, or shifted to, a diamond, as he so obviously should have, the story would have had quite a different ending!

When pruning twigs, do so just above the bud. Never leave a long stub.

"I've got a job!"
● A brand new telephone operator... that's me. Just started today.
Like it? Yes, indeed...especially one thing...everybody is so friendly. I felt at home right away. It's a nice clean place to work, too; pleasant surroundings, and the switchboard is really fascinating. I'm going to enjoy working for the telephone company.
And here's a tip, if you're looking for a job. More operators are needed right now. Experience isn't necessary because you learn as you go along.
